

REPUBLICANS PLAN PROTEST MEETINGS AGAINST LEAGUE

For an organized advance against "supergovernment" the Republican forces in Oregon are being marshaled to celebrate Constitution day, September 17, with a series of protest meetings against the League of Nations covenant.

Plans for the one-day campaign are forming under direction of Republican state and county organizations and will provide for protest meetings at virtually all the city's branch libraries September 17. The big protest will be held at Central library, according to the announcement Tuesday of Jack Day.

"We have elected to commemorate Constitution day by protesting as widely as possible the surrender of the constitution of the United States to a super-government," Day declares. "Speakers are to be selected and further plans will be announced."

The 52 captains of the Multnomah county Republican groups have been called to meet at the story-hour room in Central library at 8 p. m. Tuesday for the purpose of discussing plans of organization for the clubs and plans for their work.

At 543 Vancouver avenue the Albina Republican club will hold an organization meeting Tuesday night under direction of a committee headed by Paul E. Struck. Speakers will be assembled for the event and refreshments will be served.

IOWA GOVERNOR TO OPEN OREGON G. O. P. CAMPAIGN

Governor William Lloyd Harding of Iowa will fire the first gun in the Oregon Republican campaign Saturday night, September 18, at The Auditorium, according to announcement made by State Chairman Thomas H. Tongue Jr. The meeting will be a Harding-Coolidge ratification meeting and members of the state central committee, of the various county committees and of all Republican clubs throughout the state will be invited to cooperate in making the event a success.

Governor Harding will come as the representative of the Republican national speakers' bureau. He has the reputation of being an orator of ability.

REQUESTS POURING IN FOR SEATS TO HEAR COX SPEAK

Portland managers of the Cox arrangements in Oregon are in a quandary as how to accommodate the crowds that are seeking to hear the Ohio governor next Monday. Applications for reserved seats at the Portland noon meeting are pouring in from both this city and Oregon towns in such numbers that the committee in charge has announced that no seats will be reserved at The Auditorium.

The Portland Ministerial association has requested an assignment of 50 seats. A local woman's club has asked for a block. An organization in Oregon City has requested reserved seats, along with several other bodies in Portland. An assignment of 12 seats is desired by citizens of Moro, Or., and Corvallis requested reservations by long distance. Similar demands from individual citizens are numberless.

In an effort to accommodate those who desire to hear the Ohio progressive, the committee in charge has announced a second meeting at 2:30 Monday afternoon at The Auditorium for women. Governor Cox has taken a strong position in favor of teachers and the common schools of the country, and on this account the afternoon address was placed at 2:30 to allow the teachers to hear him.

With the two Portland meetings, the address at The Dalles, Baker City and Ontario on his way through the state, and another possible address at Salem Monday morning, the committee estimates that Governor Cox will have spoken to at least 25,000 people before he crosses the line into Idaho.

Oregon Undertakers Meet Here in Their Annual Convention

Undertakers from all sections of the state gathered Tuesday morning in the assembly room of the Hotel Portland on the occasion of the annual meeting of the Oregon Funeral Directors association. W. W. Branstetter, president of the association, gave his annual address, in which he bespoke a greater loyalty to the association and urged upon all members to strive for higher standards in their work.

Music was furnished by Louise Barton and the Rev. Walter Nugent gave the invocation. Dr. David N. Roberg, state health officer, spoke on the need for cooperation between the funeral directors and his office.

Election of officers will be the principal item of business in the afternoon. Tuesday evening the visitors will be given a party aboard the barge Blue Bird. The Oregon and Washington associations will attend the remainder of the convention.

The sessions on both Wednesday and Thursday will be featured by lectures and demonstrations by Professor A. W. Worsham of Chicago, head of the Worsham training school for funeral directors. The Wednesday morning program will include an address of welcome by Mayor Baker and responses by representatives of both the Washington and Oregon delegations.

The visitors are greatly interested in the barbecue to be given Friday at noon at Eagle creek through the courtesy of the local supply houses and the crematorium. Four deer and a bear are to be the principal part of the feast.

Mayor Declines to Request Release of M'Swiney From Jail

In declining the request of the local branch of the Irish Freedom that he send a message to Lloyd George, prime minister of England, demanding immediate release of Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, Mayor Baker said he did not feel he could commit all the people of the city upon a foreign question without proof that such was the unified sentiment of the city.

The organization held a meeting last Saturday at the office of Dr. Andrew C. Smith, and decided to ask the mayor to send the message.

The request was made to the mayor the same day, and after considering it for a few hours he notified Dr. Smith he could not send such a message.

Farmer, Long Ill, Suicide at Mayger

Clatskanie, Sept. 7.—John Huffman of Mayger, about eight miles from Clatskanie, shot and killed himself Saturday night. He had been in poor health for some time and his farm work was crowding him, causing despondency. He was about 30 years old and leaves a family.

STAGE SET FOR MIMIC BATTLE OF ARGONNE FOREST

Plans for presentation of "The Battle of the Argonne" by Portland Post No. 1 of the American Legion Wednesday night at Vaughn Street baseball park are rapidly being completed by the men in charge.

At noon Tuesday, General Manager Victor Vernon of the Oregon, Washington & Idaho Airplane company flew over the business section of the city, dropping miniature army parachutes. The finders of these were entitled to complimentary tickets to the show Wednesday.

Vernon crashed the skies for the better part of half an hour, liberating the parachutes which were eagerly chased by hordes of small boys. While flying about the airplane was subjected to a mimic anti-aircraft bombardment, the sounds of which were heard in many parts of the city. The bombs were sent up from the top of the Morgan building by members of the Legion as part of a spectacular display of daylight fireworks.

As an added feature of the attraction, Vernon has also made arrangements for a plane to fly over the baseball field Wednesday night.

It will be illuminated with fireworks and aerial bombs will be shot at the plane from the field.

Members of the Legion committee say the fireworks display will be the largest ever made in Portland. A carload of pyrotechnics and other supplies for the show has been received.

"On the baseball field a reproduction of battle scenes during the recent war will be given. Frank Sever has charge of the men who will take part in this and practically all of the participants have had real battle service.

Louis J. Witte of the Elmer J. Noble post, Seattle, will handle the fireworks display for the local post and is assisting generally with the work.

Witte and Sever are cooperating together in arranging for the battle. Each was wounded during the real battle of the Argonne and they promise real action scenes for Wednesday night.

Trench mortars, masked batteries in action and gas attacks will be shown. The men participating in the fight will advance in gas masks. The battle scene will be illuminated with the battle flares.

One of the closing acts of fireworks will show the storming of the Dardanelles.

Billy Foy of Portland post is superintending the entire affair.

PORTIONS OF 15 BODIES FOUND IN HOTEL RUINS

known, it is believed to be incendiary, having started in the Houston lodging house, a four story wooden building, from whence it was communicated to adjoining buildings. The fatalities occurred in the Houston.

The building was crowded to capacity by visitors from Weed, Cal., and elsewhere, who were here to celebrate Labor day. A Timber Workers union band from Weed marched to the scene and played "Nearer My God to Thee," while the bodies were being removed. Red Cross workers took charge of recue work for the refugees. Proceeds from a prizefight held here Monday will be donated.

Mike Connelly, a timber worker, was awakened by screams and almost caught by the flames. He tells of the terrible scenes. Coming through his door from the hall he heard helpless women and children crying in the death trap, but could not reach them. H. S. Wakefield saved two persons and a third threw himself into the flames. An Italian woman threw her baby, three days old, from a two-story window into her husband's arms and then escaped. They will both live. Monday morning's fire was the most destructive in the history of Klamath Falls, and, in keeping with tradition, occurred during a celebration.

PORTLAND MAN ESCAPED. CLAD ONLY IN NIGHTSHIRT

Thomas Butts of 552 Hassalo street, Portland, who was reported among the "missing" at the Klamath Falls fire Monday, probably kept himself out of sight because he had nothing to wear but an undershirt, according to his business partner here.

A long distance call was received from Butts Monday, at the Butts & Oake Employment agency, 241 Couch street, in which Butts stated that he barely escaped with his life. All his clothing and personal effects were burned.

Butts requested that money be sent him at once, that he might be able to get out of the tall timber. Butts took six men to a sawmill near Klamath Falls. The men were already in the camp, so they were not caught in the fire.

Nothing further has been heard from Butts, but it is thought he is in Weed, Cal.

CHARLES D. SHADRICK BELIEVED TO BE VICTIM

One of the victims of the fire at Klamath Falls Monday is believed to be Charles D. Shadrick of Portland. Relatives here are anxiously awaiting response to a telegram sent Shadrick's two sons, who were working with their father for the Oskar Huber company in a road construction camp near Klamath Falls. The two sons are Linley B. and Harry D. Shadrick. Mrs. Shadrick died in Portland several years ago. Shadrick was 58 years of age, was born in Quincy, Ill., and had lived in Portland for 20 years.

Luther Shadrick, 756 Amherst street, and Linley Shadrick, 730 Vanderbilt street, and Mrs. Essie Myers, until lately a resident of Redondo Beach, Cal., are brothers and sister of Shadrick.

GRACE HALL OF MEDFORD NOT IN KLAMATH BLAZE

Medford, Sept. 7.—Mystery surrounds the word in Klamath Falls dispatches that one of the fire victims is believed to be Miss Grace Hall, 17 years old, of Medford. The only young woman of that name in the city was here Monday and Tuesday morning and is well known.

Tuesday noon, a stranger, who refused to give his name because he said he didn't want to be pestered by the police, called at a local newspaper office, said he knew a young lady about 17 years old, a restaurant waitress here, who went by the name of Daisy Parker, but whose real name is Grace Hall and who lost her life in the Klamath Falls fire. He said her father lives in Albany, Or.

Girls Find Still In Deserted Cabin

A still in a deserted cabin was discovered Monday afternoon by two girls who were hiking on the Rocky Point road 25 miles from Portland. The girls, with the assistance of other members of the party, emptied out a quantity of mash and brought the still to Portland. They turned it over to the police at police headquarters Monday night. The girls told the police their names, on the condition that they be revealed to no one except the federal authorities. The still, a small copper affair, is of little value except as junk, say the police.

ALL DEPARTMENTS OF COUNTY COURT RESUME BUSINESS

All seven departments of the Multnomah county circuit court resumed activities Tuesday forenoon, after the summer vacation period. During that time but one court was in continuous session, although the other judges heard cases from time to time or took turns as presiding judge.

The new jurors for the fall term were all at hand Tuesday morning and will begin their hearing of cases Wednesday. The personnel of the new grand jury is: James K. Ross (foreman), William J. Drans, Paul Toth, Leonard F. Clark, John C. Patterson, Stephen D. Fowell and Anton F. Gansner.

Sues for Personal Injuries

A suit for $755 was filed Tuesday by John H. Rice against Adley H. Beeson for damages alleged to have been suffered by Rice as the result of his having been run down by an automobile driven by Beeson on May 14 last at First and Madison streets. He claims to have suffered permanent injuries.

Speed Law Violators Fined

Four persons who violated the speed ordinance were given fines in the district courts Tuesday morning. Judge Jones fined Walter Hosmer $15 and like amounts were imposed by Judge Bell on A. V. Jensen, W. F. Anderson and C. E. Brown.

Published Figures In Milk Inquiry Are Branded as False

Published figures purporting to represent a government investigation of comparative profits made in various cities in the country in the milk business handled by grocers were branded as misleading and unauthentic Tuesday by Edward A. MacLean, secretary of the Grocers and Merchants' association.

MacLean sent telegrams to all the cities mentioned in the report as published by a morning paper Monday and answer from one typical city was offered by MacLean Tuesday as showing that the government figures quoted were erroneous.

At Richmond, Va., according to a telegram MacLean received from the Retail Grocers' association of that city, the grocers pay 18 cents a quart for milk and sell it for 20 cents, a margin of 4 cents. The government figures showed milk to be sold there at 16 cents, with no profit at all and at a price 1 cent higher than the Portland grocers charge.

The published figures purported to show that grocers of most cities of the country handle milk on a smaller margin than in Portland.

In a recent ruling the Portland milk commission increased to grocers the price to be paid for milk, but made no increase in the price the grocer should receive for handling.

THE secret of softening the beard lies in emulsifying the oil that coats the hair of the beard.

And this is what Palmolive Cream does. It removes the oil-coat quickly, so the water penetrates the stiffest beard. This makes the beard wax-like and every hair easy to cut.

You don't have to use hot towels or rub with your fingers as you have to do with the ordinary shaving cream or soap. And hot towels, as you may know, make the skin too tender.

Both lather and lotion

Palmolive cream is also a lotion. For it contains Palm and Olive oils. Thus it gives to the face a satin smoothness when shaved.

Note this also. Palmolive stays moist and foamy 10 minutes. It does not dry up on the face as does the ordinary cream. And a mere bit is ample for a shave. For Palmolive multiplies itself in lather 250 times. A cream so active, as you know, has never been heard of before. There's enough for 152 shaves in our 35c size.

Try it free

Learn what it means to use Palmolive. How easier you shave. How much quicker. And how delightful it makes a shave. You will be astonished with the difference between this and your present way of shaving.

A trial tube of Palmolive will show you an altogether new kind of shave. And this tube is yours for the asking. Mail the coupon. Clip it out now while you are thinking of it.
