

Y. W. C. A. Girls Are Having Very Enjoyable Time

PORTLAND girls who are spending their vacation at the Y. W. C. A. camp at Gearhart have been having a gay week, according to Miss Elizabeth Osborne, the hostess. Twenty-eight in number, they rented a motor bus and went to Cannon beach for a whole day, having a luncheon on the beach, then coming home so tired they collapsed one of Mother Larson's famed suppers, a cozy hour around the fireplace and then to sleep the sleep one can find only at the beach when one is tired and happy.

The youngest member of the family, Myrtle Caswell, celebrated her fifteenth birthday Saturday in such style as to make her always remember the day. Last she grew old too fast the girls each presented to her a doll with a vest attached. There were cone dolls, twig dolls, a peanut doll, a prune doll from the cook and an egg doll from her assistant. There were flower dolls and candy dolls, worsted dolls, a paper doll and some real ones imported from Seaside.

On Friday evening the password to dinner was a black face. No one could be served who was not blacked and dressed appropriately. The hostess, with the aid of two pillows, dressed as a Southern mammy. A minstrel show was given later in the evening, which included a vivid pantomime production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," some readings by Miss Grace Mosher and a "buck and wing" dance by Mrs. Maxie Herzig. The audience took part in the Virginia reel that followed and all joined to eat warmelton over the porch railing.

Eugene, July 28.—Forty-eight members of the Seavey family gathered at the old home ranch on the McKenzie river, six miles from Eugene, Sunday afternoon for the ninth annual reunion of the descendants and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Seavey, who drove across the plains in ox-teams in the early '60s and located upon this farm. Only one of the original group was present at the gathering, Mrs. January, a sister of Mrs. Alexander Seavey. The day was pleasantly spent with music, addresses and reminiscences. The old homestead, which is now conducted by James Seavey, contains one of the largest and finest hopyards in the state.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lee of Seattle and their daughters, the Misses Edith and Beatrice, have come to Portland to make their home and are domiciled in Irvington at 535 Eighth street north. Miss Beatrice Lee is spending a few weeks in Seattle and will arrive in Portland for the fall months. Both young women were actively associated in social and college affairs in Seattle, where they were students at the University of Washington and members of Kappa Kapp Gamma.

Dr. and Mrs. T. I. Marks, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Laubner and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Penland, prominent in business affairs in Halsey, Or., left Tuesday in three large cars for a week's vacation. They went by way of Portland, Hood River and Canyon City, Or.; Caldwell and Boise, Idaho, expecting to enter Yellowstone park from the west entrance. They expect to return through Nevada, Sacramento, Klamath Falls, Crater lake and Medford. They took camping equipment and expect to have a delightful outing.

Miss Marian Spoerl, whose engagement was recently announced to Fred Ingalls Sipp of Topeka, Kan., was guest of honor at a tea Thursday afternoon, for which Miss Beth Ludlum was hostess at her home in Irvington. Twenty girls spent the afternoon informally. At the tea, Mrs. Charles E. Glasse presided at the tea run. Mrs. Frederick Spoerl cut the loaves. Assisting about the rooms were Mrs. Roy Kenny and Miss Bess Lewis.

Mrs. F. W. Swanton was hostess for an informal breakfast party Tuesday morning at her new home on Palatine hill honoring Miss Blake of New York city and Mrs. Alice Page of Palo Alto, who are visitors in the city. Miss Blake is interested in the work of the National Humane society and Mrs. Page is in head of the press committee for California for the national organization.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Wilson were again honored at a dinner Wednesday evening, for which Dr. and Mrs. Wilson Johnston were hosts. For that occasion covers were placed for the guests of honor, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Kiehle, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Kistner and Miss Margaret Johnston.

Miss Lillian Moss, an out-of-town visitor who is the guest of the saint, Mrs. John Forrest Dickson at Trinity place, was honored at a luncheon at the Waverly Country club, for which Mrs. Dickson was hostess. Covers were placed for 20 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Squires were hosts for a dinner dance Friday evening at their home in Park avenue and King street, honoring Miss Gena Peters of Seattle, who arrived Friday to be their house guest.

Judge W. W. McCredie and Mrs. McCredie have returned to Portland, following a sojourn of two weeks at McCredie Hot Springs, near Eugene. They made the trip by motor.

Professor and Mrs. Alfred H. Schrott have returned to Eugene after a sojourn of six weeks in California, where they chaperoned a group of girls on a camping trip. They also visited friends in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Slocum motored to Vancouver, B. C., during the Northwest golf tournament and returned to the city Wednesday by way of Tacoma and Delano beach, where they spent a few days.

Rental Paid by Movies to Go to Philanthropies

WOMEN of Southern California who have sought to devise new plans to raise money for the city's philanthropies have recently, through the genius of Mrs. Hancock Banning, who is one of the charming matrons of Los Angeles society, fallen upon a new scheme which is proving universally popular. Since the vogue for moving pictures and the great need for suitable places in which to stage the scenes became a problem of somewhat unwieldy dimensions, the women of Los Angeles, under the suggestion of Mrs. Banning, decided to form a bureau for rental which would include many of the beautiful homes of the Southern city in its lists. Then when the moving picture company found it necessary to use one of these garden spots for the staging of a particular piece of work, the home and garden was to be rented and the money turned over to the particular philanthropy at hand. This is now the plan in the South and Mrs. Banning is in charge of the directory. In this way quite a substantial sum has been added to the funds always in demand for worthy charities. "Heretofore when a company required a background showing the home of a social leader," says the San Francisco Examiner, "they spent vast sums in making a set which would probably be used but once. Naturally such a set could not compare in elaborate detail to a home of wealth and refinement, with charming landscape effects, gardens and the like attractions. As for interior, it is easily seen that a real home would surpass in elegance the 'sets' that the film producer could create out of stage properties."
