Oaks Take Two From Beavers; Empire Helps

By George Berts
PORTLAND topped back in the second division as the result of dropping both Sunday games to Del Howard's Acorns. "Hack" Miller's home run cracked giving the Oaks a 2-0 victory. In the first game, then went 12 innings and Miller's big stick together with the pitching of "Buz" Arlett blanked the Beavers in the second battle, 4 to 0.

POOR UMPIRING
The Oaks were aided in winning by the "Rankin" umpire of the league. Tribby, a product of the local lots, is not a home umpire. Out of a dozen close ones, Ed has given the Beavers about two. His decision in calling "Biff" Schaller out at third on an attempted sacrifice, was sure a putrid one. Let's hope that Mal Eason recovers from his illness in time to replace him.

Portland's pitchers did not seem to be a working just right. Manager Mae sending two hurlers into each fray. The result of the first contest might have been reversed by a ragged playing, which gave the Oaks a big lead, but not too big for the Beavers to overcome. Only to lose when Miller pitched a "Babe" Ruth in the twelfth frame.

Rudy Kallio started the first game for the Mackmen against the Beaver Jinx. Carl Holling, four men scored off Rudy, but he was only responsible for one tally. Brubaker's marker on his triple and Cooper's single, stranger made a wild base hit in the second frame that enabled Holling to reach second and he counted on Brubaker's single through short.

DOUBLE PLAY MADE
In the fourth, after the Beavers had staged a double play, Lane singled to center and Guisto was safe when Wietzell dropped what appeared to be an easy fly. Louis stole second and counted with Lane on Miltze's double to left field.

Lane's wild heave in an effort to complete a double play for the final out in the fifth inning followed by a scratch hit by Spranger and Del Beavers' pinch hit that was too hot for Brubaker to handle, gave the Beavers their first tally.

Eason replaced Kallio on the mound and outpawped his way through the inning in grand style. In fact Ross was going as top speed until he served Miller the fat one in the twelfth frame.

Portland tied up the count in the sixth on Wietzell's double, Maisei's infield tag, a force out at third, Kohler's sacrifice fly and Lane's error, the Oakland shortstop being asleep on Cooper's return throw.

The Beavers had a couple of chances to score but could not put over the necessary hit.

OAKS MAKE SCORE
Arlett gave the Oaks their first tally off Brooks in the third inning of the second game with a homer in to the left field bleachers, and in the fourth frame Miller made his second four-ply swing, one of the longest ever made on the Portland field.

Miller's double, Knight's sacrifice and single by Lane, gave the Oakland offense put over two more for the Oaks in the sixth. Glazier pitched the last two innings against the Hawks' men.

Portland could not hit Arlett when hits meant runs. In the first inning with the bases full and no outs, the Beavers could not score due to the chances were wiped by the boards by inability to hit.

Cobb Denies Boston Yarn About Mays

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(U. P.)—Cobb flatly and convincingly denied that he had uttered one word in Boston concerning Ray Chapman's death that was a criticism of Carl Mays or his pitching tactics.

Apparently the Boston and Detroit teams have been hard by certain Boston newspapermen to throw mud upon Carl Mays, said Cobb. "They don't like Mays for a long time. That's no secret; they've been wanting to get him, it seems, but they didn't have a thing on Carl up to the unfortunate Chapman incident."

WANT HIM OUT OF GAME
"When that happened they probably figured the time had come to discredit Mays, and probably drive him out of baseball. They wanted somebody to stand for a story censuring Mays. They couldn't get it honestly, because none of the Detroit or Boston players would condemn Mays so they wrote and printed stories anyway."

Cobb, discussing how he was interviewed, said he had been called by the telephone very early Tuesday morning. The man at the other end introduced himself. He informed me that Chapman was dead and asked if I had anything to say. I was shocked, and told him so. I said I was a deplorable incident and the greatest baseball tragedy in my career."

"Then the man told me that he understood that the Boston players were circulating a petition, asking that Mays be barred from baseball because of Chapman's death."

"He asked me what I knew about it. I told him I hadn't heard about it and that I had nothing whatever to say about the matter. I may add that at the time I wondered whether the man was telling the truth, as it seemed mighty strange to me that the Boston players would be up and around at 7 o'clock in the morning circulating petitions."

"That conversation was absolutely all I had with any newspaperman in Boston. He and every man on the Detroit team insists that he didn't talk to any reporter, yet it has been stated in the newspapers that we are going to blacklist Mays, which is an utter downright lie."

Politics Hurts American Team

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(U. P.)—Although America is a winner of the Olympiad, the Yankee athletes were practically unanimous in declaring that if the United States national committee had not "played politics," the teams would have made a much better showing.

Maybe the wintry weather and dismal rain had something to do with it, but the men were a grouchy lot. In addition to paning the committee, they craved the "wonderful inefficiency" of the judges and declared the ignorance of officials regarding preparation of the field was responsible for the injuries to Butler, McGraw and Ray, regarded as sure point winners.

The athletes, in charging the committee with "politics," referred specifically to such men as Nightingale of New Hampshire State, distance runner; Walter of Cornell, hurdler; Driscoll of Boston, 400-meter star; and Dandrow of Massachusetts Tech, hammer thrower, being left at home. The men promised to "get action" on their charges when they return home.

Failure of the Yankees in the runs above 200 metres caused European experts to predict the end of American superiority in athletics. These critics declared the Americans will have the hardest kind of a time repeating their past victories in the next Olympic games. The Finns have shown great promise in the distance and weight events.

Lawson Robertson, one of the American coaches, explained that the long voyage with consequent lack of training and the short time for preparation after landing, severely handicapped the American distance runners and that the unprecedented number of accidents had made the United States team appear weaker than teams in the past.

BABE RUTH WILL BREAK RECORD; IT IS A CINCH
Former Detroit Outfielder Holds Major League Record With 120 Home Runs.

"BABE" RUTH must crack out 33 home runs during the remainder of his baseball career in order to surpass the mark set up by Thompson who, during his career of 13 seasons in the National league, made 129 home runs, which is the best record in that line ever made.

Thompson played with the Detroit club when Detroit had a team in the National league and finished his career with the Philadelphia Nationals, from 1885 to 1898.

"Big Sam" Thompson was one of the game's greatest sluggers and his terrific drives were the sensation of his day.

Sam Crawford comes the nearest to the Thompson type of batsmen and there is a similarity in their style of hitting.

Thompson quit the diamond of his own accord, having a life's batting average of .341. Twice during his career he reached the 400 mark in the final year averages.

Sam Thompson lives in Detroit and is a deputy United States marshal and a good one. In his palmy days Sam was a powerful athlete, standing 6 feet 2 inches and for a big man a very fast runner, which helped him to stretch his terrific drives into sure homers. Thompson was a left-handed hitter.

It is reported that C. H. Traisor, owner of the sensational pacing mare, Margaret Dillon (S), 2:06.4, on half mile track and for a big man a very fast runner, which helped him to stretch his terrific drives into sure homers. Thompson was a left-handed hitter.

Fitzsimmons Selected to Box Leonard

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(U. N. S.)—Eddie Fitzsimmons, New York lightweight, today was selected by Tex Rickard to oppose Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, in a 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden, September 17. Fitzsimmons signed the articles of agreement here today. Leonard was signed by Rickard last week and was guaranteed $50,000 for his appearance.

Leonard, who has been accused for some time of being in reality a welterweight, has posted $20,000 to be forfeited if he fails to weigh in at 155 pounds eight hours before the bout. The bout, which will be the first for Rickard's new Madison Square Garden sporting club, and his first under the new Walker boxing bill, will be a decision; one of the few in which Leonard has taken part since he won his title from Freddie Welch. Being a 15-round affair it will be the longest in which Leonard ever engaged, provided it goes the 15 rounds.
