3 RESTAURANTS LOSE LICENSES BECAUSE OF DRINK

The licenses of three restaurants and soft drink establishments were revoked, one case was dismissed, one postponed and one other proprietor ordered to sell out at hearings before the city council Wednesday afternoon of charges against men who had been arrested by the police for violation of the prohibition laws.

The one dismissal was in the case of Il Progreso restaurant at First and Stark streets, an eating place the fame of which is not confined to Portland. The establishment recently changed hands, and Joseph Viale, the new proprietor, explained he had inherited with the property a jug containing two gallons of wine. This was found by the police in a room over the restaurant and Viale was arrested and fined. No evidence was given of selling liquor in the restaurant. Viale was ordered to close the upstairs rooms and the case was dismissed.

The license of Yun Wo, Chinese soft drink establishment proprietor at 94 North Fifth street, was revoked when it was shown that his cider contained 4 per cent alcohol when tested. Cider sales in this place ran as high as 110 gallons a day and the police said that Yun Wo maintained his supplies by the barrel. Month after month Fred Curry, city chemist, tested the alcohol, always finding the heavy alcoholic content, and on this testimony revocation was made.

The license of Steve Adrien, whom Chief Jenkins accused of maintaining the city's largest bootlegging establishment, was also revoked. He is located at 286 Couch street. Police testified as to numerous arrests of Adrien for prohibition violations. Steve Marich's license to run a restaurant at 101 North Third street was rescinded although he was given until August 11 to close out. His dishwasher and other employes had been arrested for bootlegging. Mike Alayich, who runs a card room at 270 Couch street, also came up for hearing, but the commissioners were divided over his guilt, as some testimony was offered to show he had mended his ways. The case was postponed for a week.

Western Union to Give $40,000 Bonus To Local Employes

Employes of the Western Union Telegraph company in Portland and vicinity will receive $40,000 bonus as their share of a $10,000,000 melon to be cut by the company about August 15. This is the initial distribution of bonus money under the company's new profit sharing plan, which provides for the annual allotment among employes of all revenues above 7 per cent net profit.

According to W. R. Williams, superintendent of the Portland office of the Western Union, there are 512 employes of the company in this city and, approximately 1000 in adjoining territory. Employes will receive from $50 to $250 bonus, depending on salary and term of service.

Injured in 30-Foot Fall From Trestle

John Morgan, 68 years old, fell from a trestle from which the Portland Railway, Light & Power company unloads fuel for its auxiliary steam power plant at the foot of East Lincoln street, and was badly injured Thursday morning. Morgan lives at Milwaukie. His face was badly lacerated and his back and side were injured. He fell about 30 feet.

Boys to Make Last 'Y' Trip of Season To Spirit Lake Camp

The last Y. M. C. A. trip to Spirit lake camp this year for boys 12 to 17 years of age, will begin Monday. The group of boys now at the foot of Mt. St. Helens will return Monday and make room for the new group which will go under direction of Willard Rouse, boys' work secretary. One of the outstanding features of this camp is the system of self government which requires the setting up of a miniature city state. Character development by means of Bible study and use of honor awards for unselfish and cheerful conduct in camp life are among the man building elements in connection with the camp. Boys who are not members of the Y. M. C. A. will be allowed to go with this party if they will see Rouse before Saturday night. The total cost, including railroad fare and meals for the three weeks' trip, is $30. Nearly all the camping facilities are furnished the boys gratis.

Accused Boys Are Returned for Trial By Portland Police

Harry Samuelson, 19, of Hillsdale, arrested at Salem Wednesday afternoon with Elbert Bowman, 17, of Portland, on the charge of driving a stolen automobile, was brought to Portland Wednesday evening by Lieutenant Thatcher and Patrolman Shaffer of the auto theft department.

The two boys are said to have stolen the car belonging to H. W. Krussow of Hood river from Broadway and Main street Tuesday afternoon. Bowman was taken back to the State Reform school, where he had been an inmate, by the superintendent of the school.

On the way to Portland from Salem Samuelson told the police that he and his "pal" had hidden tools from the car in the woods near Salem, where they were found.

Miss Monroe Is to Make a Democratic Speech Before Club

"Democracy as Presented at the San Francisco Convention," will be the subject of the first Democratic campaign speech of the season when Anne Shannon Monroe brings that topic before the Cox-Roosevelt club meeting in room "A" Central library, Friday at 8 p. m. Miss Monroe, authoress and magazine writer, holds a foremost place in the literary world and is a leading Democratic woman. Miss Mary F. Neely will present a musical program.
