COOS BAY HAS THREE BIG DREAMS

Coos Bay during the summer months, but with the reservation in the minds of the engineers that it did not suffice, the jetties would be built. The work has shown that the dredges will open the harbor during the summer months when work can be done, but that the storms of the winter fill the channel up, and so the Coos Bay people are now out after the jetties appropriations. It is estimated that these would cost, at present prices of construction, in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

WHERE CREDIT BELONGS

There is already a good deal of talk about the giving of credit for the winning of Tennessee. It is a superficial factor and the women leaders do not attach much importance to that kind of thing. They believe in the Democratic party as a matter of principle. Although Tennessee is a Democratic state and Democrats are, naturally, jubilant that a Southern state did the trick, the women leaders know full well that they cannot expect to have the credit. They are glad to support progressive Republicans, both in the congress and state legislatures.

Statistics are quoted to show a population of 800 Japanese in the valley at this time with 1000 acres owned by Japanese and another 500 acres under lease by them.
