

OREGON IS CALLED LEADER OF WORLD IN COMPENSATION

Federal Investigator Is High in Praise of State's Efforts to Care for Injured Workmen.

Salem, Sept. 25.—Oregon leads the world in the matter of workmen's compensation, according to William A. Marshall, chairman, and Will T. Kirk, member, of the Oregon state industrial accident commission, who returned Saturday from San Francisco, where they attended the sessions of the national convention of industrial accident commissions.

Oregon's status in workmen's compensation, the Oregon commissioners explain, is based on a comprehensive survey completed by Carl Hookstead, special investigator for the United States department of labor statistics, covering all states which operate with a state fund.

The Oregon fund, according to Hookstead's report to the convention, has the best record in point of service, providing more efficient payment of claims, even than is provided by employers' mutual insurance companies, and a more equitable rate of administrative cost.

In a test covering a period of six weeks it has been shown that at the end of that period 19 per cent of claims presented were unsettled in states operating under an exclusive state fund, whereas 20 per cent were unsettled in states in which mutual companies operate.

The compensation situation and 22 per cent in those states having competitive funds.

The exclusive state fund was shown to be the cheapest in point of administrative cost, with an average of 7 1/2 per cent of the premium income consumed in expenses under this type of compensation as against 12 1/2 per cent under the competitive state funds, 20 per cent under mutual companies and 37 1/2 per cent under the stock company arrangement.

Under the exclusive state fund as effective in Oregon there is no problem, no struggle, no long drawn out hearings, no waiting for the insurance companies to make payments, according to Hookstead's report, which points to these experiences under other forms of industrial insurance as decided disadvantages in comparison with the Oregon system.

Oregon was also pointed out as leading the other states of the union in the matter of vocational rehabilitation. This state, it was shown, has already adopted advanced methods in the care of workmen injured in industries, which other states are beginning to give consideration. This is the only state, it was shown, which not only provides compensation for injured workmen and their dependents but trains them for new work to which they are adapted, pays all expenses during the training period and finds the injured man a job when he is able to go to work again.

T. N. Dean, statistician with the Toronto, Canada, industrial accident commission, is visiting Salem on his way home from the national convention of commissioners at San Francisco, for a study of conditions obtaining in Oregon under the compensation act in effect in this state. The Canadian province, which adopted workmen's compensation in 1915, two years after Oregon, has a law modeled somewhat after that of Oregon's compensation act, except that it does not require contributions to the fund from workmen.

NET BRINGS FREAK FISH

Carp-sucker, apparently unique cross, found by seiners. Lower picture shows head with small hole instead of mouth.

From the watery depths of the Columbia slough, a mouthless fish of hybrid species defined by John Gill as a cross between a carp and a sucker, was seized by government fishermen last week.

The fish had a small opening beneath its eyes which it probably used as a means of getting nourishment. It was too slender for a carp, being shaped more like a sucker, but its fins were carp. Its eyes were deep sunken, whereas the eyes of both carp and sucker bulge outward.

Many peculiar fish have been found in Columbia slough in the past, but never has one been captured without a mouth.

Rate Advances in Oregon Are Illegal Unless Authorized

Salem, Sept. 25.—Public utilities in Oregon cannot advance their rates or charges without a public hearing before the public service commission and an order from the board authorizing the increase, according to an opinion prepared by Attorney General Brown.

"It is apparent that if the rates prescribed by the commission may be abrogated by the utility fitting a new schedule the force and effect of the commission's order amounts to little," the opinion holds. "It seems to me that as far as rates which have been fixed are concerned the only way to change the same is by a suit in court or by a complaint with the commission on the ground that they are unreasonable or by original complaint filed with the commission."

The driver of the jitney, W. Sluts, sustained injuries to his head and three of the passengers were badly bruised and shaken. Sluts was brought to a hospital here and, it is believed, will recover. Details are lacking, but it is said that Sluts was unaware that work was progressing on the bridge and did not suspect that the switching engine was on this section of the track.

REGISTRATION AT O. A. C. S. STILL CONTINUING DRISK

Figures at End of Fourth Day Were 2665 Compared With Only 2439 One Year Ago.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Sept. 25.—While registration at the college is still under way and is expected to be especially heavy Monday, class room work has been in full swing since Tuesday morning. Official registration figures issued by the registrar at the end of the fourth day showed that 2665 students had completed registration as compared with 2439 up to the same time in 1919. The number of registration cards given out to students by deans totals 2777. Many upper classmen, delayed by harvesting or holding lucrative summer employment, are expected to appear early next week.

The freshman class, with a registration of 870, is somewhat smaller than that of last year, when many returned veterans, who had been ready for college a year or two before, were included.

The largest increases are in the schools of commerce, home economics and agriculture, with a decrease in vocational students. Complete registration in the various branches is as follows: Agriculture 584, commerce 588, forestry 100, home economics 100, school of engineering, including civil, electrical, mechanical and industrial arts, 601, mining 67, chemical engineering 57, home economics 508, pharmacy 141, optional 34, music 16.

Of the 2665 students who have completed registration, 1791 are men and 874 are women. New students number 1125 and old 1540. Registration by classes is as follows: Freshmen 870, sophomore 700, junior 431, senior 267, graduates 2, special 208. The total registration for the school year, including the summer session, is 3034.

The indications to date point to a total registration in the regular full year college courses for the year of at least 3700.

The housing situation has been met satisfactorily. Additional dormitory annexes will be ready on or before October 1, and dormitory buildings moving into sorority houses, the situation will be much relieved.

The organization intends to petition Delta Sigma Rho, honorary national forensics fraternity.

Forensic stock on the campus has taken a jump with the employment of two full-time instructors in the department instead of one half-time instructor as in the past. Professor C. B. Jones, 2-90, county president, professor of debating at the Michigan Agricultural college, will devote his entire time to debate work, while Dr. George R. Salem, Sept. 25.—A special election on November 2 for a consideration of a special tax levy to provide an additional $20,000 for city expenses will be called by the city council following a report by the board of directors Friday night. The increased financial needs of the city are attributed to recent increases in salaries of firemen and members of the police department, as well as to the increase in the cost of material and supplies.

The question of a two-platoon system for the local fire department will also be placed on the special election ballot, it is said.

Plans for the liquidation of the Salem Homebuilders' association, recently organized here for the promotion of home ownership, were made at a meeting of the board of directors Friday night. Youth Sentenced To Penitentiary Covers His Identity

Roseburg, Sept. 25.—"I would rather spend 10 years in the penitentiary than let my father know of my crime," asserted Alfred Smith, 19-year-old boy, who confessed to having accompanied Fred Weir when the two stole a car belonging to the Drager Fruit company. All efforts of the officers to find out from Smith something of his parents were in vain except that his mother and father were in the city. He had never been in trouble before. Weir and Smith each received sentences of a year in the penitentiary.

PRIZE EXHIBITS AT SALEM TO BE SENT TO GRESHAM

Manager Minton of Multnomah County Fair Arranges for Display of Best Specimens Shown.

Prize winning exhibits at the Salem state fair will be transported to Gresham to be shown at the Multnomah county fair October 4-9 in a special freight train leaving Salem Saturday night, October 2, according to announcement made Saturday by C. D. Minton, manager of the Multnomah county fair.

The train, which is an innovation so far as the Multnomah County fair is concerned, will be filled with both blue ribbon stock and land products exhibits. The train will arrive in Gresham early Sunday morning and the exhibits made ready for the opening of the fair on Monday.

HORSE RACING FEATURED

The staging of the Multnomah County fair the week following the State fair has made possible the entry of the choicest exhibits from every section of the state, according to Minton. Likewise it will enable the racing of the fastest harness and running horses at the Gresham track. Heretofore these fast horses passed up Gresham in order to participate in the State fair races, but this year many of the strings of big circuit horses will be seen in action at Gresham.

As an added attraction on the first two days of the Multnomah County fair, automobile racing has been provided. This also is a new feature in Gresham, made possible through the organization of a dirt track circuit in the Northwest and the signing up of the fastest dirt track drivers from throughout the country.

AMUSEMENTS PLANNED

In addition to the racing features, President H. A. Lewis of the fair association is arranging for other stellar high grade amusement features, which he says are certain to attract large crowds to the fair.

Attendance records established at Gresham in the past are certain to be shattered, according to President Lewis, because of the large list of excellent exhibits, a continuous program of amusement features and also because of the staging of the Manufacturers' and Land Products show in conjunction with the fair.

This show has always attracted the public when held in Portland, because of the extensive showing of Oregon-made products and this year the exhibits will be on a grander scale than ever before.

The usual admission prices will prevail, despite the added attractions. Special transportation service will be provided by the railway companies during the Gresham fair week to accommodate the crowds who desire to visit the fair.

"Dentistry is fitted to cope with any dental ills that may crop up. What it could and would do for the benefit of the people at large has HERETOFORE BEEN A SEALED BOOK TO THE GREAT MAJORITY. The need is great for the general dissemination of real information on the subject of the teeth. ADVERTISING IS THE GREATEST FORCE IN MODERN AFFAIRS. Why should its great powers not be utilized for the benefit of the public in their dire need?"

That paragraph, taken from a full page advertisement in the one Dental Magazine which has always "stood so straight it leaned backward," shows that the great truth is slowly sinking in.

A few years ago a statement such as that would have been deemed unpardonable, and a magazine that dared to champion dental advertising would have lost most of its subscribers.

It is good to have lived to see the things for which I have been condemned adopted, or at least approved by my erstwhile critics.

Many years ago, in public announcements, I advocated:

- (1) Sanitary Dental Offices and complete sterilization of all instruments.
- (2) The abandonment of a fixed "fee bill" and an honest charge for all dental work.
- (3) Crowning and bridging teeth, whenever possible, WITHOUT killing the nerve (devitalization) or removing all enamel from the tooth.
- (4) Elimination of needless pain in all dental operations.
- (5) The right to advertise honestly, without fear or favor.
