WIFE, ACCUSED OF KILLING HUSBAND, GIVESTRAGICTALE

The tragic story of a wife, who is to care for the boy himself without attempted suicide because her husband had spurned her, was told on the witness stand in Circuit Judge "PAINLESS" DENTISTS SETTLE Gatens' court this morning by Mrs. Frankie Hart Bjorklund, on trial, Bjorklund in their apartments at Twenty-first and Thurman streets,

Mrs. Bjorklund testified that after she had called Bjorklund to their apartments in a last attempt to settle their differter, he spurned her advances, and 'she his office door the word "Main" in the then handed him the letter. She says he sign that reads "Main Entrance." She did not recover consciousness until after she reached the hospital. As to how her husband came to his death she claimed complete ignorance.

Both were unconscious when Harold Bjorklund, a nephew, entered the room. The revolver by which wounds in both the bodies were inflicted, was found about two feet from Mrs. Bjorklund, and Bjorklund's body was lying several feet from the rocking chair.

The court room all day Thursday and again on Friday was filled by a curious crowd of people, many women being in the audience. All details were listened to with avid interest. Mrs. Bjorklund was the second wit-
