GIVE AID TO RAILROADS IS LEAVE OF GOOD

Lines Too Long Part of Political Organization With Personal
Exploitation and Stock Jobbing
Rampant, Declares Candidate.

By Harry L. Rogers
Princeton, Ind., Aug. 25.—(I. N. S.)—Asserting that the railroads of the United States have too long been part of the political organizations, with personal exploitation and stock jobbing operating to the detriment of the public welfare, Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, Democratic presidential nominee, in a speech at the Gibson county fair here this afternoon, declared for government aid in putting them upon a "basis of efficiency, both in rolling stock and in operations."

GREED GIVES MONEY
The governor repeated his charges that "fabulous sums of money have been contributed by selfish, greedy interests to buy the election."

"It is my privilege and it will be my chief aim to expose the senatorial plot and to reveal the interests that are part of it," he declared.

Much of the labor trouble in the mining districts of Indiana and elsewhere, the governor said, has been due to the lack of adequate railroad service.

Mines, he argued, cannot be operated without cars, and miners must have a living wage whether they work part or whole time.

"We hear a great deal from reactionary leaders about the operation of the railroads during the war," said the governor. "I am of the opinion and I believe every unprejudiced person in the country is likewise of the belief that federal aid was justified."

BEAN OPPOSED TO NEW FISH INQUIRY

Eugene, Aug. 25.—Representative Louis E. Bean, exhibiting and commenting upon a letter received from Richard W. Price of Portland, demanding a hearing of the list of charges against the former state fish and game commission, made it emphatically plain that he personally was opposed to a reopening of a case that had been officially reviewed by the governor and a legislative committee and given a quiescent to the satisfaction of the majority of people.

Bean called attention to the fact that the communication from Price, a director of the Multnomah Anglers' club, was virtually a rehearsal of all the old charges against the commission, prominent among which was that of diverting funds from the game fish to the commercial fishing interests, and the padding of accounts of commercial fishermen. As these accounts, according to Bean, were carefully reviewed by a committee of experts, who found them above criticism. Both by direct refutation and by the implication carried by the selection of the old members of the commission to make up the personnel of the new commission, the body had been exonerated, he said.

"There are 15 distinct charges made by Price in this letter," said Bean, "and they are simply a restatement of the former charges. I would require weeks of time and probably cost the state $500 to go into all the details of these and, after they had all been sifted to the bottom, the investigation committee would find itself right back at the same point arrived at in the former hearing. Personally I shall give no consideration to this matter whatever."

Keep Our National Partnership Intact, Declares Harding

Marion, Ohio, Aug. 25.—(U. P.)—The United States would rather cultivate opportunities in the friendly soil of the New World than "chase a phantom amid the envious and jealous of the Pan-American countries," Harding said.

Nobody has a thought of American aloofness to the world, but our sphere lies in our "national partnership" on the Western continent with the Pan-American countries, Harding said.

CHAMBERLAIN MARVELS AT BEAR GROWTH

Progress, Due Largely to Irrigation,
Wipes Out Old Landmarks; Benham Falls Project
Pleases; to Aid Sheppmen.

By Ralph Watson
(Journal Staff Correspondent)

Bend, Aug. 25.—Coming back to Bend after a period of five years, to find a place so changed by growth and expansion in business activity that the landmarks he knew could not be found, Senator Chamberlain visited the city today. At noon he was the guest of the Bend Chamber of Commerce at its weekly luncheon. The senator reached Bend Tuesday evening from Lakeview and Paisley.

Chamberlain, speaking before the Chamber of Commerce, paid high tribute to the spirit of progress and advancement shown by the citizens of Bend, so apparent to him because of the great changes which had taken place since the time he was last here some five years ago.

He told of having first come to Bend some years ago, before the town had hardly been born, to investigate, as governor, the feasibility of irrigation development in the region.

FUTURE IS FORESEEN
He had foreseen the possibility then, he said, and as the work of development was put under way, and Bend grew from a village of a few scattering houses to a tent city and then to a town, he saw his faith justified by the works and the energy of those who had come to build the country.

The announcement just made by the state engineer, that the Benham falls power site was feasible, had been read with much interest by him, the senator said, and he congratulated the people of Bend upon the determination so far as engineering skill could settle it.

That the long-contemplated improvement at Benham falls might be safely undertaken, to harness the Deschutes, he pointed out, would make of Bend one of the centers of electrical energy in the great Northwest.

It would give electric current for the industries here and those ready to come and would make it possible for water to be pumped upon high lands now above the gravity ditches and to change them from waste to productivity.

DOUBLE PURPOSE AIN
It might even be found feasible when the development had been completed, and the power dam constructed, to lead the spill water from the dam out over the lands below it, and thus cause it to serve a double purpose.

While at Lakeview Monday, Senator Chamberlain met with a delegation of sheep men of the country to hear their protest against the creation of a national antelope preserve, which would include practically all of the mountain range of Lake county and be greatly detrimental if not fatal to the sheep industry of that section of the state. At the conclusion of the hearing the senator told the sheep men that he would oppose the creation of the preserve, believing that adequate protective laws, well enforced, would preserve the elk, while not detrimental to the interests of one of the principal industries of the state.

Thursday morning the senator will leave for Redmond, Madras and Prineville.

HUNGER STRIKER 'PERMITTED' TO DIE

London, Aug. 25.—(I. N. S.)—Rioting on a large scale broke out in Belfast tonight, according to dispatches just received from that city.

Lucerne, Switzerland, Aug. 25.—(U. P.)—The British government will not except Lord Mayor MacSwiney from the rule that Irish hunger strikers must be permitted to starve if they refuse to eat, Premier Lloyd George declared today in a telegram to MacSwiney's sister.

"I regret to hear of the pain inflicted on you by your brother's determination to starve, but it is impossible for the government to make an exception in his case," the message said.

SINN FEIN TO CONDEMN ALL WHO SENTENCE LORD MAYOR

London, Aug. 25.—(U. P.)—Sinn Fein officials here today declared they would carry out the sentences imposed by "their courts" will condemn to death all persons implicated in the expected death of Lord Mayor MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, they declared today.

While refusing to specify whom they regarded as responsible, the officials inferred that Premier Lloyd George and members of his cabinet "are liable."

Members of the Irish Republican government and of the Cork corporation visited Lord Mayor MacSwiney last night, where MacSwiney was near death from a two weeks hunger strike. He is serving a two year sentence for sedition.

CONSIDER IT MURDER

"If MacSwiney dies, we will consider it murder," one of the Sinn Fein officials declared today. "The Sinn Fein courts will try all persons implicated. They will be sentenced to death if found guilty of aiding or abetting the lord mayor's murder. The sentences will be carried out, no matter how high the officials involved from the ranks of the accused in court is not necessary."

Mary MacSwiney, sister of the lord mayor, has telegraphed Lloyd George in Lucerne, declaring that her brother's relatives and the people of Ireland "hold you responsible in the event of his death."

The mayors visited her husband last night. MacSwiney, who was sinking rapidly and nearing unconsciousness, asked that he be allowed to "take a long look at her, as I may not see you the next time."

WILLING TO DIE

"Terence was terribly weak, and his eyes were clouded, but he told me he would not regret death if it were helpful to Ireland," Mrs. MacSwiney told reporters.

"He said he grieved for me, but I told him I would not have married him if I had not known he was a Sinn Fein man. I love him for his principles, and his loyalty to Ireland."

MacSwiney's former soldiers gathered outside the prison last night and staged a demonstration for MacSwiney's release.

Two Planes Make Daily Journal Trip To Beach Resorts

Two planes made the daily Journal Journey to Seaside Tuesday—the big Curtiss Seagull and one of the F-boats. The Seagull will make a daily trip to Seaside after the repairs to the veered fuselage made necessary by a collision with a sand spit in the Necanicum bay. Pilot F. E. Harding undertook to hop off for the return journey in a dead calm.

The planes left Lewis and Clark field Tuesday at 1:10 p. m., with P. L. Jackson, associate publisher of The Journal, as a passenger in the F-boat and David H. Smith, circulation manager, in the Seagull. Pilot Clemence drove the F-boat directly to the Necanicum, while Harding, with the Seagull, stopped first at the Necanicum and then at Seaside.

The accident on the return trip with both passengers in the one plane was caused by lack of wind to induce the plane to rise. The Seagull was out and Harding could not make the turn quickly enough to dodge the spit, though he avoided serious damage by keeping his engine running and holding the craft nose down.

The strain of dragging over the sand spit the venerable side, but did not cause any damage to the plane. The company announced it would have repairs made in time for the Wednesday return flight.

Passengers in the F-boat for Seaside Wednesday were E. L. Fraley and Harry Silk of Portland.

LEAGUE GAINS WAY, DESPITE U. S. ABSENCE

Organization Is in Actual Existence and Is Functioning Courageously Regardless of Lack Of U. S. Participation.

By David Lawrence
(Copyright, 1920, by The Journal.)

Washington, Aug. 25.—Details of the meetings of the council of the League of Nations not covered in the cable dispatches have just reached here from Spain and they show particular activity on a program of commercial and economic blockade, which is to be relied upon more than military or naval force to keep the peace of the world.

"The vital fact of today," writes one of the officials who has no connection, course, with our government, "is that the League of Nations is in existence and is rapidly organizing regardless of America's defection. It is the sheerest can't be that all the other nations of the world cannot organize a society for peace and cooperation without America."

"The league is going on courageously. Thirty-nine nations are already bound by its provisions, which they cannot ignore without violating their signed word."

"The United States cannot destroy the present league; it cannot build up a wholly new league. It must either stay outside a community of nations organized by the league, or it must come into that league with such reservations as it thinks necessary and with the purpose of pushing all those great movements for which American foreign policy has always stood."

The foregoing view is expressed by one who has no connection with American politics, but brings out a few points of view.

S. district attorney B. K. Wheeler, who is also the Non-partisan league candidate, in the Democratic primary for governorship honors. CUT SPECIAL TAXES OF STREET CARS IS URGED IN REPORT

Herewith is presented a digest of the recommendations for the operation of street railways as made by the federal electric railway commission. It will be noted that the report of the commission recommends that special assessments against all street railways for paving, street cleaning and other purposes should be eliminated as proposed by The Journal in its recent article on the subject. The commission finds it is not justified for the operation of the railway properties should not so in the form of taxes or otherwise.

By William Philip Simms
Washington, Aug. 25.—(I. N. S.)—Recommendations for drastic changes in the operation of street railway systems are going to be made in cities throughout the United States by a report made in the report of the federal electric railway commission to President Wilson.

The commission appointed by the president about a year ago, at the request of the secretaries of commerce and labor, on the grounds that "the industry as a whole is virtually paralyzed and that the continued shrinkage in the hundreds of millions of electric railway securities threatened to embarrass the nation's financial operations" unanimously recommended that:

"First—Street railways everywhere should serve the public at cost, patterning themselves in this respect after lines, in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dallas, Montreal and other cities.

ALREADY FIXED RETURN
"Second—Furnishing rides at cost, operating companies should be allowed a fixed return on their investment, the value of which to be determined by the government.

"Third—Street railway managements, employees and the public each have a solemn duty to perform, each toward the other.

"Fourth—It is intolerable that the transportation service of a city should be hampered by the strike of a few employees. The public interest requires that the strike should be settled voluntarily or by arbitration and the award of such a board should be final and binding on both parties.

"Fifth—Public ownership and operation are undesirable save where private operation has failed to give the public the service it demands. However, the right of the public to own and operate not only their car lines, but all public utilities should be plainly recognized.

"Sixth—Whenever car lines are extended into outlying territory in a way to benefit private property, the cost should be borne by the private interests to the extent of the benefit acquired, and such extensions should not be included in the total valuation of the railroad system upon which a fair profit is guaranteed.

"Seventh—Street railways should not be for any specified time, nor the fare to be charged fixed. Conditions should govern both."

EUROPE FACE TO FACE WITH ACUTE CRISIS

Momentous Question of Whether Or Not Europe Is to Be Plunged Into Another War to Be Decided Within 48 Hours.

By Webb Miller

London, Aug. 25.—(U. P.)—Whether most of Europe again will be involved in war was expected today to be decided within 48 hours.

Russia has until Friday evening to reply to the Anglo-Italian note demanding modification of her peace terms to Poland. Premier Lloyd George has informed the Bolsheviks, through Arthur Balfour, lord president of the council, that unless a satisfactory reply is forthcoming within the time limit, Great Britain will change its policy toward Russia.

FOUR NATIONS IN ACCORD
Committed to the same action as Great Britain is Italy, France and possibly Belgium. In the event of a resumption of hostilities on a major scale, the Germans may be the party involved, since the sentiment of the German populations bordering on Poland is frankly pro-Russian, the officials of East Prussia are reported to have asked for volunteers to aid the Reds and according to some advice no steps have been taken to interfere with the passage of Russian refugees into East Prussia to escape capture.

BRITAIN READY TO ACT
If the Bolsheviks refuse to modify their terms as demanded by the allies, military and naval plans already arranged by the latter will be put into execution immediately, it is believed in semi-official circles. The British navy of the world, which has been in a blockade within 12 hours. At the same time steps would be taken to break aside the opposition of German harbor workers in Danzig and throw that port open to landing of munitions.

It was predicted in well informed circles this afternoon that the Poles and Russians would abandon the extreme terms they were trying to enforce upon Germany.

HOTEL HEADS ARE FROZEN $100 EACH

Six hotel and rooming house owners Tuesday afternoon were fined $100 each, one was continued until Saturday and the other was discharged by Judge Rossmann in municipal court Wednesday morning.
