

COX TO GET BIG G. O. P. VOTE IN OHIO, SAY SEVANS

Governor James M. Cox is going to get all the Democratic and a third of the Republican vote of Ohio on election day, according to J. C. Evans, railroad man, who has recently returned from an extended visit in Ohio, his former home. Evans was a visitor at Democratic headquarters this morning and told of his impressions gained by several weeks spent in Ohio, visiting old friends and school day acquaintances and talking a good deal of politics on the side.

"Ohioans stick pretty close together," Evans said, "and back there you do not hear the people saying unkind things about either Cox or Harding. The people are proud of both of them as citizens of the state, but I gained the definite impression from what I heard that the rank and file of people pretty generally back behind Governor Cox in his candidacy."

"It is generally believed that Cox is more the friend of the man who works for his living than is Harding. He has been so as governor of the state and his record shows it. There is a current feeling in Ohio where people know both men and have watched them work both in private and in public life that Senator Harding's sympathies have always leaned more towards the corporate interests of the state and the country towards employes of corporations. Governor Cox on the other hand has always stood for interests of the rank and file of the men and women who have had to work for the corporations and there is not much doubt in my mind that he will be given united support of his party vote together with the vote of at least a third of the Republicans of the state to admire his record as governor as well as the position he has taken as a private citizen upon general issues of the day."

Evans also contends that the railroad men as a class will cast their votes for Cox because of the same popular feeling among them that Cox is more the friend of the wage earner than is Harding.

BENNETT FACES INQUIRY; CRASH STINGS BOARD

Banks and his subordinates to give the adequate degree of protection demanded by the people and the law.

"The board feels that the situation in connection with the Jacksonville bank is one which merits the board's closest attention in fixing the degree of responsibility which may be placed upon the bank, the superintendent of banks and those under him. For that reason we feel, as members of the board, that a complete and specific report should be made to such board by the superintendent of banks covering the steps that were taken by the department to protect the depositors of the insolvent institution and such report will be asked for forthwith."

BANK IS EXPECTED TO PAY ABOUT 25 CENTS ON DOLLAR

Medford, Sept. 24.—The Jacksonville bank wreck was so complete that it is estimated it can only pay out 25 cents on the dollar, according to the long delayed report of Will H. Bennett, state bank examiner, which was filed Thursday with the circuit court.

"The report shows assets of but $217,827.14 and liabilities of $319,800. The report also says that William H. Johnson, president of the bank, who has been in the county jail under $50,000 bond since the collapse of the bank, awaiting trial on the charge of perjury in connection with his wrecking of the bank, kept two sets of books and falsified his sworn statement of the bank's condition on June 30, last. The bank was closed on August 13 by State Bank Examiner Bennett.

"I doubt if it will ever be known where all the money is gone," said Bennett. "The chaotic condition of the bank's affairs defies description. President Johnson enjoyed the highest reputation and the most complete confidence of its patrons as because he kept one set of books for its patrons and another for himself, with no record at all of many transactions, it is physically impossible to determine the exact condition of affairs. The extent of the liabilities is only estimated, but after the most thorough investigation possible I think the bank will be able to liquidate about 25 per cent."

Superintendent Bennett has appointed E. D. Kahler of Central Point as special deputy to have charge of the bank from now on.

INVESTIGATION BY GRAND JURY IS TO BE REQUESTED

Salem, Or., Sept. 23.—The Jackson county grand jury, which convenes on the third Monday in October, will be asked to make a thorough investigation into the failure of the Bank of Jacksonville as well as into the responsibility for the unusually large deposit of funds carried with the bank at the time of the failure, according to G. M. Roberts, district attorney for Jackson county, who is in Salem on business before the supreme court.

In view of the fact that he will be required to prosecute this investigation before the grand jury, Roberts refused to comment on the status of the county court or the county treasurer in connection with the apparent flagrant violation of the state law with reference to the deposit of county funds in the Jacksonville bank.

RESPONSIBILITY IS DENIED

Roberts did, however, take occasion to deny any responsibility on his part for the condition of the county funds.

"I regard it as my duty to advise the county officials upon request for such advice and not to detective, whose duty it is to ferret out conditions of this kind," he said, adding that at no time had Mrs. Myrtle Blakely, county treasurer of Jackson county, consulted him as to the legality of her action in favoring the now defunct institution with the deposit of a large portion of the county's funds.

Roberts said he is working on a theory by which he hoped to save to the county its entire deposit with the defunct bank. This theory, Roberts explained, involves the claim of all county funds on deposit in the bank in excess of the legal allowance as a trust fund. Such a fund, he said, would have preference over all other claims in the payment of depositors and it is believed that the assets of the bank will be about sufficient to cover the county's deposit.

MANY LAWS VIOLATED

William Johnson, president of the Jacksonville bank according to Roberts, has apparently violated about every law enacted to safeguard the public in its dealings with state banks, and faces prosecution on numerous counts of larceny, forgery, embezzlement and other crimes, the aggregate sentence of which would insure his incarceration in the state prison for many times more than a natural lifetime.

Speaking of the shaky condition in which the bank is said to have been for some time previous to its final closing by Will H. Bennett, state superintendent of banks, Roberts called attention to an overdraft of some $45,000 on one depositor's account, which had been running with the bank for between two and three years.

BENNETT BLAMES DOUBLE BOOKS KEPT BY BANK HEAD

Medford, Or., Sept. 24.—In speaking of the wrecking of the Jacksonville bank by President William H. Johnson and his report filed in circuit court Thursday, made on the present condition of the bank, Will H. Bennett, superintendent of the state banking department, said: "There was no way for any bank examiner to have known the true condition of the bank, as long as there was no suspicion of the honesty of the banker, and the books as presented showed no discrepancies. The report indicates that Johnson made a daily statement of the bank's condition, which balanced properly on its face, and then in a slipshod manner kept a record of the actual condition of affairs as he saw them. His own records were so garbled and mixed up that no one else could fathom them and, until Johnson himself explains, if he ever does, it cannot be learned where the money has gone."

BOND RECORDS Muddled

The report does not clear up the condition of the Jacksonville county funds on deposit in the bank beyond what is already known, that there was $107,000 on deposit. If Bennett's estimate that the bank will pay but 25 cents on the dollar is correct, this means that the county will lose $80,250.

The Liberty bond record of the bank is a hopeless muddle. It has been found that the Liberty bonds of George Flick, reported sold by the Ladd & Tilton bank of Portland, were so sold and the amount credited to Flick's checking account. However, apparently a number of patrons
