

MILTON MILLER BACK FROM HIS FIRST VACATION

Collector of Internal Revenue Is Only Appointee Remaining From First Term of President.

Milton A. Miller, collector of internal revenue for the Oregon district, returned Saturday from his first vacation since he assumed office August 16, 1915. Miller is the only appointee of the first Wilson administration in Portland, all other federal offices filled at that time having been subjected to change.

During the period of Miller's incumbency internal revenue collections in the Oregon district have increased from approximately $1,000,000 for the year ending June 30, 1914, to over $27,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920. Though income and excess profits taxes have served to swell the totals for the past two years, a large portion of the increase may be attributed to growth in commercial and industrial wealth of the state.

ACTIVE FOR 50 YEARS

Miller has been active in state politics for more than 50 years, and will enter the presidential campaign this year as a staunch supporter of the nominee and platform of the Democratic party. He will make a number of speeches in Oregon endorsing the candidacy of Governor Cox of Ohio for the presidency and of Senator George E. Chamberlain.

"I regard Governor Cox as the strongest candidate the Democratic party could have named for this particular campaign," said Miller in an interview Saturday evening. "He has proved himself a successful business man; has been three times elected governor of the Republican state of Ohio and bears the reputation, without regard to party, of being the greatest governor the state has ever had."

"Governor Cox championed the new state constitution recently adopted by Ohio and has been instrumental in bringing about more progressive, forward-looking legislation than perhaps any other civil executive in the 48 states."

"His contributions to social service legislation provide against the adulteration of food stuffs, prevent combinations to fix prices; provide for the establishment of a state tuberculosis hospital with branch hospitals throughout the state, and formation of a state social agency committee, bringing into cooperation all recognized social agencies in the state."

"No other state executive has been more active in securing the passage of beneficial agricultural legislation."

CAREER SHOULD INSPIRE

"The accomplishments of Governor Cox ought to be an inspiration to every young man and woman in the United States."

Touching upon the senatorial contest in this state, Miller predicted an overwhelming victory for Senator Chamberlain.

"I have known Senator Chamberlain ever since he came to Oregon in 1878," said Miller. "He has been my personal and political friend for many years. His election is, in my mind, a foregone conclusion. For 40 years he has been in public life, and not one charge of fraud or corruption has ever been made against him."

Future Hangs on Policy Adopted by Waterpower Body

Salem, Aug. 21.—Interest in waterpower development in this country now centers around the policy which the commission, created by the recently enacted federal waterpower bill, will adopt in carrying out the provisions of the bill, according to Percy L. Cupper, state engineer.

If the commission or the principal executive officers of the commission take the ultra conservative view of the situation it is probable that development will be unnecessarily retarded, Cupper declares. On the other hand, he insists, the promiscuous granting of permits to develop power to anyone, regardless of his ability or intention to develop the same, would result only in the exploitation of this valuable resource.

Oregon, Cupper points out, has within its borders, approximately 4,000,000 hydro-electric horsepower, of which less than 200,000 horsepower has as yet been developed.

The future of waterpower development in the United States will be considered at a convention of the Waterpower League of America in Washington, D. C. October 7 and 8, but Cupper will not be able to attend, he said.

M. J. Anderson of Portland Seeks Water for 13,000 Horsepower; $750,000 Estimated Expense.

Salem, Aug. 21.—The development of approximately 13,000 theoretical horsepower at an estimated expenditure of $750,000 is contemplated by M. J. Anderson of Portland, who has filed with the state engineer's office here application for permission to construct a reservoir on the south fork of the Coquille river for the storage of 18,700 acre feet of water.

The proposed project includes the construction of a tunnel and pipeline approximately three miles long. He seeks permission to appropriate 75 second feet of water under a head of 1566 feet.

The slide irrigation district of Weiser, Idaho, has made application for permission to appropriate water from the Snake river for the irrigation of 1368 acres of land. The project involves the construction of a pumping plant and pipeline at an estimated cost of $123,430.

Other applications for water rights have been filed with the state engineer's office as follows: By Charles C. Reinhardt of Walla Walla, Wash. water from the Little Walla Walla river for the irrigation of a small tract.

By Frank M. and Martha N. Cox of Clatsop, Ill. water from an unnamed stream for the irrigation of a small tract in Hood River county.

By Roy Orville Baughman of Grants Pass, water from the middle branch of Bull creek for the irrigation of a small tract in Josephine county.

By Francis Neil of Williams, waste water from the irrigation of a small tract in Josephine county.

By Howard Dunlap of Kerby, water from the third district, will be made good in spite of technical obstacles, according to Ada Wallace Urruh, who was in Salem Saturday afternoon in consultation with the state engineer relative to the procedure to be followed in rescinding the defunct district organization.

According to opinions expressed by Attorney-General Brown, the Prohibition party in Multnomah county died when it failed to nominate a candidate for congress in 1918. Before it can again participate in political affairs it must be revived through the filing of a petition with the secretary of state here containing signatures equivalent to five per cent of the total vote cast for congressman in that district at the last general election. Based on the vote of 48,142 in 1918, the prohibition petition must contain at least 2407 signatures.

Circulation of petitions will be launched early next week, according to Mrs. Urruh, who declares that there is no question as to the resurrection of the district organization.

Democrats to Dive Into Congressional Contest on Coast

Washington, Aug. 21.—(U. S. S.)—Democratic campaign managers will make a drive for the election of Democratic congressmen in the Pacific coast and Rocky mountain states.

Congressman Henry D. Flood, chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, announced today that he would open branch headquarters at San Francisco, for which district campaigns in the Far West would be directed by Congressman C. F. Lea of California who is in charge of the San Francisco headquarters.

The Democrats have few congressmen from the Coast and Rocky mountain states. Reports sent to headquarters by Democratic representatives in the field indicate that it is possible to elect Democrats from some of the districts now held by Republicans.

It is believed, also, that a stiff fight for congressmen will help in the election of Democratic senators and senate elections will occur in California, Oregon and Washington as well as in some of the mountain states.

The Democratic congressional committee will open its headquarters next week in New York and Chicago. Congressman William A. Oldfield of Arkansas will be in charge at New York, and Congressman Adolph J. Sabath of Illinois at Chicago.

Political Pot Boils In Marshfield City November Election

The terms of Councilmen W. N. Eklblad and Walter E. Wilson, both of whom were appointed to fill unexpired terms, will be candidates for reelection. The term of T. B. OREGON'S TITLE TO LAND IN QUESTION

State May Be Compelled to Intervene in Suit Filed in Lake County Over Swamp Land.

Salem, Aug. 21.—Oregon will probably be called upon to intervene a series of suits being instituted in the circuit court of Lake county in defense of the state's title to some 94,000 acres of land held by the state as swamp land, according to J. O. Bailey, assistant attorney general.

The attorney general's office received a copy of the petition in one of these suits, that of the Lake County Land & Livestock company, which is directed against Loftus and three other squatters, involves only a small portion of the land held by the state in Lake and Harney counties as swamp lands, while the state's title to the entire 94,000 acres in these two counties is involved in the outcome of the present test suit, it is pointed out.

W. Lair Thompson of McCamant, Bronaugh & Thompson, who is representing the company in the present suit, is understood here to be prepared to file similar suits involving other lake bed lands in Lake and Harney counties as soon as the soundness of his claims shall have been determined by this suit. Miller McDuffie, assistant in the attorney general's office, is in Lake county investigating the status of the state's title in the lands in question.
