

SENATOR EDDY IS HERE LOOKING FOR A COUPLA' VOTES

Senator B. L. Eddy of Douglas county, who harbors an active desire to be president of the state senate when that body convenes in January next, plans to harvest an additional vote or two while he is in Portland today.

The Southern Oregon senator, who is presumed to have some 8 or 10 promised votes already garnered and stored against that rainy day when he will need them, is in Portland today to meet some of the boys from Multnomah county and elsewhere, to talk things over and line them up if possible. The meeting was to have been held at the Imperial, but the locus quo, as Judge Crawford would put it, has been shifted to the Mallory, which stands enough removed from the roar of the political current so the senator and his guests may talk in normal and confidential tones. At least, that is what gossip tells of the plans now made.

EASTERN OREGON PLANS

In spite of the fact that presidential candidates and national platforms have a little bit obscured the political scene, the senators and representatives of the Oregon legislature, both the elects and the hangers-on, have not forgotten that the 1921 assembly has got to meet, organize and do business. And, in the shadow of the conventions, new angles have developed in the organization fight.

It has been taken for granted, generally speaking, that the main event would be fought out between Senator Eddy and Senator Ritner for the presidency of the senate, and between L. E. Bean of Lane and Thomas E. Kay of Marion for the speakership of the house. It has been understood, also generally, that Eddy has been in the leading position, with 8 or 10 votes pretty well tied up to him, while Ritner has so far mustered five or six, and W. W. Banks about three, including himself. It requires 16 votes to elect.

It has also been supposed, or at least reported, that the Eastern Oregon delegations had banded together informally to back the Ritner candidacy. There is an underlying sentiment among Eastern Oregon members of the house that the section east of the mountains is entitled this time to the speakership, a dormant belief which would not seem to make the Ritner support of the last ditch variety.

TIME FOR PAT TO APPEAR

The prevailing rumor that Eddy has the lead in the senate fight has irrigated the Eastern Oregon speakership germ until it is almost a certainty for Pat Gallagher of Malheur county to bloom as an out and out Eastern Oregon candidate for the gavel job in the house. There are those among the Multnomah house delegation, and probably in the senate, too, whose milk of political kindness sours every time they think of Marion county, or a Marion county candidate for the speakership. They would rather tie up with Eastern Oregon than with any Marion county candidate, a state of mind which does not tend to put Tom Kay's speakership stock at a premium.

Moreover, should Eddy hold his leadership in the senate race, that fact would have its reflex on the candidacy of Bean for the speakership, on the theory that the two presiding officers ought not both to be put in the political basket of the Willamette valley.

SPAR FOR POSITION

So, it begins to look like Pat Gallagher, or some other aspirant for the speakership, was about to come out of the East, something which would change the face of the organization contest quite a little bit. The Eddy conference at the Mallory, or wherever it may be held, will have more than a little to do with the course of future events. If he has 8 or 10 votes pledged, as is contended, and can pick up two or three more, he will not have far to go to get the 16 needed for election, for, aside from the Ritner and Banks nuclei, the remainder of the senate membership is unpledged and waiting for the bandwagon. And, should the Eddy bandwagon prove in sight, Eastern Oregon will forget the presidency of the senate and start a drive for the speakership, which, with the aid and comfort seemingly available in the Multnomah delegation, might easily assume very respectable proportions.

JAPS TO OPERATE BIG DALLES TRACT

Word reached the Portland fruit trade Tuesday that the orchard of George Webb at The Dalles, one of the finest in the entire state, had been leased to Japanese interests. This orchard consists of about 550 acres of bearing fruit.

San Francisco, July 21.—(U. P.)—Chairman Albert Johnson of the house committee on immigration Tuesday called upon the people of California to be patient a little longer until a solution of the Japanese exclusion problem has been reached. "I feel assured," said Johnson during the examination of Thomas W. McManus of the American Legion, "that the ex-service men of California will do all within their power to prevent violence until this legislation has been passed." McManus, who is a member of the Legion's national committee on Oriental legislation, read a resolution adopted by ex-service men and submitted to the house committee. The resolution demanded "immediate action" by the committee on violations of the "gentlemen's agreement" with Japan in California and Hawaii. "Will you tell your committee," he said, "that it is not the usual thing to submit demands to the congress of the United States? You will please tell them in future to request, and not demand, action of congress."

Chairman Johnson settled what promised to be a show of high feeling by saying: "All this will be ruled out of order."

Veteran, Japanese, Not Allowed Vote

Sacramento, Cal., July 21.—(U. P.)—Ichiso Sato, Japanese, who served in the American army during the war, was denied the right to vote here today by Superior Judge Busick, although the federal court of Hawaii had granted him citizenship. Judge Busick held that an act giving citizenship to aliens who served in the army of the United States during the war could not be used to grant citizenship to Orientals.

The Private Office Discarded

Not so very long ago it was customary for bank officials to have their private offices away from the general banking room. The First National Bank changed from this order about ten years ago, realizing that the customers' accessibility to the managing heads was a form of modern service that was rightfully due its customers.

We invite you to notice, the next time you are in the First National, how easy it is to speak to any of the officials of the bank with whom you desire conversation.
