Governor Said to Be Well Pleased With Arrangements Made for His Portland Stay; Main Address at Auditorium at Noon.

COX IN SEATTLE WILL BE IN PORTLAND SUNDAY
The Cox special train passed through Seattle early Saturday morning, en route from Walla Walla, where he spoke last night, to Bellingham. From Bellingham the party will leave for Tacoma, where he will make an address Saturday afternoon. Tonight he will speak in Seattle, leaving shortly afterward for Portland, where he will spend Sunday resting from his strenuous week's work.

Cox of Ohio, Democratic nominee for president, will reach Portland Sunday morning for a two-day visit.

Governor Cox and his party will reach the city at 7:20 Sunday morning from Tacoma. He will be met at the Union station by a delegation of 50 Portland citizens and escorted to the Multnomah hotel, which will be his headquarters during his stay in the city.

No formal arrangements have been made for the visitor's entertainment during Sunday, at his request, he having asked State Chairman Smith that this be done in order that he may have opportunity to attend church at the morning service. Monday morning he will address the people of Salem and vicinity at 9 o'clock in the morning, and will leave at 10 o'clock sharp by automobile for Portland.

PENDLETON TO BE EMBLOR CENTER

Speaking of earthquakes—Southern California may have rather an edge on the Pacific Northwest right now, but in another two weeks the earth shaking zone will center around Pendleton, Or., when the seventeenth annual Round-Up gets underway.

Seventy bucking horses, veritable "earthquakes" in themselves, it is declared, have already been received at Round-Up headquarters ready for the big fray. They are shaggy haired, trigger-heeled, range fattened and rarin' to buck.

The Journal's special Round-Up train will leave Portland on the night of Thursday, September 23. Guests on the special will spend two days at the Round-Up and the fare from Portland to Pendleton and return will be 75 cents, including meals en route, and at Pendleton, sleeping berths and reserved seats in the grandstand at Round-Up park for both days of the rodeo.

Reservations on The Journal's Round-Up special may be made at The Journal travel bureau office, main floor of The Journal building.

No errors.

Baba Ruth didn't get any more home runs, but he was twice passed and lined a pair of doubles into the crowd in right. Ground rules unraveled. A hit into the left field crowd was limited to two bases.

Cat as Menace in Spread of Disease Among People Seen
How pet animals can spread contagious diseases was illustrated in a case presented to the city health bureau Saturday morning when a house cat that died Friday at 74 Fourth street was found to have succumbed to diphtheria.

Mrs. Agnes M. Morris, residing at the address, reported to the health office Saturday morning that the cat was sick on her porch Friday and her little daughter carried the animal off the porch to the ground.

DRY AGENT'S BULLET MAY PROVE FATAL

Bert Hedderly, Alleged Bootlegger, Who Was Wounded When He Attempted to Resist Arrest, Said to Be Dying at Hospital.

Bert Hedderly, 32, alleged bootlegger, is said to be dying at Good Samaritan hospital as a result of a bullet wound in the head suffered Friday night at 9:15 o'clock when he was shot by police and federal revenue agents who sought to arrest him for illicit liquor operations.

An unidentified woman characterized as beautiful, at liberty, and George Lewis, said to be a rook, is held in the city jail for federal investigation as a result of the raid on a house at Union avenue and East Oak streets, near which Hedderly was shot when he attempted to escape arrest by flight.

After waiting, on the tip of an informant, most of the afternoon and early evening, police and revenue agents observed the approach of the Hedderly automobile at the Union avenue and Oak street premises. As George Lewis was unloading liquor, City Inspector Morris commanded him at the point of his gun to surrender himself and the other first and second commands, Morris said.

Hedderly at the wheel started his car and as it slowly gained momentum refused to stop when he was adjourned to the party. Two shots were fired in the air to frighten the man and when the ruse failed, a volley from the guns of the raiders stopped him. The fatal shots are said to have been fired by two federal officers stationed a block away.

TWO DEATHS HELD AS UNAVOIDABLE

Two boys were killed Friday evening within an hour in two automobile accidents, which Deputy Coroner Leo Goetsch classified Saturday morning as "unavoidable."

The first victim was 3-year-old Harry Stromaugh, 624 North Kellogg street, who was run over about 4:45 p. m. at Jersey and Alta streets by a truck in charge of John Riley, 302 North Willamette boulevard.

The second accident was 55 minutes later at Union avenue and East Burnside street, where Benjamin Chamberlain, 19, 1406 Lenora street, was instantly killed by a furniture truck in charge of Frank Love, 389 Third street.

The baby, Harry, was rushed to the office of Dr. L. E. Graves at Jersey and Burlington streets, but nothing could be done for him. He died at the hospital at the city morgue.

The child was with his grandfather, Harry Hunter, when he lived. The little child's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Tony Stromaugh.

He had violated the traffic ordinance by failure to go around the center of the intersection. Riley's excuse for this was that there was an automobile parked so close to the corner of the curb that he had to swing short to miss it. He was arrested early Friday morning by Motorcycle Patrolman Mobley for cutting an intersection, but he was released by Municipal Judge Rosemar. Riley is now at liberty under $1000 bonds.

Those who witnessed the accident are: Alex Gish, 115 North Jersey street; Patrolman secretary for San Francisco, Ivanhoe street, and G. C. Lovelace, 108 North Jersey street.

Lieutenant Ervin of the traffic department.

General Semenoff Is Seriously Injured In Depot Explosion

Honolulu, T. H., Sept. 2.—(By Mail).—U. P.—General Semenoff, anti-Bolshevik leader, was seriously injured in an explosion at Chita, Siberia, according to word received by the Nippon Jiji, Japanese language newspaper, from Tokyo.

Auto Camp Site Secured; City to Lease Tract for Tourists' Benefit

Negotiations for ground to be used as a municipal camping park for automobile tourists were concluded Saturday morning by Commissioner S. C. Pier with representatives of the Jacob Kamm estate.

The park will be on the 15 acres of land located along the east side of Thirty-third street just south of Fremont street and will be the first of its kind in the city.

The park is designed to accommodate tourists coming into the city from the north and east. Signs indicating its location are to be placed along Sandy boulevard and the three-quarters of a mile north of that road to the park, and along Union avenue to Fremont street.

The ground was secured at a rental amounting to the taxes, around $900 a year. The property is said to be well adapted to camping purposes, as it is reached by paved streets and has water, gas and electricity facilities. The city will at once begin improving the park, clearing some of the land, installing gasoline and oil filling stations and comfort stations and piping water through the grounds.

Small shelters will be erected and in them will be placed gas stoves and tables for cooking. The park will be lighted with incandescents. Two custodians will be employed, one for day and the other for night duty. The city will spend about $4000 in improvements.

In his negotiations, covering several months, Commissioner Pier was aided by the committee appointed for the purpose by the Portland tourist board.

Another site is to be secured for tourists entering the city from the south and west.

The lease on the Kamm property is now being presented at the adjourned meeting to the council for approval next Wednesday.

NEW CASE FILED ON PITTOCK WILL

Caroline P. Leadbetter, daughter of the late Henry L. Pittock, who founded the Oregonian and who died leaving an estate of nearly $8,000,000, filed a suit—amended complaint Friday in her suit in equity against O. L. Price, as executor of the last will and testament of Pittock, and Price and C. A. Morden as trustees.

The P. Pittock, Susan Emory, Kate Lockwood, Hebarton and Louise Gaidenben the latter two granddaughters of Pittock.

The complaint recites the contest on the will and the appeal to the Oregon state supreme court, and alleges that Price, as executor, has transferred to himself and Morden as trustees, shares of stock in the Oregonian Publishing company, and that they are threatening to transfer and dispose of this stock and thus deprive the heirs of their rightful property.

She reaffirms that the documents filed with the court are not the last will and testament of Pittock and are illegal on the ground that the alleged trusts set up there are indefinite and uncertain in their material terms, and that the agreement to provide for an agent to administer the estate as they would deprive the rightful heirs from definite control of the property for a term of 20 years.

The prayer of this suit includes the following: That the court should set aside the will of Pittock and declare null and void; that the appointment of O. L. Price as executor be annulled; that the order entering the will to probate be cancelled; that Henry L. Pittock be declared to have died intestate; that all property of the estate be sold; that the five children of Pittock, share and share alike; that transfers of shares of stock to Price and Morden be declared void; that both Price and Morden be enjoined from attempting to assert control of any property of the estate.

Mr. Leadbetter's attorneys are McAdoo, Cotton and Franklin of New York City and C. A. C. and L. A. Liljeqvist of Portland.

They were charged with larceny and conspiracy. Ponzi had 12 indictments containing 16 counts against him, based on his famous "get-rich-quick" exploits. Indictments were returned against Charles M. Brightwell, Raymond M. Meyers and Charles F. Meyers of the Boston Foreign Exchange company. They are charged with larceny and conspiracy. Eleven indictments were returned against Brightwell. They contained 15 counts.

Geow was subdued by other firemen and taken to hospital.

LAWRENCE IS TO ANALYZE WESTERN VOTE

Noted Correspondent Is to Trail Candidates, Pick Up Sentiment, Forecast Result; Minnesota Found Strong for Harding

(Copyright, 1920, by The Journal)
(This is the first of a series of dispatches to be published daily during September and October giving an analysis of political sentiment in all Northern and Western states, to be followed by a detailed forecast of the presidential election.)

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 11.—Governor Cox has gone West. Senator Harding has gone back to Marquette. The East, like the South, is more or less set in its political ways.

If, therefore, there is a chance for an upset, as occurred in 1916, the West would be likely to exhibit the first symptoms. Also distances are great in the Western country and the number of voters relatively small, so the trend can be more definitely assessed west of the Mississippi river during September than it can east of that line.

For the Eastern states are populous and sometimes a drift sets in about the middle of October that changes the aspect of political things quite materially.

Besides, Governor Cox is just now invading the West and the writer has determined to trail the Democratic nominee and judge, if possible, how much headway he makes in this Western country. Not much can be gotten by merely watching the crowds as they are thrilled by oration effort and pleasing personality. More can be gained by talking a day or two afterwards with men and women in all walks of life—business men, large and small, laborers, farmers, politicians, workers and newspaper men, both Republican and Democratic affiliation.

The writer will spend the remainder of September studying over the Western states, and will begin about the first week of October.

HARDING SAYS U. S. DUPED ON LEAGUE

Marion, Ohio, Sept. 11.—(U. P.)—Suggestion that America has been duped by "shocking discrepancies" in the French and English text of articles in the Versailles treaty purporting to safeguard the Monroe doctrine, was made today by Warren G. Harding. These discrepancies might readily involve us in conflict, he said.

He demanded that those advocating acceptance of the league covenant bring forth an explanation. "This new angle on the treaty issue was sprung in a double barreled broadside on the Wilson policies made by Warren Harding and myself," he said. "I advocated rebuilding of our economic life, so that our prosperity shall not be the property of profiteers nor of special privilege."

He pointed out from the French text of article 21 of the league covenant, arguing that it is "a complete reversal" of the English text, both of which are official and bear the signatures of the American plenipotentiaries.

This difference, he said, might "very readily involve us in unhappy conflict." The English text says nothing about the validity of understandings like the Monroe doctrine. The French text, as Harding translated it, literally says that the understandings like the Monroe doctrine are to be maintained.

Volstead Is Ruled Off G. O. P. Ticket By Court Decision

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 11.—(U. P.)—Representative Andrew Volstead, father of the prohibition law bearing that name, was ruled off the Minnesota Republican ticket for re-election today by the state supreme court.

The court reversed the decision of the lower court in the contest brought by Volstead against the Rev. J. O. Kvale, winner of the primary election, in which the lower court held that Kvale had violated the corrupt practices act and declared Volstead the nominee.

The supreme court declared a vacancy existed on the ticket for congressman from the Seventh district as a result of the alleged corrupt methods of Rev. Mr. Kvale, and another primary may have to be held in that district before the general election on November 2, or an agreement may be reached for both men to run as independent candidates.

The alleged illegal practices to which Volstead was accused were placed in that in speeches he referred to Volstead as an "athiest." At a hearing by the lower court Volstead denied the accusations.

He was ruled off the ticket by the state supreme court.

Pastor Bennett To Be Host to 300 Brethren at Venison Feast

Five loaves and a pair of fishes were quite sufficient to appease the hunger of the multitude in their day, says holy writ, but in that time there were no preacher-sportsmen nor Oregon deer, it appears.

Therefore, the loaves and the fishes played no part in the agreement Dr. George H. Bennett, pastor of Patton Methodist Episcopal church, Michigan avenue and Alberta street, made with his congregation when he promised to entertain church and Sunday school at a venison banquet.

"Call in the army of the righteous, for it shall be fed," he may have commanded as he started a recent invasion of the dark forests of Douglas county and returned with two splendid deer.

The feast is planned for Friday evening, and with all the accompaniments for a venison dinner, covers will be spread for 300 persons, who will be guests of the straight shooting parson. Bishop W. O. Shepard and Dr. W. W. Youngson will be called on to speak to the members of the league of Oregon deer. Musical numbers by the Patton male quartet and solos by Mrs. C. D. Lazenby and Mrs. A. C. Ferrin will be features of the event.

EMERGENCY BODY TO MEET SEPT. 18

Salem, Sept. 11.—A call for the state emergency board to meet in Salem Saturday, September 18, to consider deficiency appropriations expected to aggregate in excess of $60,000, was issued by Secretary of State Kozer Saturday.

The call is based upon requests for deficiency appropriations already filed by six state departments asking for appropriations aggregating $25,235.58, as follows:

State board of health, $814.40. Public service commission, $4200. Supreme court library, amount not stated. Board of child labor inspectors, $650. State department, $12,205.58, divided into 10 items as follows: Clerks and stenographers, $7140.74; janitors and other employes, capitol building and grounds, $501.84.

At least five state institutions are facing deficiencies in their biennial appropriations, aggregating approximately $25,000. R. B. Goodin, secretary of the state board of control, has indicated his intention of asking for a deficiency appropriation of $500 or $600, and a letter from Richard B. Dillehunt, dean of the University of Oregon medical school, indicates a desire to appear before the board with a request for additional funds to tide the school over until the next legislature can provide another appropriation.

Rejects 'Muzzle'; Christensen Balks On Making Speech

Minneapolis, Sept. 11.—(I. N. S.)—Parley P. Christensen, Farm-Labor candidate for president today at the last minute refused to deliver his scheduled address at the Minnesota State fair because, he said, he refused to be "muzzled." The state fair board had held Warren Harding and Governor Cox "agricultural" as the subject of their "non-political" addresses at the fair.

"They can be muzzled because they are already muzzled," was Christensen's explanation. He said that he had declined to accept the fair board's invitation. The speech was originally scheduled for Thursday.

This was the second time he refused to accept the fair board's invitation. The speech was originally scheduled for Thursday.

Former City Clerk Of Aberdeen Dies While on Trip East

Aberdeen, Wash., Sept. 11.—The ashes of Peter Clark, former city clerk, were brought here from Detroit, where cremation took place, and were placed in a crypt in the mausoleum in Fern Hill cemetery.

Mr. Clark had filed the position of clerk for 15 years. No one ever ran against him for the office. He was a lifelong Democrat and ran on the Republican ticket to save the expenses to the city of printing an additional ballot, as he was the only Democrat running for a city office. He resigned two years ago. This summer he visited his former home in Michigan and died while there.

U. S. Investigates Big Whiskey Theft

Chicago, Sept. 11.—(I. N. S.)—Federal agents today are investigating the theft of 100 barrels of bonded whiskey, valued at $225,000, from the wholesale liquor house of Kopsielski & Co. The liquor had been stored in the warehouse and the building was under surveillance of government men. It was taken from the basement after a door had been smashed open.

P.)—The $10,000,000 marine hospital hospital, the appropriation for which was passed by the last session of the national congress, will be located in Denver, officials of the United States public health service announced today. The hospital will be one of the largest in the West. It was started.

BELLINGHAM TENDERS COX BIG OVATION

Great Crowd Overflows Building and Hangs in Windows to Hear Vigorous Governor Speak on League as Cure for All Wars.

By Ward A. Irvine
Journal Staff Correspondent.
En Route With Cox Special, Sept. 11.—Governor Cox spent holes in the contentions of opponents of the League of Nations before another overflow crowd at Bellingham this morning. Standing space was gone before the arrival of the special, and at the address spectators were hanging through windows and taking advantage of every other position in which they might hear the words of the vigorous governor.

He laid before them facts dispelling the contention that America could be drawn into foreign wars without her consent and that Britain could outvote this country in the League of Nations.

He showed that only congress can declare war for this country, and that no action by the members of the league could force American soldiers into war without congress' consent.

"And the mothers of America will have a word to say before congress will ever again declare war," he emphasized. Governor Cox also insisted that in the council of the league, all measures must be adopted by unanimous vote.

"America could therefore veto anything the other nations might attempt to do. And furthermore, how can nations go to war if they are disarmed, as the league proposes to disarm them?"

To the appeal to keep faith with the soldiers who fought and died, the audience responded wholeheartedly. By their applause the people of Bellingham left little doubt as to their feeling on the League of Nations question.

KEEP FAITH WITH THE DEAD IS PLEA OF GOVERNOR COX
By Ward A. Irvine
En Route With Governor Cox, Sept. 11.—Governor Cox has a heart, he has an understanding of the needs of the people of the Northwest, and a sense of justice. These three qualities were impressed upon the people of Walla Walla Friday night in two of the most successful meetings of the Washington trip. The governor spoke to approximately 2000 people in the Washington city and the number turned away would reach into hundreds. The corridors were jammed with people.

Grand playhouse spectators were perched on every possible vantage point. The governor told a story last night—the story of two aged parents of an Ohio soldier. The son was killed in the Argonne, but the parents would not, he did not believe he was dead. When his regiment came home the parents stood, looking for the son.

The father carried the mother from the scene. At last a letter arrived from the son, written in his own hand. It predicted death, but said if it came the son would be happy in the thought that there would not be another such war.

"When the boys left, the pledge to their mothers was to make war impossible," spoke the governor. "That's right," female voices rang out through the audience.

"The boys' pledge good you must now vote as the boys about-to-end war. It is our pledge to the boys who sleep in France," continued Cox.

He said that he would do his best to end war, Governor Cox declared that 92 per cent of the cost of government is due to the cost of the war.

NAVY SEIZES 2000 BARRELS OF OIL

San Francisco, Sept. 11.—(I. N. S.)—The United States navy today forcibly seized 2000 barrels of oil from the Shell Oil company.

A naval force under command of Captain Leach of the Mare Island navy yard landed at the Shell company's pier at Martines and took the oil. They met with no resistance, but the landing party was forced to smash locks in order to secure the oil.

The amount seized was one large load. Rear Admiral Joseph L. Jayne, commander of the Twelfth naval district, issued a statement after the action, stating that the naval officials regretted its necessity exceedingly.

"The Shell Oil company is the only one of the larger companies on this coast that has not been willing to enter into a contract with the navy department at terms which the department felt reasonable and in justice to the other companies it was considered necessary to commandeer the oil," the statement said.

The plane "strapped off" from Levee, N. Y., where the night was spent, at 8:15 this morning, but was forced to return to N. Y. A new start was made at 9:30 and Reno reached an hour later. The plane left Reno for San Francisco at 11:30.
