Miss Newbegin Is Engaged to Mr. Crichton

By Helen H. Hutchison

ANNOUNCEMENT was made today of the engagement of Miss Ellyn Anne Newbegin to Ernest Wyland Crichton. The news was told at a smart luncheon given by the bride-elect at Forest hall honoring Mrs. Hans Lemcke of California and Mrs. Charles Neighbors of Indianapolis, Ind., who are visitors in the city for the summer months. Miss Newbegin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Newbegin of 400 Holladay avenue. She was graduated from St. Helens Hall and later finished at a school in California. She is a granddaughter of the late R. M. Wade.

Mr. Crichton is the son of Mrs. Anna Crichton and the late Captain Ernest W. Crichton. He is a brother of Mrs. James M. Ambrose of Portland and is engaged in exporting and importing business here.

For the luncheon the tables were placed for 17 guests. Vari-hued summer blossoms were used for decorations and the betrothal cards were held by dainty birds resting upon the water glasses. Guests for the occasion included Miss Louise Corbin, Miss Jean Buswell, Miss Jeannet Wiggins, Miss Marjorie Pattee, Mrs. Charles Neighbors, Mrs. Hans Lemcke, Mrs. Gillis C. Kellaher, Mrs. Robert Graham Fithian, Mrs. James M. Ambrose, Mrs. Edward Valentine, Mrs. James T. Johnson, Mrs. Brooks Howarth, Mrs. Anna Crichton and Mrs. Edward Newbegin.

One Out of Three Goes to Movie Once Each Week

Out of every three persons in the United States, one goes to a motion picture show every week, or 52 times a year. Put in another way, the average weekly attendance at the movie theatres of the country is now 35,000,000. These figures were gathered by the New York Association of Motion Picture Advertisers direct from the theatres of the country. Further analysis by the association showed that the weight leaned heavily on the feminine side of the scale.

Raleigh Back in Columbia Office

WITH Ralph Ruffner dispatched to the Seattle branch of the Jensen & Von Herberg organization, and Al C. Raleigh again as manager of the local Columbia, with advertising and publicity for the Peoples and Majestic on the side, local cinema affairs are settling down for the summer.

Ruffner, formerly at the Liberty here, later in San Francisco, still later in New York with the publicity department of Famous Players, and for the last two months looking after publicity and advertising for the Peoples, Star and Majestic, is scheduled to take care of the Strand theatre in Seattle.

Raleigh, who has been testing for a month, will maintain an office in the Liberty building, in addition to the Columbia sanctum, where Frank Hamburger will also hold forth for the time being.

If, by the way, anyone has an iron pulley he isn't using he might be able to make a dicker with Raleigh; who is in need of one for the ventilating system at the Columbia. It hasn't been working just right, and if the necessary piece of machinery is not forthcoming soon, Raleigh may have to turn in and cast one, and he is just versatile enough to be able to do it.

McAdoos Living in Actor's Old Home

Huntington, L. I., July 7.—This summer resort town is all afluttter because Mr. and Mrs. William G. McAdoo and family are now residents here. They have moved into the former home of William Faversham, the actor.

Huntington is so much interested in the affair of the McAdoos that almost every resident is willing to conduct a stranger to the hedges surrounding the close-clipped lawn and proudly point to the weather-beaten house on the terrace. The taxi man at the railroad station will tell you that it is about "$2 ride" to the Faversham estate and will spin some local boasts on the way out, winding up with the proudest boast of the settlement that "the McAdoos live here now."

THE Stroller Notices

THAT the shady side of the streetcar is the popular side these days.

That we remember that one wet, cold day last winter there was a fine large open car running out on the R. C. P. line.

That we haven't seen it since.

That the comfort stations down in the North Park block will soon be finished.

That it's about time.

That the moonshine still shines on the moonshine still.

That Paris reports that perfume will soon be selling at $1 a drop.

That at that rate we won't be able to buy a smell.

That the bubbling fountains are particularly popular these days.

That many young women are wearing socks.

That you can tell it when they board a streetcar.

That fathers will do well to hang onto their hose supporters.

That mosquitoes are fierce.

In reply to our recent comment about people who wipe their knives and forks and spoons with a napkin when they eat downtown, one lunch room proprietor advises us that all silverware, dishes, glassware and even the trays used in his place are washed in soapsuds of 200 degrees Fahrenheit, and all we have to say is we're glad we don't have to wipe dishes down there.

Portland Gets Behind Move of Board

By Velia Winner

THE strength of Portland's civic and state organizations was placed behind the public health nursing program of the state board of health when a committee for this purpose was formed Tuesday afternoon. Dr. David N. Roberg, state health officer, presided at the meeting wherein this action was taken.

The objects of the committee were stated by Miss Jane C. Allen, state advisory nurse, as follows: "The encouragement and extension of public health nursing throughout the state; aiding the coordination of public health nursing activities and agencies, assisting in the proper distribution of nurses; encouraging and aiding in providing improved and increased facilities for the education of public health nurses; promotion of the use among public health nurses of all available resources for help; aiding in informing the public as to the nature, scope and power standards of public health nursing; initiating or supporting necessary state legislation for the promotion of public health nursing.

Representatives of health agencies present, who expressed their approval of the plan, included: Mrs. Grace Harrington, Miss Jane Doyle and Miss Charlotte Ewing of the Red Cross; Mrs. Robert G. Dieck, Mrs. Robert J. Marsh and Miss Marion Crowe of the Visiting Nurse association; Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar of the Oregon Tuberculosis association; Dr. George Rebec of the school of social work of the University of Oregon; Miss Frances Ellis of the state board of examining nurses; Miss Mary Campbell of the Open Air sanitarium; Miss Helen Hartley of the state bureau of nursing, Mrs. E. E. Fisher of the Marion County Infant Welfare society.

The following organizations will be asked to name two representatives as members of this committee: State board of health, State Tuberculosis association, American Red Cross, National Organization of Public Health Nurses, State Graduate Nurses association, the press, the public, Portland Visiting Nurse association, state board of examining nurses, school of social work and extension department of the University of Oregon, Portland health bureau, State Public Health Nurses association. Agencies which will be asked to cooperate with this committee are: State Medical association, United States Public Health Service, University of Oregon Medical school, State Chamber of Commerce, State Parent-Teacher association, Oregon Federation of Women's clubs, Oregon Social Hygiene society, State Federation of Labor, State Grange, W. C. T. U.

Miss Jane Doycle was made chairman of the committee to nominate representatives and Miss Helen Hartley was made chairman of the organization committee. The next meeting will be held July 22.

The women attending the summer school of the University of Oregon have organized a league and Miss Myrtle Copenhaver has been elected president. Mrs. W. M. Mochel is secretary. The object of the league is to make the women feel that they are a part of the university and are responsible for the Oregon spirit. At the banquet held at Friedly hall Thursday evening, at which time the league was perfected, Dean Elizabeth Fox spoke for the faculty. Louis Davis, told the women about the women's league and its work during the regular school year; Miss Dunlap told what Oregon meant to all; Miss Holt, who spoke of what Oregon meant to an alumna, and Miss Hazel Radabough gave some suggestions for social affairs this summer. Miss Elizabeth Halsey, also of the summer school faculty physical education department, praised the spirit of hospitality and cooperation which she said she found among the Western people.

Mrs. Saidie Orr Dunbar, executive secretary of the Oregon Tuberculosis association is in Yakima attending the annual meeting of the Washington Tuberculosis association, at which she will speak on "Open Air Schools."

DANCING TAUGHT

ALL NEW JAZZ STEPS AND POPULAR DANCES taught in 8 three-hour lessons. Ladies $5, gentlemen $6, at De Honey's beautiful academy, 23d and Washington. Beginners' classes start Monday and Thursday eve., advanced classes Tuesday eve., 8 to 11:30. Plenty of desirable partners and practice. No embarrassment. Separate hall and extra teachers for backward pupils. A printed description of all dances free. The social features alone is worth double the price. You can never become a dancer in private lessons from inferior teachers—you must have practice. Join a real school with professional instructors (not a public dance hall). Ask the patrons of any dancing party, and they will tell you, if they learned in Portland, it was at De Honey's academy (which is the only real dancing school in Portland), and that Mr. De Honey has absolutely no equal in the West in stage or ball room dancing. No doubt one lesson from us is worth six in the average so-called school. Phone Main 7656. Private lessons all hours.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Old Man Coyote Postpones Dining

By Thornton W. Burgess

Don't win a battle till you've fought it,
Or eat a dinner till you've caught it.
—Old Man Coyote.

TO POSTPONE is to put over to another time. Old Man Coyote hadn't the least intention of postponing his dinner, but he did postpone it. He postponed it because—well, if the truth be known, he postponed it because he had to.

You remember how shrewdly he had guessed that if Peter Rabbit left his hiding-place he would go up the bank of the Laughing Brook, and how artfully he had circled around and hidden to wait for Peter. Peter had done exactly as Old Man Coyote had thought he would. He had kept still just as long as he could, and then he had started to steal away up the bank of the Laughing Brook. Though Peter had tiptoed very carefully, Old Man Coyote's keen ears had caught faint sounds that had warned him of Peter's approach and he had begun to grin. When at last Peter hopped out from a clump of ferns just a few feet away and right in front of him Old Man Coyote was grinning so that he showed all his long, sharp teeth.

No wonder he grinned. Here was the nicest kind of a dinner actually hopping right into his mouth. Anyway, that is how it seemed. Old Man Coyote saw the fear and horror that leaped into Peter's eyes as he discovered those two rows of grinning teeth just a few feet away.

Old Man Coyote chuckled to himself. "He'll dodge and run, but I'll have him in three jumps," thought he. "He is too badly scared to use his wits. It will be no work at all to catch him."

Just imagine how surprised Old Man Coyote was when, instead of dodging, Peter made a long jump straight toward him. Old Man Coyote blinked and his grin grew broader than ever. "He is so scared he doesn't know what he is doing. It looks as if I will have to watch out that he doesn't jump right down my throat and choke me," thought Old Man Coyote.

Then, as Peter again jumped toward him, Old Man Coyote sprang to meet him, his jaws set to seize Peter in those long, sharp teeth and make an end of him. But when those jaws came together Peter wasn't between them. No, sir, Peter wasn't between them. They snapped together on nothing at all. And Old Man Coyote's paws came down on nothing. That is, they came down on nothing but the ground. Peter Rabbit had vanished. Yes, sir, Peter Rabbit had disappeared as completely as if some good fairy had suddenly made him invisible.

Of course, nothing of this kind had happened. Such things never do happen outside of stories. Peter had disappeared, but the only fairies that had anything to do with it were his own quick wits. Frightened as he was when he had discovered Old Man Coyote lying in wait for him, he had seen in the same instant a hole in the ground just a little in front of Old Man Coyote, and his wits had told him that there was the only place where he could hope to find safety. He hadn't hesitated a second. It had looked as if he was jumping straight into Old Man Coyote's mouth, when really he was jumping out of it.

He had gone head first down that hole as Old Man Coyote's jaws snapped together just too late.

It had been a close call. He had started that second jump just a wee bit before Old Man Coyote had sprung, and that wee bit had been just enough and no more. He had gone head first down that hole as Old Man Coyote's jaws had snapped together just too late.

FURS AND MYSTERY

By N. M. Ungar

Kolinsky is a small and rather handsome fur-bearer resembling the American Mink, or European Marten, and is known abroad as Siberian Sable, Tartar Sable and Siberian Marten.

The fur, however, is unlike that of either the Sable or Marten, being shorter, harsher and lighter in tint than that of the Sables, the general color being a bright golden handsome shade of yellow, or brownish yellow, quite uniform in tone on all parts of the body.

Kolinsky is made up natural or dyed Mink color, or much darker shades of brown. The best skins are found in Kola, Russia, while large numbers are obtained in China.

One of the many beautiful features of Kolinsky are the tails, which are used extensively in trimming capes, coats and stoles, either natural or when split and used flat.

Like all other furs of quality, Kolinsky is imitated by cheaper and inferior furs of various kinds, such as rabbit, hare, etc.

It is therefore an important thing that you buy your Kolinsky cape or coat in a store of established reliability if you would really get the fur of the little Asiatic animal and not the skins of its lowly imitators.

Another chance one takes in dealing with a furrier without reputation, is that one must depend entirely upon the dealer's word, for he has no other way of knowing whether the fur in question is of the finer Russian grade, or of the poorer quality from China—if it should happen to be a genuine Kolinsky at all. Which emphasizes once more the great necessity to—
