

MOUNT BAKER GOAL OF THE MAZAMAS IN ANNUAL VACATION

Forty-Two Men and Women Leave Portland; 68 All Told Register for Big Outing in the Wilds.

Mount Baker, in Northern Washington, is the goal for the Mazamas who started from Portland Saturday night on their twenty-seventh annual outing.

Headed by Colonel Edward C. Sammons, president of the club, 42 men and women left at 11:30 p. m. from the Union station for Seattle, from whence they will travel by steamer Sunday to Bellingham.

The Mazamas will spend Sunday night at Bellingham, drive 41 miles by automobile to Excelsior Monday morning, and the same evening will see them in the camp at Austin pass, eight miles south of the Canadian border.

Sixty-eight have registered for the outing. A few of these left Friday, and others took day trains Saturday, while two smaller groups went by automobile and will drive all the way to Excelsior. A number of persons are expected to join the Mazamas from Bellingham.

Camp Sammons, named after the club president, following the usual custom, is situated at an altitude of 4600 feet. It is northeast of Mount Baker, some west of Shuksan, another difficult peak on which the clubmen will try their mountaineering ability.

The Mazamas also will visit Mazama dome, on the south side of Baker, named for the club on its visit to the region in 1906. The club visited the north side of Mount Baker in 1909, but less than a dozen of those making the trip succeeded in reaching the summit of the mountain.

The camp will break up Sunday, August 15, and its residents will hurry back to Bellingham in order to catch a train arriving in Portland the following Monday morning.

MAJ. GILBERT CHOSEN AS HEAD OF LEGION

(Continued From Page One) attempt to organize an ex-service men's political party which would embody the American Legion in personal partisan politics. But we believe it is every ex-service man's patriotic duty to take an active part in the solution of problems confronting his community, state and nation.

WOULD PUNISH SLACKERS

The escape of Grover Cleveland Bergdall, millionaire draft dodger, is deplored in the platform, but the convention "reserves our judgment as to the responsibility for the slacker's escape, but we demand complete searching and impartial investigation and full punishment for the persons responsible. For the sake of and in the name of all Oregon loyal citizens, we demand the prosecution of the thousands of other Bergdalls who waived their responsibilities as citizens and acted as cowards in our country's time of need."

A strong section of the platform is devoted to the curbing of the Japanese menace on the Pacific coast, holding that those races which cannot be assimilated with the white race should not be entitled to own land in this country. LEGISLATION IS BACKED.

The fourfold plan for compensation of ex-service men, being considered in congress, is endorsed in the platform, as is all legislation started by the national executive committee. A special section is devoted to flag etiquette, providing that a special booklet shall be published by the state organization in that regard for the use of the posts.

History and patriotism vied for honors in the parade Saturday. The last few remaining members of the G. A. R. joined hands with the bands of Legionnaires and sailors, giving the occasion a distinct patriotic flavor. History was represented by numerous floats depicting the three periods, the coming of Columbus, the arrival of Lewis and Clark and the modern day.

CLATSOP GIVES UP PRIZE. Hundreds of sailors were in line and the forts at the mouth of the Columbia were represented with a marching body of fully equipped soldiers. The entire body of Legionnaires, delegates to the convention and members of the local Clatsop post swung along with the same vim which characterized their marching two and three years ago.

Clatsop post of this city captured the prize for the largest number of Legionnaires in line, but graciously declined the prize in honor of Medford post, represented by a float and delegation. The prize was $25.

The ladies' auxiliary to the local post was awarded the first prize for the best decorated car. Roseburg captured the second prize. The auxiliary float carried a bevy of Astoria girls who threw daisies at the crowd.

The Daughters of the American Revolution were awarded the prize for the best float. The Astoria Chinese Educational society took second. Prizes were also won by the Y. W. C. A. and the G. A. R.

Sunday noon the delegates take a special train for Seaside, where they will be served with a clam feed by that city. In the evening the convention will close with "The Battle of the Argonne," a mammoth pyrotechnic exhibition.

Saturday evening the delegates and the sailors gathered for the "salmon barbecue," held in the new Staples-Lovell garage. Music, speeches and a special talk from Postmaster-Commander W. S. Gilbert featured the evening.

PONZI SUES FOR $5,000,000 LIBEL AGAINST BARRON

Get-Rich-Quick Wizard Expects to Resume Business Monday; Has No Fear of Investigation.

Boston, Mass., July 31.—(U. P.)—Charles Ponzi, mushroom millionaire, confidently expected to be doing business by next Monday on the old basis of 50 per cent in 90 days, he said today.

The foreign exchange wizard, who claims to have cleaned up millions here within a few months by his financial operations, declared he was confident the investigation now under way would prove his business was on the square, and that the district attorney would find no reason for forcing suspension.

Reports were circulated today that Ponzi would confer during the day with New York financiers who were reported to have offered him $10,000,000 for his business—and his secret of cashing postal reply coupons through which the Italian claims to have made his fortune.

Ponzi declared there was little chance of his accepting the offer. He announced he had brought suit for $5,000,000 against Clarence W. Barron of the Boston News Bureau for damages, alleging Barron made libelous statements regarding his business methods. The writ is returnable in October.

Dentist Believed To Have Lost Life In Fight for Girl

New York, July 31.—(U. P.)—Dr. Jose Arenas, a Cuban dentist, and reputed to have been a wealthy bachelor, was shot three times and killed in his luxurious apartment here tonight, following what the police believe was a fight over Ruth Jackson, 20, a chorus girl. The girl was shot in the breast and is unconscious at a local hospital. A. G. Marcio Marti, 20, another Cuban, received a flesh wound in the arm.

Juan Maldonado, 20, and Jose Lenores, 20, Cubans, were arrested when they called the Arenas apartment an hour after the shooting.

Questioned by the police, Maldonado said he was visiting at the dentist's home this evening when callers rang the doorbell. Arenas, he said, asked him to retire to another room. A moment later, he said, he heard shots.

He said he leaped out of a window and went to the apartment of Lenores. The latter had an engagement to dine with the dentist, but had not yet started for Arenas' home.

Maldonado also told the police Arenas had been living with Miss Jackson for two months. A month ago, he said, Marti had been accused by the dentist of winning the affections of the girl and several quarrels led to the visit of the pair tonight to get the girl's clothes.

Marti and the girl were stopped by police, who saw them speeding in a taxicab. Marti was held for questioning. The girl was sent to the hospital.

Mrs. Emily Siodera, a housekeeper, told the police she heard shots in the apartment above and when she ran to see what was wrong found Arenas' body on the floor. The furniture was disarranged, she said.

Rev. Sawyer and His Daughter Are Back From England

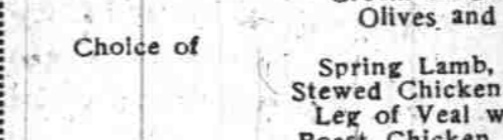

Loud cheers from many parishoners greeted the Rev. R. H. Sawyer, pastor of the East Side Christian church, and his daughter, Miss Jessie Lynne Sawyer, upon their arrival in Portland Saturday night from London, England.

Two months ago they left to attend the British Israel World congress, an invitation having been extended to the Rev. Mr. Sawyer to give several of the main addresses at the international sessions and to Miss Sawyer to sing. "Oh, the people in England are just grand," said Miss Sawyer. "I just cried when I had to leave. I met the Princess Alice, and several princes, lords, ladies, earls, dukes, counts—oh, I met everybody. I just had the grandest time. I wish I could go back again. They wanted to take me everywhere, on all kinds of trips and to parties and almost every place I went they asked me to sing. I just simply couldn't sing every place."

The minister said he was equally well received. He made 13 public addresses during the short time he was in England. On the Fourth of July he spoke to 2000 men. Clergymen in England endeavored to persuade Mr. Sawyer to cancel his sailing dates and remain in England, so that he might speak in their communities. Mr. Sawyer said he was forced to refuse their requests.
