

EVERYTHING SET FOR OPENING OF BIG STATE FAIR

Barns and Pavilions Overflow With Livestock, Farming and Variety of Other Exhibits.

The Journal will maintain an exhibit at the state fair, in charge of Fred Lockley, a striking feature of which is a series of more than 30 photographs illustrative of the making of a metropolitan newspaper.

These photographs show the several departments in The Journal plant, which is one of the best equipped in the country. The activities of the business office, news and editorial rooms, composing room, engraving room, stereotyping department, pressroom, mailing room and distribution system are set forth in graphic fashion. All state fair visitors are invited to register at The Journal headquarters.

Salem, Sept. 25.—With barns and pavilions filled to overflowing with livestock and agricultural exhibits, farm machinery, automobiles, textiles, dairy products and all of the other features that go to make up a state fair, Oregon's 1920 fair is ready for the formal opening Monday morning. Only the interference of J. P. Flavin can prevent staging of the greatest fair in every respect in the history of the state.

Horses, cattle, swine, sheep and poultry breeders are here with their prize-winning beauties, not only from all sections of Oregon, but from the surrounding states and from states of the Middle West and East. Never was there evidenced such a keen interest in the breeding of pure-bred livestock of all kinds as is shown in entries for the forthcoming exhibit.

EIGHTEEN COUNTIES EXHIBITING Eighteen Oregon counties have sent their choicest products to the Oregon fair this year, each determined to annex the blue ribbon which signifies superiority over all competitors, and Canada is back again with an exhibit of its products.

Automobile dealers, keeping pace with the demand for their wares, have so greatly outgrown their old quarters this year as to require the use of a temporary annex for display of accessories and other exhibits which formerly shared the automobile pavilion.

Monday is children's day, when all children under the age of 12 years will be admitted into the grounds free of charge.

On this day futurities in the swine department will start judging, in charge of W. M. McFadden of Clatsop. Stock judging also starts at noon on this day.

Monday afternoon six of the nation's best-known speed fiends will introduce to the sport-loving public a game that is practically new to the Northwest—auto polo, a game which promises thrills for even the thrill-hardened sport enthusiast.

AUTOMOBILE RACES SCHEDULED Following the auto polo contests professional automobile races will be staged by the same drivers who participated in the polo games.

The first day's program will be brought to a close with a concert by a symphony orchestra in the new stadium.

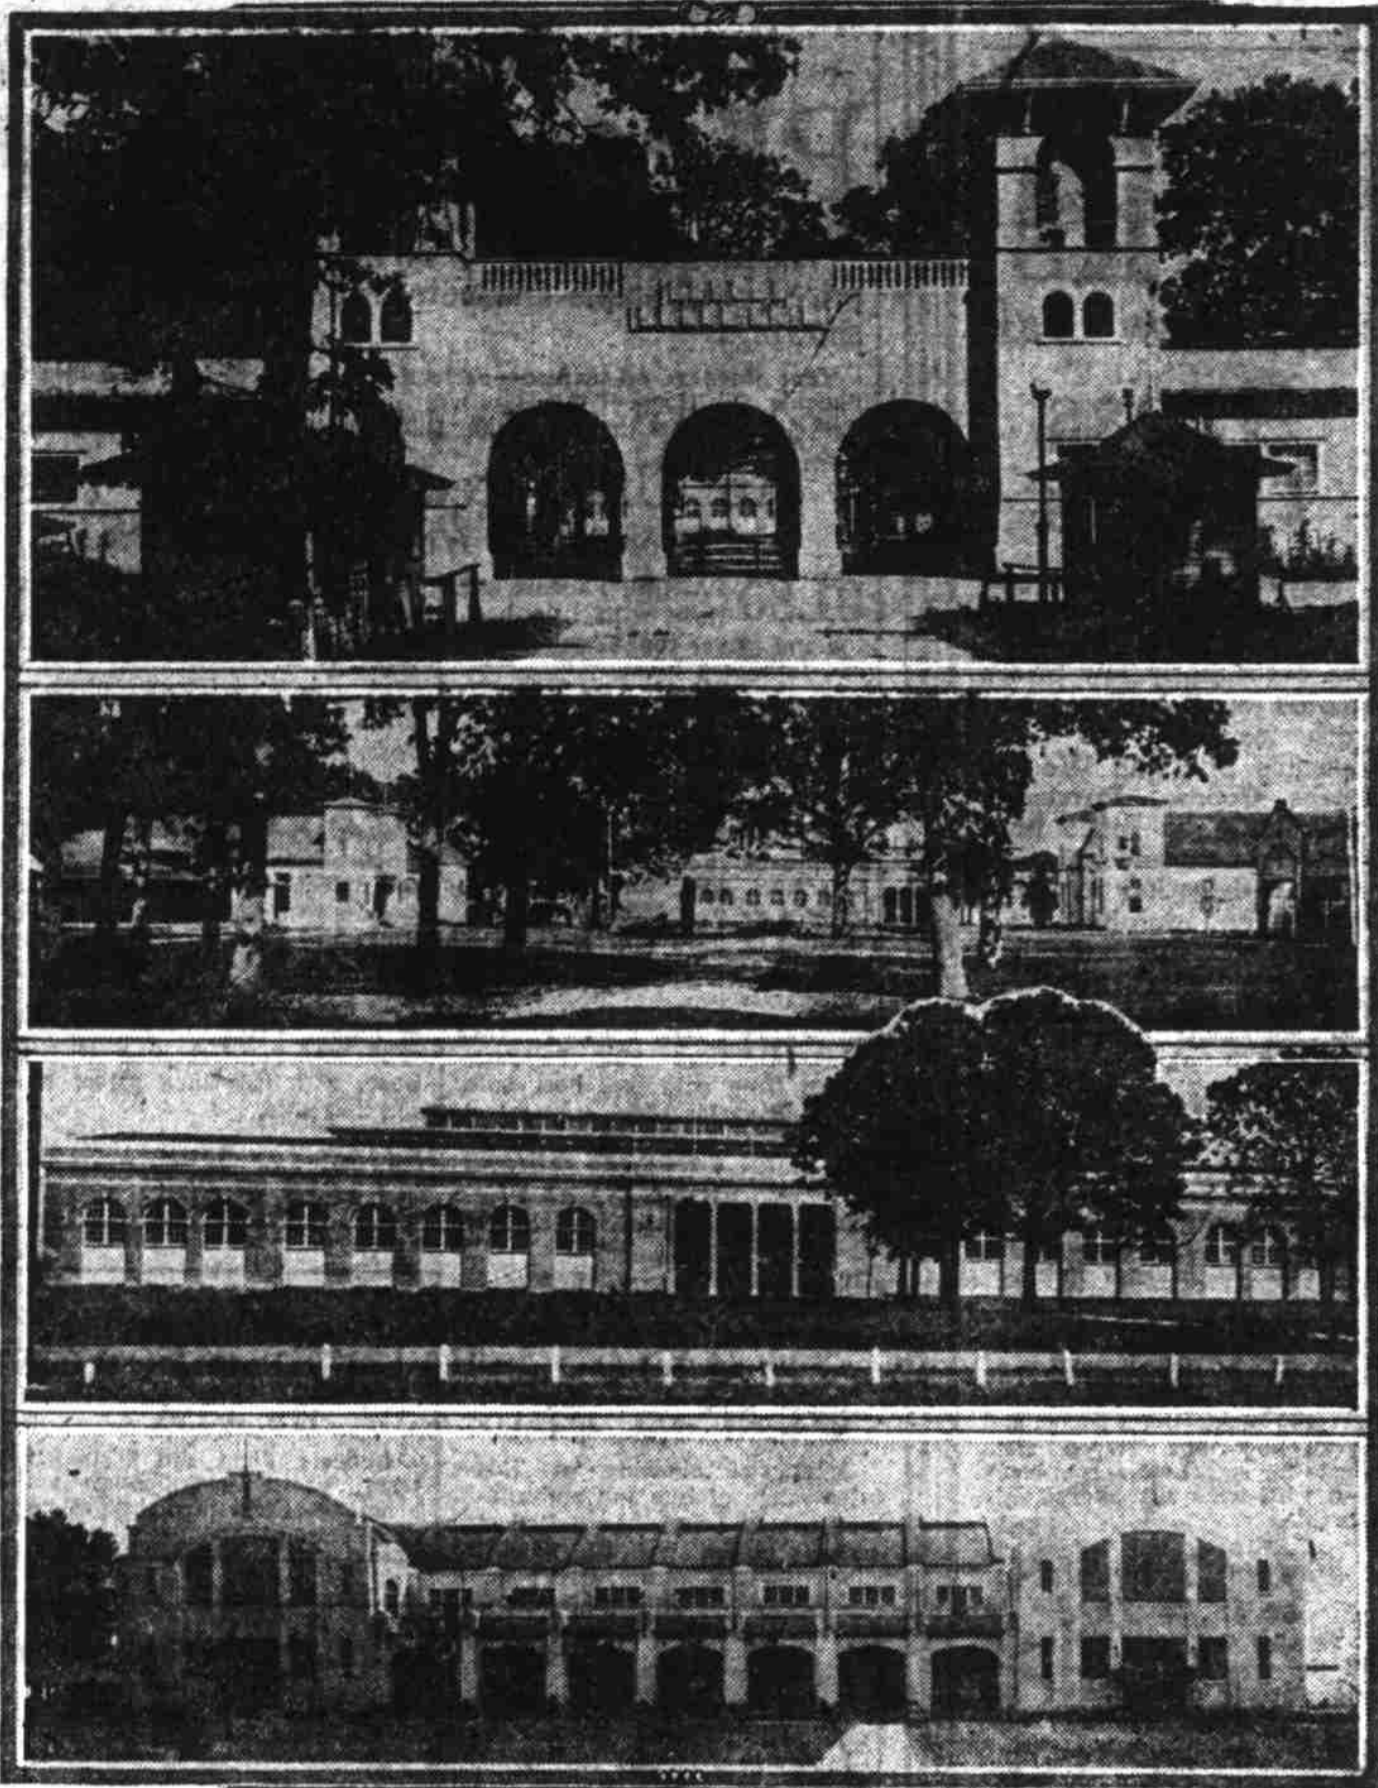

Booster organizations from various Northwest cities will sweep down on the fair grounds Tuesday, which has been set aside and officially designated as Booster day. Competitive events will be staged between teams representing the Portland Rosarians, Salem Cheriars, Vancouver Rosarians, Eugene Radicals, Albany Phoenixes and the Independence Commercial club.

Livestock judging will begin at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning and Tuesday afternoon will witness beginning of the running and harness races, which will continue on each afternoon during the remainder of the week. The auto polo games and automobile races will also be repeated Tuesday afternoon.

STATE FAIR'S SOCIETY EVENT Tuesday night the society event of the state fair—the horse show—will be with entries from Seattle, Portland, Oakland, Kansas City, Mo., and other cities. The horse show program will continue throughout Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights.

Salem will share honors with Elks at the state fair on Wednesday, with a special program in charge of Salem

BUILDINGS ARE READY FOR STATE FAIR

From top to bottom—Main entrance to state fair grounds at Salem, where week of entertainment of all kinds opens Monday; view of fair grounds from entrance; Stadium; new pavilion erected to add to exhibit space, which will be taxed to limit despite greatly increased facilities.

Elks. Stock judging will continue on this day, as will the horse races in the afternoon and the horse show at night. The special feature on Wednesday's program will be staging of the battle of the Argonne under auspices of Capitol Post, American Legion, at night.

The metropolis of the state is expected to take over the big show on Thursday, which is officially designated as Portland day.

Friday will be All America day, with a special program in charge of Mrs. I. L. Patterson of Salem, and Grange day, with addresses by President O'Shea of the national grange organization, and other speakers prominent in grange affairs.

FAIR TO CLOSE SATURDAY The fair will be brought to a close Saturday with El Kader temple, Knights of the Mystic Shrine, present in force with its band, patrol and chanters. A. H. Lea, secretary of the state fair board, is imperial potentate of El Kader temple and wearers of the fez are planning to demonstrate appreciation of his services both as potentate and fair secretary through their attendance at the closing day of the fair, which will also mark Lea's retirement as secretary of the fair board.

The Multnomah Guard band from Portland will also visit the fair on Saturday. Concerts by the Staudymer band, the official band of the fair, will be given every night either in the open air or in one of the pavilions as the weather conditions permit.

G. O. P. Chairman Rejected Spokane, Wash., Sept. 25.—Horace Kimball was unanimously re-elected chairman of the Spokane county Republican central committee at a meeting Saturday afternoon.

LEADERS IN BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT IN GREAT DEMAND

Hundreds of Additional Boys Could Be Enlisted if Leaders Were Available; October Rally.

"A score of men of force, wholesomeness and poise, men who have executive ability and a genuine interest in boys, are needed for Boy Scout leaders in Portland today," said J. C. Oakes, assistant Scout executive, who with W. J. Kent, another assistant executive, is finding it difficult to organize the winter's work on the big, comprehensive basis that they had hoped for, because of a lack of men who will volunteer their services as leaders.

"To be a scout leader isn't such a difficult thing. The national organization works out the program and the leaders are furnished with handbooks which they have only to follow.

There are in the city 93 registered troops with a total enrollment of 3100 boys. There are in Portland 15,000 boys of scout age, a large percentage of whom would gladly come into the scout movement if we had leaders. Just now there is special need for leaders of troops in Irvington, St. Johns, Highland, Albina, Overlook, Alberta, Creston, Woodstock, South Portland and Fulton. If there are men in any of these districts willing to take up this work we would be glad to meet them. Our office is at 184 Tenth street, opposite Central library, and the telephone is Main 323."

The annual fall rally of all troops will probably be held early in October. Details await the return of James E. Brockway, scout executive, who is now in New York attending a conference of scout executives.

The first of the scout swimming tests took place Saturday evening in the Couch tank. These will be held on the second and fourth Saturdays between the hours of 7 and 9 p. m. The first of the monthly tests for second and first class scouts was held Saturday from 9 to 12 a. m., at the Lincoln and Jefferson high schools.

Fair Board Desires Names of Recently Naturalized Aliens

Salem, Or., Sept. 25.—An effort is being made by the state fair board to locate all foreign-born men and women in the state who have become naturalized since January 1, and to accomplish this county clerks all over the state have been requested to send in a list of these newly made citizens. Many of them have failed to comply with this appeal, however, and so that no one may be overlooked, all persons eligible are invited to register their names at the booth set outside of the fair grounds on All-American day, October 1, and they with their families will be issued official passes into the grounds for that one day. W. H. Galsvold of Portland will be the speaker of the day, and numerous features of an entertainment and educational nature will make the day distinctive.

KYNE STORY TO BE FILMED IN SECTION AROUND COOS BAY

Pictures Are to Be Taken in C. A. Smith Plant at Tarheel Camp and at Home of L. J. Simpson.

Marshfield, Sept. 25.—Representatives of the International Films Service corporation have arrived in Marshfield to make arrangements for filming Peter B. Kyne's story "Kindred of the Dust." The members of the company which will stage the production are expected next week.

As the story deals with a lumber town, suitable scenes have been found on Coos Bay. The mill pictures are to be taken at the C. A. Smith plant, and the logging scenes at the Tarheel camp out of North Bend. L. J. Simpson's residence, Shoreacres, overlooking the ocean, is to be another setting. A big warehouse has been turned over to the company for use as a studio.

Mill operators, in conference with workmen of the "Four L's," have agreed not to make any reduction in wages on Coos Bay. A cut of 50 cents a day was proposed several weeks ago, but action was postponed and it has been determined to let the wages remain at the present scale, $5.30 as the minimum for common labor.

A resolution was passed in which the labor representatives recognize that the lumbermen are operating under difficulties of car shortage and bad market, and in consideration of no cut in wages agree to cooperate with the operators in bringing about an increase in the efficiency of the plants. Camps and mills closed down several weeks ago, which are again operating, will add $1500 a day to the local payroll.

The Coos Cox-Roosevelt club has perfected an organization and opened headquarters in a storeroom on Front street. Pledge cards are being circulated. C. F. McKnight was elected president of the club, Emil Gabrielson secretary, and R. T. Kaufman treasurer.

An effort is being made to secure a Democratic speaker of national repute to visit Coos Bay during the campaign. The state central committee has been asked to book William G. McAadoo if possible.

Preparations are being made for the entertainment of the Knights of Pythias when they come to Marshfield for their state convention, October 11 to 13. It is expected that 350 visitors from the outside will be here, and as many more from other cities in the county. In order to accommodate the delegates, the homes of the city will be thrown open to the visitors.

Rainfall on Coos Bay so far this season has been much heavier than usual. Since the first of September five inches of rain has fallen, twice as much as the precipitation at this time last year. The rain is beneficial to the pastures.

$20,000 Damages Asked Rose Joseph has instituted a suit against the Portland Railway, Light & Power company for $20,000 damages alleged to have been sustained April 15 of this year. The plaintiff was thrown to the pavement when undertaking to board a streetcar at Washington and West Park streets, was in the hospital for 17 days and is still incapacitated. It is charged in the complaint.

How to Reach State Fair Grounds After Arriving in City

Salem, Sept. 25.—Visitors to the state fair traveling over the Oregon Electric railroad may leave the train at the State street depot in Salem and go via the Commercial street car line (fare 5 cents) to the fair grounds, or leave the train at Highland station and walk one mile to the grounds.

Those traveling by Southern Pacific train are debarked at the fair grounds entrance.

LEGION OFFICER GIVES WARNING ON ALLEGED 'FAKERS'

Ex-Service Men Duped to Sign for Magazine in Belief They Are Boosting for Bonus, Is Report.

James R. Bain, vice commander of Portland post of the American Legion, has asked the cooperation of the better business bureau of the Portland Ad club and of the public to prevent the duping of ex-service men by magazine solicitors in the city, who are said to be obtaining subscriptions by fraudulently representing that they are working for national bonus legislation.

The solicitors, it is claimed, stop ex-service men and ask them if they favor the bonus. The men are then asked to sign what appears to be a petition, but which turns out to be a subscription list for the magazine, Bain claims. Several devices to obtain subscriptions, under the representation that the solicitors are working for the bonus, are being worked, it is said.

The American Legion is actively engaged in a campaign to secure passage by congress of the adjusted compensation, or bonus, bill, and Portland post is doing everything possible to help. However, the legion in Portland recognizes only the national magazine and a local publication, the Pacific Legion.

The better business bureau of the Ad club has begun investigating these frauds, and announces that perpetrators will be prosecuted if they are found.

Footwear Prices Down BY Sacrificing Profits

The only reduction has been in the price of upper leather which goes into shoes. Labor, freight and other things which go into the making of shoes are just as high, or higher. The only thing we can do to lower prices and keep up our known quality is to sacrifice our profits.

By comparing our prices and quality you will see at a glance that we have done so.
