

HAYES SENATORIAL PETITION LAGGING; MUST BE IN SOON

Strenuous efforts are being made today, and will be continued Wednesday, by Frank Stott Myers and his associates to secure the necessary 3000 and more signatures to place the name of Thomas E. Hayes on the ballot as an independent candidate for United States senator.

Under the law the petition must be filed with the secretary of state at Salem by the close of business Wednesday afternoon to give Hayes a place on the ballot.

Myers and the rest of those back of the circulation of the Hayes petitions are paying 10 cents a signature to the people they have hired to circulate the petition. The circulators are not making big money, according to their complaints, as they find it difficult to persuade people to sign. They are working mostly in the vicinity of the public market and are telling prospective signers that the purpose of the Hayes candidacy is to "reduce the high cost of living." They want to center their persuasive efforts upon women shoppers and those who look as if they had a grievance at the existing order of things generally. The circulators are not overly optimistic as to the success of their efforts, being dubious concerning their ability to gather in enough valid signatures within the time given to put the name of Hayes upon the ballot.

MILTON MILLER TO OPEN GUNS IN COX CAMPAIGN

The opening gun in the Cox speaker campaign in Multnomah county will be fired Friday night when Milton A. Miller, chairman of the Cox speakers' bureau and collector of internal revenue at Portland, will address a mass meeting at Gresham. Dr. Esther Pohl Lovejoy may also talk at the Gresham meeting.

Following the Miller address mass meetings will be held all over Multnomah county for discussion of the issues of the campaign. A list of 50 speakers is in the hands of the Cox committee and these will be called upon to bear the burden of the speaking operations in this county.

The Cox speakers will carry the campaign for the League of Nations and for continuance of the federal reserve and farm loan acts to the people of Gresham. Throughout the Multnomah county campaign considerable stress will be laid on the league to offset the befogging statements that have been broadcast regarding America's position in this county.

DRY FORCES BECOME ACTIVE IN SUPPORT OF DR. LOVEJOY

The alleged attempt of liquor interests to secure from the next congress such modification of the Volstead enforcement act as shall permit the manufacture of light wine and beer has aroused the temperance forces of Oregon. The Prohibition party has been reorganized, the Anti-Saloon league has brought to the field a vigorous superintendent, the W. C. T. U. has taken on new activity and the churches are said to be preparing to participate in the campaign.

The Third Oregon congressional district, which comprises Multnomah county, there has been formed a dry congressional committee representing officially the W. C. T. U., Anti-Saloon league and the Prohibition state committee, the purpose of which is to promote the candidacy of Dr. Esther Pohl Lovejoy as a "dry" candidate.

The committee, which is paying little heed to party lines, has opened an office at 313 Fenton building, where Mrs.

CHAMBERLAIN FOR CHILDREN BEFORE REFUGE FOR BIRDS

Burns, Or., Sept. 21.—United States Senator George Chamberlain, who arrived in Burns Saturday evening, said that he spent one of the most pleasant though strenuous Sundays he has experienced for some time. The afternoon was given over to greeting the scores of old friends, swapping reminiscences of the time when Harney county was just a big cow country and the nearest trading point was The Dalles.

He also met individuals and delegation who came to discuss reclamation, transportation, small service, bird refuge and other matters, the most important matter of all being impounding of the water of the Slilvies and Blitzen rivers on Silver creek, which will ultimately result in the loss of more than 200,000 acres of rich agricultural land, the proposed Harney-Silver project alone covering approximately 120,000 acres.

COUNSEL DISLIKES JUDGE; CASE IS GIVEN TRANSFER

Because an attorney has a personal dislike for a judge is not generally considered sufficient cause for a transfer of the suit of his client after the case has been assigned, but it worked out that way today in the Multnomah county district court.

Jacob Capeluto brought an action against Henry Kufman for $200 damages alleged to have been inflicted by assault and battery. John J. Hannon was attorney for Capeluto. The case was assigned to District Judge Joseph H. Jones. Hannon filed an affidavit of prejudice, asking for a change to another court, but instead of charging prejudice by the court itself he set forth his own feelings toward the judge, saying: "I have a prejudice and violent dislike toward and against said Joseph H. Jones, and averring, therefore, that the case should be transferred. Jones, while not conceding that this was sufficient cause, granted the plea for a transfer, and the case was assigned to District Judge Bell.

Guilty of Machinery Theft

A jury in Circuit Judge Morrow's court found Ben Weinstein and K. Adler guilty of larceny of certain machinery, which was broken up and sold for junk. They will be sentenced Saturday morning.

Milk Commission Resumes Hearings On Winter Prices

W. L. Brewster, chairman of the city milk commission, today announced the resumption of hearings on the winter price of milk, the first to be held Thursday night at the Central library. All factors in the production and delivery of milk will be allowed hearings. Brewster said, including producers, distributors, grocers and the public.

The price of milk is now 14 cents a quart if payment is made in advance, 15 cents if paid at the end of the month. The distributor pays the producer $2.55 per hundred pounds.

Brewster said he hopes to get the hearings over with by September 25 or 27, so the winter price may be announced to take effect October 1.

McArthur Assails Cox; Says Editorials Were Pro-German

Grants Pass, Sept. 21.—The local Republican campaign was opened Monday night by Congressman C. N. McArthur, who attacked Governor Cox, Democratic presidential nominee, on the ground that in 1918, while campaigning for the governorship of Ohio, he catered to the German vote of that state.

McArthur read from the Dayton News, Cox's paper, editorials which he asserted were pro-German. He called Cox a "time serving politician," asserting he was more interested than in getting votes than in the country's welfare.

Mrs. Lee Davenport of Portland appealed to the women voters to stand by the party.

HAWLEY PREDICTS END OF INFLATION

Roseburg, Sept. 21.—Congressman W. C. Hawley, who is touring Southern Oregon, was a guest at a business men's luncheon Monday. Introduced by George Neuner, Congressman Hawley said he planned to do all in his power to give assistance to any public work in road appropriations or other matters that might be brought before him.

He voiced the opinion that the present inflation can not endure. The farmer will probably be the first to suffer, he said, as he has not benefited in proportion to the high prices received as other lines of business. The farmer has not profited in proportion to the costs of labor he has had to employ, though farm products have been high, because everything on the farm has been proportionately high, he pointed out.

That the country is approaching a serious condition and level headed statesmen must be ready to accept about an adjustment of conditions is his view. He called attention to the employment of 400,000 salaried men by the government after the war, which, he said, is not necessary and at least a part should be released.

"The business situation of this section of the state seems to be flourishing," he said, "and we have never seen Oregon in a more prosperous condition. Everywhere I find farmers satisfied with conditions and crops were never better. The only thing that is a cause of interest in politics throughout the state, although there has been no campaigning."

SANDY RIVER DEPTHS YIELD STOLEN CAR

made had covered 42 miles. The top and body are badly smashed. The switch key was still in place and all equipment except tools appeared to be intact.

Murder, thieves and burglars are all the more active in the neighborhood, divers said, as all possible developments of further investigation which is being made.

The car was drawn up to a sandbar on the west side of the Sandy. Tracks in the dirt at the side of Gordon creek road, two miles south of Springdale, led deputy sheriffs and divers to the spot in the Sandy river where the automobile lay submerged under 30 feet of water.

DIVERS START WORK

Under the direction of Deputy Sheriff J. J. Davis, divers, who were aided by persons residing in the neighborhood, Divers Sterling and E. E. Kellogg started work this morning.

At hand, W. A. Davis, rancher, who lives about a mile east of Pleasant Home, Davis and Sam Bacon, a neighbor, had been camped at the mouth of Gordon creek the night of August 31. Davis said he was awakened from his sleep by the noise of two machines passing on the road above them.

FOUR SHOTS HEARD

"We were aroused by the firing of four shots, but the matter was of no attention," Davis said today. "We heard the cars pass toward the Gordon creek auto camp. Later in the night what we thought to be the same machines returned. One of the engines stopped and we heard two men talking in low tones.

"We were almost asleep again when we heard a great crash as if a heavy object clattered down the steep embankment toward the river. Metallic sounds echoed from the shelving rocks just before a great, resounding plunge echoed over the river.

"When the other machine departed at once we assumed that a log or big stone had been rolled off and I thought no more of the matter until last Sunday when I found in the backwash of the Sandy 200 feet below the scene of the crash an automobile. I reported the incident at once.

The tracks of an automobile lead off the road and over the bank down the bank and to the shelving rocks designated by Davis. There the tracks vanished, leading officials to assume that the machine was at the bottom of the river. The surface of the river is estimated as 75 feet below the Gordon creek road.

CONVICTS ESCAPE; FLEE UNDER FIRE

Salem, Sept. 21.—Braving a volley from the guns of guards at the state prison brick yard Frank Waggoner and Earl Riley, convicts, made their escape at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning and are believed to be in hiding in the brush along Mill creek, which has been surrounded by prison guards.

Waggoner was doing a 40-year sentence for burglary, coming here from Clatsop county in October, 1919. Multnomah county for larceny in a dwelling in December, 1919. He was a "repeater" and had several years of an old sentence hanging over him. Riley was first received at the state prison in 1915 under a sentence of from one to 10 years for larceny. He escaped in November, 1918, but was captured and returned to the institution and was later released on parole, being returned last December on the new charge.

Waggoner was implicated with Al Meaders in the robbery of the Walter Kalunki store on which about 4000 dollars was sentenced to a term of four years. Following the Astoria robbery Waggoner and Meaders drove across country in an automobile to St. Joe, Mo., where they were arrested and brought back to Oregon.

Following his incarceration in the prison Waggoner was tried on a charge of robbing a store at Silverton, his aggregate sentences amounting to 40 years.

Bell, who lives at 1491 East Lincoln street, was driving along Millwaukie street and the machine swerved in making the turn at Seventeenth, crashing into a machine standing in front of the Sellwood garage. Johnson, an employe of the Sellwood Coal & Wood company, was pinned between the two machines.

Mrs. Pearl Shields, 37, of 862 Vaughn street, was taken to St. Vincent's hospital early this morning where it is stated she is in a critical condition from formaldehyde poisoning.

Mrs. Shields is said by the police to be a housekeeper at the Vaughn street address. On the table in the room where she was found by the police was this note:

"Don't think I am killing myself over anything, but I am not well, that is all. Tell Frank to look after everything. Pearl Shields."

Neighbors who said they were only slightly acquainted with Mrs. Shields said she had always seemed to be in bad health.

WM. BARRETT HELD FOR HUGE THEFT

London, Sept. 21.—(I. N. S.)—The Evening News states that a warrant has been issued for the arrest of William Barrett, son-in-law of J. R. Drexel, charging him with the alleged theft of $125,000 worth of jewels.

The jewels were the property of Mrs. William Spreckels of California. Barrett, according to the Evening News, has left London and is believed to be either in Canada or on his way to that country.

Captain William Barrett, son of ex-governor Barrett, was born in Hillsboro, Or., and educated in that place. He was looked upon as a fine lad and his acquaintances were not surprised when he "made" the naval academy. When he became involved in a diamond scandal in San Francisco some years ago, his conduct created surprise that amounted almost to consternation in his birthplace. Barrett eloped about the time of Alexander Kerr of Tacoma. The couple spent most of their short married life in Portland, where a divorce was granted to Mrs. Barrett.

Barrett dropped from sight, so far as public gaze was concerned, except for several highly commendatory reports of his gallantry and dare-devil fights in the air service in France. Returning after the armistice with the rank of captain, Barrett laid siege to the heart of Alice Drexel and they were quietly married in 1919. Barrett took his bride to Europe, where he deserted her and, too proud to appeal, she was in poverty when their baby was born early this spring. Learning of her distress, Drexel went to France and brought his daughter home.

Motorman's Grand Air Wins Flossie' But She Regrets It

(Herald News)

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Sweet sixteen is not the magic period between the last doll and the first kiss—not for Flossie. She was in court Monday to answer to a charge of bigamy and fixed it up to go back to her first love, Peter Sampucci, who now has an automobile. It was the "grand air" of the street-car motorman that drew her away, she explained.

Everybody has a want—some want something—others want to dispense with something. Lots and lots of people use The Journal classified columns to advertise these wants and Don't Wanta. You'll enjoy reading these little wants of the people. Just turn to the classified columns. You'll find them awfully interesting.

If you should want to buy or sell something a small "want" ad inserted in The Journal—say 12 words at a cost of only a few cents—might possibly buy or sell that something for you.

Second Hand Dealer Held When Stolen War Stamps Found

Secret service agents claim to have found $1000 worth of stolen and altered War Savings Stamps in the second hand store of M. L. Hockfeld, 85 Third street, when they searched the store Monday evening and placed Hockfeld under arrest. He was lodged in the city jail over night in default of $3500 bail, but was released this morning by United States Commissioner Drake, to appear for a hearing on October 4.

Assistant United States Attorney John Veatch said Hockfeld endeavored to sell some of the stamps recently and that the government has obtained a clue. Veatch said he is not certain what bank the stamps came from, but secret service agents claim they are stolen stamps. The government contends the registration numbers have been erased and the stamps placed on new cards.

Counsel for Hockfeld was wroth this morning at actions of Agents Gerald and Foster, who are said to have prevented Hockfeld from getting in touch with friends so that he could obtain bail.

BANISH TERRORISTS URGES MACREADY

Dublin, Sept. 21.—(U. P.)—Major General Macreaddy, commanding the British forces, intimated today the government was considering driving out of Ireland the "known" terrorists who are making all the trouble.

Macreaddy's statement followed two days of small skirmishing and ambushing which resulted in the deaths of several loyalists.

"In case of a general revolt," said Macreaddy, "we are ready—perfectly ready. A small band of known terrorists is causing all the trouble and the day may come when we will have to make a definite clearance of them."

PIPES IS HONORED ON 70TH BIRTHDAY BY BENCH AND BAR

Judge Martin L. Pipes was sentenced "to 30 years more of life" by the supreme court sitting en banc following the unanimous verdict of a jury of judges and lawyers which packed the grill room of the Portland hotel to its doors at noon today.

Judge Pipes is 70 years of age and today is his birthday. He was the guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Multnomah county bar and on that occasion the supreme court wrote a new precedent into its history, for it adjourned court at Salem to attend the luncheon in a body, something that the august tribunal has never before done in honor of a living member of the bar.

"D. Solis Cohen presided as chairman of the day and introduced the speakers, who were Chief Justice McBride, speaking for the supreme court, and Judge Henry E. McGinn, for the bar of the county.

Seldom, if ever, before has such a largely attended luncheon been held in honor of a local member of the bar.

Clothing Cost Too High and It Must Fall, Says Dealer

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(I. N. S.)—Better luck is in store for the price-harassed head of the average household. Clothing prices are too high and must be cut.

"This was the substance of the message of Frederick Levy, president of the Retail Clothiers' association, to almost 1000 members of that organization at a meeting here today.

"We all agree that prices are too high," Levy said, "and we must all work together to bring about a new normal of prices."

Levy advised the organization to devote time to speeding up production and to operate on the lowest possible margin of profit.
