

JOURNAL CARRIER GETS REAL 'GEE!' THRILL IN PLANE

Donald Farmer, aged 15, has flown through cloudland and he is ready for more of the same.

Farmer, member of The Journal Carriers' association, is the first of a number of carriers who have been treated to the thrills of aviation as a guest of the circulation department of the paper.

The lad went up 2300 feet Wednesday morning in an O. W. L. Co. airplane from Lewis and Clark field. He soared over the hills and the city for 15 minutes, and aside from enjoying the perspective from the clouds, he had the exciting experience of falling straight downward from the sky.

CARRIER MAKES GOOD

Donald is the first Journal carrier to make good on a job consigned to members of the association of Carriers by David H. Smith, circulation manager, who offers each boy who brings in a certain number of new subscriptions from his route before September 1 a complete airplane tour.

Several boys have qualified by the air trip, but Donald was the first, and, consequently, won the first prize. He went up as a passenger with Pilot Walter Lee, and the pilot put his ship through all the perfectly safe flying he could.

When Lee asked Donald how he'd like to feel himself heading downward with a stalled engine, Donald proved a game sport and told Lee to "fire away." Lee shut off his engine and started an abrupt glide.

"Goodness, that was a thrill!" Donald later exclaimed. "Didn't make me sick, though, and, believe me, I'll be right there the next time there's a chance to fly. I won't have to be asked if I want to go up."

LOOK LIKE ANTS

"People down below looked like ants—everything was different. And I never knew Portland was so big, nor that one could see so much. I believe 2300 feet is quite high enough to go, because things on earth are getting pretty small even at that height."

Victor Vernon, manager of the airplane company, gave me a flight certificate, showing that I had flown over the city, and showing the date and pilot's name. I shall certainly prize that little souvenir.

Donald's route is in the Sunnyside district, where he is only one of several who have taken a deep interest in getting new subscriptions. There are 265 members of the Carriers' association trying to duplicate Donald's record and win an air trip. This lad, who is a pupil at Franklin high school, gained the required number of subscribers working part of the time on three days.

WOMEN'S VOTE MAY DEFEAT BRANDEGEE

practically all of these states the Incumbent voted for suffrage, while in the others the Democratic vote is so large as to leave no doubt that the Democratic contestant will be elected.

If the Democrats succeed, with the help of the women, in defeating Moses and Smoot, they will have 50 members and the Republicans will have 46, thus giving the Democrats a majority of four.

Senator Kay Pittman of Nevada, western campaign manager for Cox, was at Democratic headquarters today, on his way to take charge of western headquarters in San Francisco. He declared himself confident that the next senate will have a Democratic majority as a direct result of the women's vote. He said:

WEST LOOKS TO COX

"This will be a wonderful help in the campaign. It will make it certain that we'll carry the West for Cox. The women of America know whom they have to thank. They can readily distinguish between the half-hearted efforts made by Harding and the earnest appeals made by Governor Cox. They know, too, that the Republican states of Connecticut and Vermont refused to ratify when urged to do so. The result will mean the addition of millions of voters to the Democratic ticket. We will also win the senate by at least four votes."

the official opening tonight. Its business streets are aglow with the American colors and the white and purple of Elksdom. Business houses have vied with each other in creating appropriate displays in their stores and shops, where in the Elks' colors predominate, and many private residences have been lavishly decorated.

Banners and shields and streamers and flags appear in profusion. The city generally has a holiday aspect. Booths and stands have appeared overnight along the sidewalks, and a magic miniature city devoted entirely to the gods of roadshows who preside over the realm of pure amusement has been created along Ninth street and Daniels street, adjacent to the city park.

Smokers, motor boat races, horse races, automobile show, street dances, receptions, scenic tours, and many other features have been crowded into the plan of events, and meanwhile the serious work of the state convention will be carried on.

An added feature of the program will be a "frollic" at Columbia beach Friday afternoon. One of the most pleasing stunts is the singing of the Vancouver choriers.

TO BREAK RECORD

Vancouver expects to have the honor of entertaining the greatest state convention of Elks ever held in Washington. The 20 lodges now in the state association have a membership of 24,814. The largest lodge is the Seaside lodge with an enrollment of 672 members. Next comes Tacoma with a membership of 3091. Other lodges in the state with a membership of over 1000 are: Everett, 1569; Bellingham, 1304; Vancouver, 1077; Spokane lodge, although not a member of the state association, will send an unofficial delegation to participate in the three days' events.

All state officers and large delegations from all of the lodges will be in attendance. The roster of officials of the state association reads:

President, Theodore A. Johnson, Seattle, 32; first vice president, Clement Scott, Vancouver, 22; second vice president, Paul P. Wells, Bellingham, 194; third vice president, T. A. Hennessey, Walla Walla, 28; secretary, S. S. Anderson, Tacoma, 174; treasurer, A. A. Dickover, Bremerton, 1181; chaplain, Sidney Morgan, Seattle, 29; sergeant at arms, A. L. Remlinger, Aberdeen, 693.

E. Nelson, Centralia; H. B. Fultz, Olympia; H. S. Elwood, Ellensburg; J. Knuffman, Walla Walla; J. E. Nelson, Astoria; Ora V. Wilson, Bellingham.

LEADERS ARRIVE EARLY

President Johnson and Secretary Anderson arrived in Vancouver early Wednesday morning and met First Vice President Hennessey, a resident of the convention city. At once they began their preliminary work at the state officers' headquarters in the Elks' club building, getting all in readiness for the opening session Thursday forenoon.

The sessions, of course, are secret, but there is general interest in several matters that will come up for action, chief of which concerns the personnel of the official roster for the next year. Johnson will become a past president, and according to precedent Scott will be made president and Second Vice President Paul P. Wells of Bellingham will move up to the vice presidency.

The morning was taken up with the arrival, reception and registration of visitors, a golf tourney at the Waverly club in Portland and a bowling contest.

Exalted Ruler of All Elks To Pay First Official Visit

By Lewis Havermale

Vancouver, Wash., Aug. 19.—The first official visit to be made by Grand Exalted Ruler William A. Abbott of San Francisco will be to the convention at Vancouver. He will arrive Friday morning, and will be met at Portland by State President Theodore A. Johnson of Seattle and the officers of the state association. After breakfasting in Portland he will proceed to Vancouver by automobile.

He will give an address before the convention and will speak in public at the Vancouver city park at noon on Friday.

Judge Henry C. Kennan of Spokane, chief justice of the state of Washington, will also speak at the city park at that time.

President Johnson has selected as the credentials committee Joe J. Donovan, Louis Shattuck, Arthur Calder, Robert Brady and Ralph Percival, all of Vancouver.

Even before the first session of the convention has convened the question as to what Washington cities will be candidates for the convention next year is being discussed. Bellingham, Centralia, Aberdeen and Bremerton are vying after this honor. Others may appear. Present indications are that Bellingham "has the edge."

At the annual convention last year in Yakima more than 7000 persons were visitors. It is expected that the Vancouver convention will exceed this record by at least 2000 persons. The housing committee has made ample preparations for the care of all who may come. At least 1000 private homes have offered their accommodations, and it is estimated that at least 4000 persons can be cared for through this source. The hotels of Vancouver can care for 1000 visitors and from 1200 to 1500 will use the sleeping cars in which they came as their temporary homes.

A feature of the Vancouver assemblage of Elks is the number of persons who have come or are coming in automobiles. They began to arrive Wednesday, and during the night and early Thursday morning they streamed in. An auto camp is established at the Armada school, Twenty-sixth and H streets. An auto parking space has been provided on Thirtieth street, east of Main, and provision has been made there for the parking of 1000 cars. Many Portland parties are expected to take advantage of this accommodation.

During the year just closed the Elks' lodge at Chelsea, which was instituted in October, has made phenomenal growth. On the first of April the records showed that it had a membership of 456 and it has almost doubled its size since that time. Some healthy youngsters. The lodge is building a permanent home.

Lodges at Centralia and Bremerton have clubhouses in process of erection, and during the past few months the lodge at Wallingford, which has been dedicated its new home, completed.

Vancouver and Olympia lodges have shown the greatest percentage growth during the year. Each has increased its membership 50 per cent. The Elks' lodge at Wallingford, which has increased its membership 74 per cent during the year. The activities of the Elks in civic affairs, driven by patriotic and philanthropic endeavors, have brought the order into especial prominence and this is given as one reason for the gratifying growth.

It is the sixteenth annual convention of the Washington State Elks' association that is making of Vancouver the Mecca toward which caravans of Elks are moving from many parts of Washington. The advance guards arrived Wednesday by automobile and by train, but the great impouring takes place during Thursday forenoon, when special trains will pull in from various sections of the state and travelers by automobile will complete their journey to the convention city.

August 19, 20 and 21 are the convention dates. Vancouver is prepared and expects to entertain fully 10,000 visitors during these three days.
