

TOTAL G. O. P. FUND GIVEN AS $6,365,500 BY FRED W. UPHAM

By James L. Kilgallen
(United News Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Aug. 31.—Admission that the Republican national committee has fixed the sum of $6,365,500 as "a mark to shoot at" for the 1920 campaign fund was drawn from Fred W. Upham, treasurer of the Republican national committee, in testimony late Tuesday before the senate committee investigating campaign funds.

The admission was made on cross-examination by Senator Reed, following Upham's submission of a quota list decided upon in May, 1919, giving the amounts assigned to the various states for national campaign purposes.

SOURCES ARE TRACED
A total of $4,887,500 was the goal to be raised from the states, although, according to Upham, this was beyond expectations. In addition, notations on the list disclosed, $178,000 was to be raised, if possible, for work in the states and $700,000 for the congressional campaign.

The quotas were fixed early in 1919. Upham said, while the $2,079,000 budget under which the party is operating was not adopted until July, 1920.

Senator Spencer asked how much of the money so far collected came from New York. Upham submitted a statement of the sums raised in the various states for the work of the national committee up to August 26. It showed a total of $518,018.54 and included California, $13,822.45; Arizona, $942.56; Washington, $1570.80; Iowa, $6748.30; Montana, $2754.50; Nebraska, $1265.53; Oregon, $988.37; Hawaii, $15,198.26; and Philippine Islands, $19,060.50.

REED DEMANDS LIST
Upon demand of Senator Reed, Governor Cox's spokesman, Upham agreed to submit this list to the investigating committee. Republican leaders readily acceded to Reed's demand, stating that production of the "quota list" would show the entire falsity of Governor Cox's statement in his Pittsburgh speech, regarding alleged quotas assigned to 51 cities and totaling $8,145,000. Upham admitted that state quotas were not final and might be changed several times during the campaign.

Upham's testimony of the morning session showed:
That collections and pledges for the Republican campaign fund since the Chicago convention total more than $1,300,000.
That $700,000 has been allocated to the Republican senatorial and congressional campaign committee, which is not included in the $3,079,000 budget submitted by Chairman Hays.

That there is nothing to prevent state, county and city organizations raising any sums they wish for local use after having filled the quota assigned against the state by the national committee.
Upham, like Chairman Hays, denied with the utmost vigor all of Governor Cox's charges regarding a $10,000,000 G. O. P. corruption fund and an attempt by "sinister interests" to buy an underdog on the presidency.

Upham was followed on the witness stand by Simon D. Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee.
Fess submitted a financial statement showing receipts of $119,298.92, of which all but $54,531 has been spent, he said. He said there was one contribution of $5000, but couldn't recall who gave it; two of $2500, while the average contribution was $40.

He was followed by Representative Fred A. Britten of Illinois, who, in a public statement, recently charged that the British embassy in Washington was using an "entertainment fund" of $47,500 to spread propaganda in behalf of the League of Nations.

When the committee demanded that Britten prove his charge he said he hoped the investigators would summon Thomas L. Lamont of New York, publisher of the New York Evening Post, and officials of Doubleday, Page & Co. Committee members asked whether Britten himself had any evidence of the use of the $47,500.

NO EVIDENCE OF FUND
"Not of that particular fund," said

Britten, "but I have evidence of the use of vast sums for propaganda purposes. I am satisfied that such money has been of direct benefit to the candidacy of Governor Cox."

The evidence Britten submitted in support of his charge consisted of a quotation from a London weekly which said that the sending of British propagandists to the United States had done harm and a fiction story boosting the League of Nations, sent out, he said, by the Western Newspaper union free of charge to any editor who desired it.

Reed said Britten's statement regarding the use of the $37,500 entertainment fund of the British embassy in behalf of Cox was "a willful distortion of the imagination." Britten admitted it was, said he hoped the committee would get evidence proving him correct.

The committee summoned the Chicago manager of the Western Newspaper union to appear this afternoon and tell who is paying for the distribution of the fiction story, "Uncle Sam Freedom Ride," mentioned by Britten.

Senator Pomeroy and Senator Reed went after Britten rough-shod, demanding why he had made charges when he had no evidence of their truth.

"I've submitted evidence," replied Britten.

Publisher Sells His Interest in Bandon Weekly Newspaper

Marshfield, Sept. 1.—Change in ownership of the Western World, weekly newspaper of Bandon, is announced. James H. Howe has sold his interest to his partner, L. D. Felsheim, who is now sole owner. He will continue publication of the paper. Felsheim and Howe bought the Western World from Butterfield and Weddel seven years ago. Howe expects to go to California.

In attempting to run a hand car on an inclined track at the Davis slough logging camp, the 11-year-old son of Henry Badkin was badly hurt Tuesday. The hand car ran down the track with great speed and jumped the track. It was necessary to take 30 stitches in the wounds on the boy's head.

The Coos Veneer & Box company Wednesday will start an enlarged force and a complete duplication of machinery, doubling the capacity of the plant. The company was recently organized by local capital and has been offered orders for the output for several years ahead.

Body of Man Found In Trunk; Reported Murdered in Sleep

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 1.—(I. N. S.)—George B. Nott, 30, known to his neighbors as a man of mysterious occupation, and suspected of being a gambler, whose body was found beaten, stabbed and shot, and crowded into a trunk in a swamp at Sport hill, in the town of Trumbull, Monday night, was killed while he slept in an attic room of his home here, early Sunday morning, according to evidence gathered by Coroner's Physician Garlick and the police.

The body was found after a search by police and firemen, working up to their armpits in water and in the glare of searchlights.

Mrs. Nott, wife of the murdered man, and John B. Johnston, 20, an employee of Elwood Wade, 23, a milkman, declare that Wade killed Nott while the latter was asleep early Sunday morning, striking him over the head with a piece of lead pipe.

Season of Forest Fires in Douglas Is One of Shortest

Roseburg, Aug. 31.—The season of 1920 gives evidence of being one of the shortest on record for forest fires in Douglas county. The recent rains have put out practically all fires in the forests outside the reserve and there have been few fires in the national forest of any consequence. In Southern Douglas county the rains were light, but sufficient dampness has covered the ground to prevent any forest fire from spreading. Fires in the privately owned timber were mostly due to carelessness of the stockmen, who, it is alleged, would rather see the brush burned out than to try to prevent a fire. No great damage has been reported. The atmosphere has cleared. The local fire warden reports but three fires since the rains, which will soon be under control.

Violation of State Dimmer Law Sends Salesman to Court

Medford, Sept. 1.—The state dimmer law was upheld in a jury in Justice Taylor's court here Tuesday, which found H. H. Noel, local auto salesman, guilty of not dimming his lights on July 26. Noel will fight the case to the highest court, he says.

Wings of the morning!

Every man ought to start the day's work with the cheer that he can get from a good cup of coffee.

The fragrance, good taste, and cheer you get needn't cost you one bit extra. You might just as well have them as not.

Not one bit extra—good coffee has so much more strength than ordinary coffee that a pound makes enough more cups to make up the difference in price.

Schilling's is one of the good coffees. Not the only one. Best for you if you like it. If not, your money back.
