

$120,000 SOUGHT IN SETTLEMENT OF ANGLERS' CLAIMS

Asking that five of the state fish hatcheries, representing a value of $40,000, be set aside for the exclusive propagation of game fish and that a cash settlement of $120,000 be made to the sportsmen of Oregon, the Multnomah Anglers' club, in a letter submitted to the state game commission at its regular meeting Monday, requested an early segregation of the commercial fish and game hatcheries.

The anglers' club bases its claim upon a 50 per cent equity in the state fish hatcheries which are estimated to have a total value of $320,000, the most of which are used for commercial fish purposes.

The game commission referred the question to the committee on segregation previously appointed. Members of the commission expressed themselves as eager to arrive at some businesslike arrangement with the Oregon sportsmen, either in the way of reimbursement of an equitable segregation of hatcheries.

WOMAN LEAPS IN RIVER; RESCUED

Kept afloat by the buoyancy of her skirts for 15 minutes after she had leaped into the Willamette river from the north side of the Morrison street bridge at 12:15 o'clock Monday morning, Mrs. Katherine Aikman, 36, was saved from drowning by the prompt and single-handed effort of Engineer Voderberg of the harbor patrol.

With a number of letters dispatched to friends telling of her intention of taking her life, Mrs. Aikman is said to have left her room at the Portland hotel about midnight Sunday and went directly to the bridge.

Three boys who had noticed her depressed condition, watched her climb over the bridge railing and leap through the darkness into the water. Bridge Tender F. R. Alexander called the harbor patrol and Voderberg responded.

Voderberg found the woman floating on the surface of the water, her garments keeping her afloat temporarily. He hurried the woman to the police matron where first aid methods revived her and brought a comfortable rest.

Police declare no reason for the act is apparent from the letters Mrs. Aikman left to friends aside from the fact that she is estranged from her husband, Mrs. Aikman has been a resident guest at the Hotel Portland for four years.

Weather Bet for Pendleton Round-up Safe Sept. 23 to 25

It never—hardly ever—rains at Pendleton during the annual Round-Up, dated this year for September 23-25. Round-up officials made a close study of past weather records before selecting dates for the big show, and dates when there is least likely to be any unfavorable weather to mar the full pleasure of the Round-Up.

There are still a few reservations available on The Journal's special Round-Up train, scheduled to leave Portland on the night of Thursday, September 23, returning the following Sunday morning. This will give guests on the special a week of the Round-Up, and the railroad fare, $45, includes not only transportation, sleeping berth accommodations and meals on the train, but even reserved seats at the grandstand for both days of the Round-Up.

Reservations on The Journal special may be made at the office of The Journal Travel Bureau, main floor Journal building.

Outlaw Strike to Be Continued, Vote Returns Indicate

Chicago, Sept. 13.—(U. P.)—Continuation of the "outlaw" strike of railroad switchmen, which has hampered transportation for several months, was predicted here today by H. E. Reading, president of the Engineers' association. "Outlaws" throughout the country, Reading said, are voting today on whether to stay out or return to work. Reading declared indications were the men will "fight to a finish."

Latest tabulations on the vote taken here yesterday showed Chicago "outlaws" in favor of a finish fight. The "bitter-enders" were leading the conservatives today by about 1000 votes, returns showed. Eddie returns indicated the vote was "overwhelmingly" for returning to work.

Hauser Is Host to Scribes With Cox

Honoring the newspaper correspondents who are traveling with Governor Cox, Eric V. Hauser, owner of the Multnomah hotel, gave a complimentary dinner in the Arcadian Gardens Sunday night. The affair was entirely informal, under Miss Mary Measor's direction to meet the Portland newspaper men. Some of the correspondents had gone to Salem with Cox, but most of them responded to Hauser's Chicago "outlaw" dinner. Among the guests was Dr. Goldsmith, the expert on the League of Nations. No speeches were made and some of the visitors went on to Salem on night trains.

Police Arrest Man With Stolen Check

Albert Mandes was arrested by a squad of inspectors who rushed to R. M. Gray's clothing establishment at West Park and Washington streets at 10:30 Monday morning where he had attempted to cash a stolen check for $18.50. Gray became suspicious of the check which had been offered in payment for a small purchase. The check had been made out to Ned Mungler, 235 North Seventeenth street, by the General Clear company and had been reported stolen Saturday night by Mungler's daughter.

Dr. and Mrs. Parrish left for the South Saturday night.

New Sanitarium to Replace Old One Is Plan of Adventists

Seventh Day Adventists plan the erection of a new sanitarium on the site of their present hospital at East Sixtieth street and Glendale avenue. Plans for the new structure being prepared by Sutton & White, call for a five-story building of fireproof construction, estimated to cost approximately $250,000.

STEDMAN BRINGS DEBS' MESSAGE TO LOCAL SOCIALISTS

Seymour Stedman, vice presidential nominee of the Socialist party, disclosed issues of the present day as seen by his organization at the Auditorium Sunday night.

Eugene V. Debs, presidential nominee of the Socialist party, is in the federal prison at Atlanta, convicted of violation of the espionage act. He has been the nominee of his party for several times, and during preceding campaigns always made a tour of the country. This year his place on the stump is taken by his running mate, who is a practicing attorney of Chicago.

Stedman brought a message to the Socialists of Portland from Debs, and was given an ovation when he delivered it at the Auditorium, saying, "Mr. Debs says that while Harding is carrying on a front porch campaign you tell my comrades that I am carrying on a front cell campaign."

Stedman said during his address that the Socialist party recognized the right of self-determination, that there could be no real internationalism until there was a real nationalism, and no nation was held in subjection to the power of another nation or group of nations. This meant, he said, that the Irish republic should be recognized, that the people of Russia should be permitted to work out their own salvation under the form of government which they might choose and that Egypt, India and "all other nations now held in subjection against their own will" should be permitted to say for themselves what they desired to do with their own governments and their own destinies.

Stedman contended that the nominees of both the Republican and the Democratic parties had evaded the real issues before the people of the United States at this time. They had not said a word for restoration of the lost liberties of the people, for the establishment of industrial democracy, a world comradeship or an international league of nations. He endorsed the Plumb plan and denounced the Cummins-Each railroad bill as a measure enacted by congressmen elected by the votes of the laborers of the country, who had, nevertheless, bowed to the dictates of the capitalists of the country.

Stedman left Sunday night for San Francisco, where he will continue his campaign tour through California.

Sharpstein Portland Visitor John L. Sharpstein of Walla Walla, candidate for the Republican nomination as governor of Washington, was a Portland visitor over Sunday, having completed a speaking tour of Western Washington in the interest of his candidacy. Sharpstein is confident of his nomination because of his legislative record in the state, his opposition to radicalism and his wide personal acquaintance in the state.

Peek-a-Boo Waists And Open Sweaters Taboo at University

Berkeley, Cal., Sept. 13.—(U. P.)—Peek-a-boo waists, openwork sweaters, white skirts and fancy stockings will be a thing of the past on the University of California campus, according to a statement made today by Miss Grace Roundtree, president of the Association of Women Students at the University of California.

Following a campaign conducted for simplicity in living, the women's council, under Miss Mary Measor's persistent sorority girl, adopted a resolution declaring that the university girls were dressing in an unbecoming way and advocating simpler clothes.

Miss Roundtree promised that the resolution will be presented to a mass meeting of women students soon.

Aix Les Bains, France, Sept. 13.—(U. P.)—The conference of Premier Giolitti of Italy and Premier Millerand of France, which was originally called to discuss Franco-Italian matters, took a broad international turn today. When the meeting was resumed at 10:30 o'clock it was announced that M. Jonesco, representative of the Roumanian government, would be heard concerning Roumanian finances, and that M. Padewski, former premier of Poland, would be received to discuss the Russo-Polish war.

It is likely that a Franco-Italian economic agreement will result from the conference. Premier Millerand issued an informal statement saying that the first session on Sunday was a "complete success."

Engine Crew Dead Under Landslide; Wreckers at Work

Denver, Colo., Sept. 13.—(U. P.)—Wrecking crews today were digging out from beneath tons of earth and rock the Denver & Rio Grande passenger train which was struck by a landslide near DeBeque, Colo., early yesterday, killing the engine crew and two unidentified tramps and fatally injuring another.

The engine, mail and baggage cars were overturned and scores of passengers were slightly injured. Reports today from the scene of the wreck were that the slide is continuing gradually and railway officials fear it will be a week before the track can be cleared.

BANDITS GET $8200 IN STREET HOLDUP

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 13.—(I. N. S.)—A messenger for the Citizens Deposit & Trust company of Sharpsburg, a suburb, was held up before noon today at Sixty-second street as the messenger was changing street cars. The robbers got $8200 and escaped in an automobile.

Matt Milinkovich, 26, was arrested at 83 North Second street, where he was found with a flask filled with illicit liquor. He is held for immigration authorities, having been in the United States for 13 years without making application for his first citizen papers, the police declare.

At the same location the operatives picked up William Masurn on a charge of vagrancy and are holding him in default of $500 bail. He is said to be the decoy for the illegal liquor vendors in the north end. John Canich was taken into custody at 55 North Second street and Mike Welles was arrested at 9 p. m. Sunday at 81 North Second street. Both men are charged with violation of the prohibition law. They were equipped with the familiar looking flasks filled with the much-sought-after refreshment. They were released on $250 bail and will appear in court today.

Police Disguised As Loggers Take 3 On Liquor Charge

Masquerading as loggers early Sunday morning, Patrolmen Meacham and Ragan made a tour of the north end resorts and soft drink parlors, where they pretended to have an unquenchable thirst. As a result of their activity, they arrested four men.
