Smart Tea Given in Honor of Mrs. Knapp

By Helen H. Hatchison

MRS. F. C. KNAPP and her daughter, Miss Florence Knapp, entertained Thursday afternoon, at a smart tea, at their attractive home in Columbia boulevard, honoring Mrs. Addison P. Knapp (Margaret Marvin), whose marriage was a recent event of social interest in the city. An artistic combination of maple leaves with palms and summer blossoms, arranged in baskets, decorated the wide verandas of the Knapp home. Sweetpeas were used throughout the rooms and as a centerpiece for the tea table.

Mrs. Knapp, her daughter, and the guest of honor were assisted in receiving by their house guests, Miss Charlotte Sabin of Michigan. Assisting about the rooms and with the serving at the tea were the Misses Dorothy Stine, Elizabeth Dicks, Dorothy McGuire, Genevieve Shaver, Margaret Tompkins, Marie Michener, Mildred Broughton and Lucile Evans. Mrs. Arthur Kerron and Mrs. Harvey Fenner presided at the table during the early afternoon, and Mrs. Charles Thomas and Mrs. Gustave E. Brunder during the later afternoon. A stringed orchestra played during the afternoon for the pleasure of the guests, and more than 125 guests called during the afternoon to greet the guest of honor.

News has been received in Portland of the engagement of Miss Florence Knapp to Arthur Bell of New York city. Miss Knapp is a prominent social figure in Portland with women's advertising activities and was the first president of the Women's Advertising club in this city. She is now associated with the Borden's Milk company headquarters in New York. Mr. Bell is a young importer and distributor of business in the East. Following their marriage in January, Mr. Bell and his bride expect to make their home in Ridgeview, N. J., where he is building a home.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, July 22.—The closing social event of the summer season will be a benefit dance for women of Corvallis, in the men's gymnasium Friday evening. It will follow a musical recital given by the students of the school of music, assisted by Mrs. George Sabin of Corvallis, lyric soprano; Genevieve Baum-Gaskin, in charge of the school of music in the absence of W. F. Gaskin, director, and Gustaf Dundeberg, head of the piano department.

Mrs. Carleton Walter Betts (Ruth Tea) was hostess for a luncheon of 12 covers Wednesday at the home of her mother, Mrs. Joseph M. Teal, in Clair street, honoring a group of out of town visitors. Thursday, Mrs. Betts and her aunt, Miss Genevieve Thompson, presided at an informal luncheon honoring Miss Thompson's house guest, Miss Ann Buxton of North Carolina, who is here for a short time.

Interesting visitors in the city are Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Calvin and Miss Nell Calvin of Omaha, who are stopping at the Benson until Saturday. The visitors were guests of honor, Wednesday, on a motor trip out Columbia river highway, for which Mr. and Mrs. J. P. O'Brien were hosts. Mr. Calvin is vice president of the Union Pacific system.

Mrs. Lloyd R. Smith, was hostess for a tea, Thursday afternoon, honoring Miss Marjorie Campbell, whose engagement to Wilson Coffey was recently announced. About 30 guests called during the afternoon, and at the tea hour Mrs. Elliott R. Corbett and Mrs. Maxwell H. Houser presided at the tea table.

Miss Dorothy Effinger of Berkeley, Cal., who is a visitor in the city this week at the home of Mrs. Lewis A. McArthur, was guest of honor, Wednesday, at an informal picnic. The party included: Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Beebe, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Beebe, Mr. and Mrs. McArthur, Miss Effinger and George McKennie.

Mrs. James Russell and daughter, Miss Margaret Russell, of Denver, Colo., who have been visiting in Portland on their way home from Alaska, are visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Lee Patterson, at their home near Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Blasier (Echo Wintermeier) of Eugene, are guests at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wintermeier. Mr. and Mrs. Blasier expect to leave soon on a motor trip to California.

Dr. Emil Enna with Charles South and Professor F. F. Brumbaugh of Corvallis, who has spent the past three weeks on a fishing trip in the Oregon coast mountains, has returned to the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams are expected to arrive in the city, Saturday, after an extended trip through the East. They left Chicago Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Anna Flynn Hunt of this city was a recent visitor in Albany at the home of her sisters, Mrs. A. C. Schmitz and Mrs. W. A. Barrett.

Scout Young auxiliary No. 3, United Spanish War Veterans, will give a "500" party at room 525 courthouse, Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Betsy Rose tent No. 1, Daughters of Veterans, will meet in room 525 courthouse at 8 o'clock tonight.

Mrs. Antoine G. Labbe has been spending the week at the beach and returned to Portland, Thursday.

Miss Jeannette Wiggins will leave the city, Friday, to spend a few weeks at Hood River.

Mrs. J. L. French is a visitor in Eugene at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. McDonald.

'War' Isn't Over For R. Warwick

After the war was over, Robert Warwick walked into a film office in his uniform, his overseas cap, and his Sam Browne belt, and smilingly signed an advantageous contract with Famous Players-Lasky for $3000 a week. Now he is suing that company for $25,000, for alleged violation of contract. The story goes that Warwick's pictures failed to get over in proportion to the salary he received. The powers of Paramount offered him an alternative:

MRS. WILLIAM HENRY KOENIGS, who was Miss Ruth Cleveland Nunna of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Koenigs will make their home here.

Mitchell Lewis In Auto Crash

Mitchell Lewis, featured player of the Jack London stories, made by C. E. Shurtliff, Inc., which Metro is releasing, is lacking one complete automobile because of the activities of a flivver, driver unknown. Mr. Lewis says that he was driving to the Metro studios in Hollywood when a toy machine suddenly loomed up from nowhere and blocked his way. He drove around it, but into a second machine, with the result that his own was carried against the curb and overturned.

He was not hurt. Lewis is completing his work before the camera as a featured player in the all-star production of "The Mutiny of the Elsinore," which was adapted from Jack London's novel by A. S. Le Vain and directed by Edward S. Loman.

That another nice thing about not owning an automobile is that we don't have to worry about the gas shortage.

That the L. W. is not particularly keen about talking over the telephone during a lightning storm.

That there are many others just like her in that respect.

That barring an afternoon shower now and then some women are finding the days quite hot enough to wear their furs.

We have never seen an international yacht race in our life, and we don't know that we care until the rules of the game are amended so that the first boat to cross the line shall be the winner. Otherwise, where's the thrill?

The other noon a friend took us to luncheon.

At a place where they have chairs in everything.

The food was all right, but they seem to specialize in silverware.

And among those present was a well known local merchant prince who has so much money that his children never speak to him except on business.

The silverware bothered him.

He kept his eye on us to see which fork we were going to use next.

But we fooled him.

And used the same one all the time.

The Answer Column

Beasts—It was Lillian (not Dorothy) Gish who had the leading feminine role in D. W. Griffith's "The Greatest Question." Robert Harron played opposite her. Harron is 26 years old and was born in New York city. He began his career in the movies as an errand boy, leaving school at the age of 14.

Grace—Irvine Cobb has been writing for the movies, but he has not decided to give up his literary work to become a film actor. However, he with several writers covering the Democratic convention did take part in a motion picture playlet directed by Marshall Delian at San Francisco recently. The playlet was a burlesque of Nollan's new feature picture, "Go and Get It," based on a newspaper story.

Brown Eyes—H. B. Warner's full name is Henry Byron Warner, and he's 44 years old. You can reach him at J. D. Hampton Productions, Hollywood, Cal. Rita Stanwood is his wife. Anita Stewart is married and her husband is Rudolph Cameron.

Old Subscriber—Somebody's been kidding you. Gail Henry is a woman, not a boy, and Anita Stewart has no children in Spain—nor anywhere else. The fat boy who appeared with Charlie Chaplin in "Sunshine" is Tommy Woods of Brainerd, Minn. He weighs 400 pounds.

Joel—Sessue Hayakawa was born in Tokyo, Japan. Bill Hart has not retired from the screen.

Fanny—Jewel Carmen had the leading feminine role opposite William Frawley in "A Tale of Two Cities." Lillian Gish was the girl in "The Greatest Question." Herbert Hayes and Anna Q. Nilsson had the leading roles in the Rex Beach "Heart of the Sunset."

Art—Elliott Dexter is the husband of Marie Doro. He was born in Houston, Texas, and has been in stock and production on the stage before he entered pictures with old Triangle. After an absence from the screen for nearly a year following a nervous breakdown he has returned to the fold again and will soon be seen in a new Cecil De Mille film.

Robbie—Eddie Fole is still playing in pictures, his latest universal serial being "The Vanishing Dagger." Sounds thrilling, doesn't it? Lou Tellegen is Gertrude Farrar's husband.

BURGESS' BEDTIME STORIES

Mrs. Peter Is Very Mysterious

By Thornton W. Burgess
A mystery is off perplexing. And sometimes proves to be most vexing. Peter Rabbit, who had just begun his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky as Peter Rabbit approached the dear Old Briar-patch. Peter was acting rather queerly. Every few steps he stopped and studied the dear Old Briar-patch. Had you been there you might have thought from Peter's actions that he suspected an enemy might be in hiding there waiting for him. Certainly Peter acted as if he were afraid.

The truth is, Peter was afraid. He wasn't afraid of an enemy. No, it wasn't that. But just the same Peter was afraid. Peter was afraid to go home. You see, Peter had been gone two whole days and nights, and he had a very guilty feeling. A guilty feeling, you know, will make even the bravest afraid. Peter was afraid to face Mrs. Peter.

Instead of hopping boldly in along one of his private little paths out through the brambles of the dear Old Briar-patch, he sidestepped about. He hopped over to a patch of sweet clover and tried to eat some. But somehow he had no appetite for sweet clover. Every minute or so he turned to see if Mrs. Peter was about. All the time he was trying to think of a really good excuse to offer Mrs. Peter.

Peter knew that he richly deserved all the sharp things little Mrs. Peter could say. He knew that nothing could excuse him for leaving Mrs. Peter to worry alone there in the dear Old Briar-patch for so long. He knew that it was nothing but selfishness, pure selfishness, that had kept him away so long. He had stayed because he had been having a hard time.

But though Peter waited and waited, little Mrs. Peter didn't appear. After a while Peter began to worry. Could it be that something dreadful had happened to little Mrs. Peter while he had been away? Could it be that she had grown tired of being left alone and had gone back to her old home up in the dear Old Briar-patch? Peter doesn't often worry, but he worried now. Pretty soon the fear that he might not find little Mrs. Peter became greater than the fear of her sharp tongue.

Now, little Mrs. Peter had certain favorite places where she liked to sit in the dear Old Briar-patch. Peter hurried from one to another of these favorite places, but nowhere did he find so much as a trace of little Mrs. Peter. By this time he was sure that the worst had happened. He forgot all his guilty feelings. He had just one thought and that was to find Mrs. Peter. And so he rushed about through the dear Old Briar-patch in quite a crazy way.

All of a sudden in a part of the dear Old Briar-patch which Peter and Mrs. Peter seldom used, Mrs. Peter stepped out from behind a huckleberry bush. At sight of her all Peter's worries left him. It was such a relief to see her

"Oh, Peter!" she cried. "Oh, Peter! I've got something to show you."

That he felt quite willing to listen to all the sharp things she would say. But little Mrs. Peter didn't say any sharp things. She didn't even ask him where he had been. Her eyes were shining with the softest, loveliest light in the world. "Oh, Peter!" she cried. "Oh, Peter! I've got something to show you, but don't make a bit of noise. Don't make the leastest, weeniest bit of noise. Wait here just a minute and then I'll show you what I've got."

Peter sat down and blinked. What did this mean? Mrs. Peter was very mysterious; he simply didn't understand her at all.
