Double Bill At Ball Park Is Postponed

Final Games of Series Scheduled for Sunday, Weather Permitting; Mails Is Praised.

By George Bertz JUPITER PLUVIUS has practically lost his popularity with Walter McCredie, the farmer-manager of the Portland Beavers.

In the springtime Mac years for rain, so that his potato and grain crop will be a big one, but when he's got his ball club under wing he wants "J. P." to keep under cover. But such has not been the case this week.

From a baseball standpoint, this has been the worst week in history. Never before has a whole series of games been postponed, such as has been the case this week, for rain with southerly winds is forecast for Sunday afternoon.

After finding it impossible to start the first game Saturday at 1 o'clock, Boss Mac ordered his players in uniform to hope for a postponement, but after waiting until about 2:30 o'clock the proceedings were called off and Dick Cox donned the boxing gloves for a workout with "Suds" Sutherland and a couple of other Beaver tossers.

Weather conditions permitting, a double-header will be played Sunday afternoon, the first game starting at 1 o'clock.

During the various things that were discussed in the clubhouse, Manager McCredie paid tribute to Walter Mails, the former Beaver pitcher, who beat the Chicago White Sox Friday afternoon, letting the Chicago players down with three hits. In reply to a message from the owners of the Cleveland club in the spring, McCredie wired them that Mails was easily the best pitcher he had on the coast and ranked head and shoulders above any other southpaw.

Bill Rodgers, the Sacramento boss, refused to part with Mails unless the Indians gave him a couple of good pitchers, and it was not until Speaker was backed up against the boards for an outfielder did the Cleveland club come through with the desired talent.

Multnomah Will Honor World Champ

"Happy" Kuehn Will Be Guest of Honor at Winged "M" Club Smoker October 7.

SATURDAY was a mighty busy day in the life of Louis "Happy" Kuehn Jr., Portland's world champion diver.

Almost three months ago he left for Chicago, where he competed in the sports at the place on the United States Olympic games diving team.

He is naturally quiet and unassuming, and for that reason he does not permit anyone to learn the time of his arrival here. He hoped off the rafter in the Union station and went undisturbed to his home.

Members of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club are planning a big homecoming for the star diver, and it will be open to the public, Thursday night, October 7, is the time set for the affair and a life membership in the institution will be tendered him at that time.

Much adverse criticism was showered on the board of directors of the Winged "M" club by the many admirers of the Portland boy because of the failure of the club to appropriate funds for "Happy's" trip to New York and return until after Kuehn Sr. had advertised the money among his friends in the Middle West.

When the diver was seen on the front of the suit in a very conspicuous place, and under it was the well-known shield which showed he was representative of the United States, too. He has picked up quite a number of pounds while on the "vacation," and he looks fine and dandy. He tipped the scales at 168 pounds at one time during the journey, but now he looks to be heavier than 130.

Multnomah Guard Is To Have Soccer "11"

Candidates for the Multnomah Guard soccer football team held a very enthusiastic meeting Friday night at which time W. E. Bragg was elected manager and Peter Mansley was named coach of the 1930-31 team.

A practice has been set for next Sunday morning on the East Twelfth and East Davis street grounds. Coach Mansley expects to call two evening sessions of the candidates, at which time gymnasium work will be resorted to in order to get the players in the best possible condition.

Silverside fishing on the Nehalem river is reported to be the best this season ever before. Information from Tillamook reveals that the oldest anglers there can not remember a time when the trout run was so heavy as it is at this time.

OREGON'S FULL SIXTY PLAYERS GRIDIRON SQUAD SEEK PLACES ON FROSH ELEVEN

Coach Huntington Has 11 Letter Men Back for This Season's University Team.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Sept. 25.—With the first scheduled game coming October 23, with the University of Idaho, nearly half a hundred Oregon football warriors are working hard, preparing for a great football season.

Last year's coaching staff is intact, "Shy" Huntington, head coach; Bert Spellman, line coach, and Bill Hayward, trainer, all working to make the team the best back from the Oregon Olympic games, and Williams, both 1920 graduates, have been added to the staff and will coach the frosh squad.

Among the veterans of last year's frosh team who look promising are the Shields brothers, Rudd Brown, Frank Hill and Pete Meade.

According to those who know, the line will be extra good quality, while the backfield prospects are a matter of question.

On the whole, the prospects for a good team are encouraging, but until school starts few real indications will be visible.

Seven Stakes at Tia Juana San Diego, Cal., Sept. 25.—(U. P.)—The Lower California Jockey club today announced the stakes for the coming race meet at Tia Juana, which will open Thanksgiving day, according to the plans mapped out by President James Coffroth and his associates.

C. B. C. Students Elected Announcement has been made that Brother Anthony has been made moderator of athletics at the Christian Brothers Business college. The student body of the institution elected officers for the 1930-31 semester as follows: Francis L. Neary, president; J. Francis Donnelly, vice-president; Leo H. Vitovich, secretary and Harold F. Fay, treasurer.

NATIONAL NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(U. P.)—The Dodgers were all set for a dress rehearsal of the National league championship at Ebbets field today, but called it off on account of a cloudburst of hits, the Giants winning 8 to 0.

Brooklyn's defeat, which was witnessed by nearly 30,000 fans, pulled them back to within four games of New York and they must still win two games to clinch the pennant.

The two teams play again at Ebbets field tomorrow and next week in New York and they must still win two games to clinch the pennant.

Burling Grimes, the Dodgers' pitching ace, was patted hard from the start and finished in the seventh after yielding 11 hits, Mama and Mohart, who succeeded him, were bumped for four blows and the same number of runs. Jess Barnes was in trouble several times, but was saved by brilliant fielding. Frisch and Bancroft figured in most of the flashy defensive plays.

Last World's Series Was "Fixed" Admits Jurymen in Baseball Scandal

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(U. P.)—New avenues of investigation of scandal were traveled tonight by officials gathering evidence for submission to the Cook county grand jury prying into alleged baseball crookedness.

Additional details of the alleged plot of the syndicate of gamblers, said to have harvested thousands of dollars by "fixing" players in the 1919 world series between the Chicago White Sox and the Cincinnati Reds, and other games, will be presented to the jury when the inquiry is resumed Tuesday.

SOX STARS CALLED Officials tonight had information for presentation to the jury regarding circulation of fake reports to influence the betting odds. Instances cited were the recent reports that Babe Ruth and several members of the New York Yankees were injured before the important series with Cleveland.

The grand jury will go to the heart of the alleged scandal in the 1919 world series when several members of the White Sox players called is included in the list of eight whose pay was held up by Owner Charles Comiskey at the close of the series.

Besides the claims that some members of the White Sox team were in the pay of gamblers during the series, the authorities will probe reports that some Cincinnati players were also brought into the clutches of an opposing faction of gamblers which played the Sox to win.

WOMAN ON "INSIDE" The clique betting on the Sox, however, did not try to reach the Reds through direct offers of money, these reports stated, but entertained them with "heavy" parties during the series, weakening them physically. One or two members of the Reds were said to have lost considerable money gambling on dice games and cards during the series, putting them under obligations to the winners.

Ban Johnson, president of the American league, who was accused by Comiskey of not aiding in the efforts to get to the bottom of the scandal, was reported to have conferred with Arnold Rothstein, millionaire gambler.

The grand jury next week will also hear the testimony of a woman whose name has not yet been made public, who is supposed to have been on the "inside."

HEYLER TO APPEAR That evidence tending to prove the series was fixed has been uncovered, was admitted by members of the grand jury. Final detailed information regarding the inside workings of the betting market will probably be presented at the start of the session next week.

Abbe Attell, former featherweight champion; Hal Chase, since banished from baseball; Fred McMullin, utility infielder of the 1919 Sox; Bill Burns, former Sox player; and Rothstein were mentioned by those close to the investigation as among those who might have knowledge.

John Heydler, president of the National league, Tuesday will give the grand jury what information he has on reports that the August 31 game between the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia was fixed. Heydler will present affidavits in his possession in connection with the investigation.

Johnson will be recalled on his return from New York to further explain what he knows of reports that the White Sox did not dare to win the pennant by pitching such great ball that the gamblers who had them in their power. The gamblers were betting on Cleveland, Johnson admitted having heard such reports.

John J. McGraw and George A. Stoneham, president of the New York Giants, were asked to testify before the grand jury.

This Week to Mark End of Season Here

Seattle Rainiers and Beavers Will Clash in Final Series on Local Ball Orchard.

PORTLAND'S home schedule of the 1920 Pacific Coast league season will close this week with a series against the Seattle Rainiers. Weather permitting, seven games will be played.

This series promises to be a hot one as the Beavers wanted revenge for the trimming they received on their last visit to the Puget Sound metropolis.

Manager Wares of the Rainiers will bring several young stars of the Pacific International circuit with him on this trip, among them being Paul Strand, the former Spokane southpaw, who led the P-I league in batting last season with a mark of .339 for 103 games. Dempsey, the first sacker, who played with the Portland International club, is also with the Rainiers.

Portland has fared pretty well at home to date in the second half of the season, having won 20 and lost 15 games. During the first half of the season, the Beavers won but 19 out of 48 games.

After the series with Seattle, Portland will play series with Oakland and Verno.

TIGERS SIGN CRUMPLER The Detroit Americans have signed Pitcher Crumpler, who was given a try-out with the Portland club in 1919. After Crumpler was given the "double O" by manager McCredie he went to his home in North Carolina and has been pitching such great ball that the Tigers purchased him from some little league in that section of the country.

MARGIARD PREFERS COAST "Rube" Margiard of the Brooklyn Nationals, according to a San Francisco newspaper, wants to play on the Pacific coast next season. Manager Graham of the San Francisco club has put in a bid for his services. To date Margiard has won 10 and lost seven games for Brooklyn. Oakland, which has a working agreement, may also bid for Margiard, as Howard has had a working agreement with Brooklyn for a couple of seasons.

SHEELY MAY GO UP NEXT SPRING There is a persistent report that the Brooklyn Nationals would purchase Earl Sheely, the Salt Lake first sacker, at the end of the present season. Sheely is handicapped slightly by one of his ankles, which was broken a couple of seasons ago, but it does not seem to bother his hitting ability.

Sign on This Line Company E. Oregon National Guard will be composed entirely of amateur athletes if the plans of Captain Harry Hansen, commanding, are carried out. Captain Hansen has an made athletic officer for the Army and he is anxious to recruit his company to full peacetime strength with athletes. The Company E club rooms will be kept open all this week between 7 o'clock and 9 o'clock each evening for the purpose of signing up recruits.
