Classy Pitchers to Face Each Other in World's Series Contests

Rudy Kallio Freezes Out Seattle, 3-0

SEATTLE, Oct. 1.—Seattle was shut out here Thursday by Rudy Kallio. The Beavers made three unearned runs while Pitcher Charley Sweeney was in the box, the youngster succeeding Hunky Schorr, who was ousted by Umpire McGrew for kicking a ball thrown to him by the official into the Seattle dugout, after the latter had called one across the plate to Blue a ball.

Barnabe and Blue were outs in the fourth frame. "Deeck" Cox gathered unto himself a fine young double to right center field. Schaller then hit to Bohne, who made a perfect peg to Murphy. Schaller brushed Rod as he passed and knocked the apple out of his paws., Cox was facing for home and Murphy made a quick recovery of the ball and a nice peg, but a fraction of a second too late to let Adams tag "Deeck."

Sweeney had fanned Blue again in the eighth, when Cox rolled to Bohne, who made another perfect throw in the gloaming and Murphy muffed the ball. Schaller filed to Middleton, but Del Baker, the Sherwood stock raiser, hit a long fly between Middleton and Eldred and made three bases on it. Kid Kingdon followed with a smash to left field and Baker was home with the third run of the trio. Elliott closed the rally by throwing Spranger out. Score:

Dodgers May Depend on Southpaws

Cleveland Staff Is Rated the Stronger

By Henry L. Farrell,
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(U. P.)—Some of the best pitching arms in the major leagues will go into action in the coming world series.

Cleveland has a small but brilliant pitching staff; Brooklyn has a large and equally capable stable of hurlers.

Cleveland has Bagby, Coveleskie, Mails and Caldwell, with Morton and Uhle for relief; Brooklyn has Grimes, Pfeffer, Mamaux, Marquard and Smith, with Cadore and Mitchell in reserve.

Speaker's weakness—the lack of left-hand pitching—which bothered him all season, will be another problem in the world series. Eighteen of the 24 Dodgers bat from the right side of the plate. Seven of them are regulars, including the big three, Myers, Johnston and Konetchy.

"Uncle Bobby" has three good southpaws in Marquard, Sherry Smith and Mitchell, and it gives him a distinct advantage, inasmuch as the Cleveland team is heavy in left-hand batters. Twelve of the 22 Indians bat from the near side of the pan, seven of them regulars, including Speaker, Gardner, Smith and Sewell.

In defensive strength, the choice of the two staffs goes to Brooklyn on numbers. On the offense they are fairly evenly matched, Brooklyn having the slight advantage of .227 to .221.

Grimes and Bagby are the two leading hurlers on the opposing clubs. Grimes is one of the best hitting pitchers in the National league, with an average of .308, and Bagby is the best pitcher in the American league. He has won 30 games and lost 11. Of this pair, Bagby gets the choice.

Stanley Coveleskie and big Jeff Pfeffer are rated evenly. Pfeffer is a fast ball pitcher, strong when going well, but erratic. Coveleskie, a spitballer, is one of the smartest pitchers in the big leagues. He, like Bagby, has had a hard season but is in good form.

Mails, on his brilliant late season record, is a better pitcher than Al Mamaux. The main concern is about the ability of Mails to "carry weight."

DODGERS' STAFF BIG

Ray Caldwell and Rube Marquard are fairly evenly matched with Caldwell favored slightly.

Sherry Smith is a better pitcher than the figures show. He is just getting back into form. Brooklyn then has Cadore, a hard-hitting pitcher, and Clarence Mitchell, the versatile southpaw pitcher, outfielder and first baseman.

Against them, Speaker has Morton and Uhle, two "in and outers."

Cleveland perhaps has the more brilliant staff, but it is numerically weak. What Robinson lacks in brilliancy he makes up in numbers. He has a distinct advantage in his reserve strength.

Scandal Was Hatched at Boston Club

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—The Boston American Thursday said:

"Formal plans for the world's series baseball scandal of 1919 were perfected in Boston at the Hotel Lenox in the room occupied by an automobile club during the last eastern swing of the White Sox last year.

"Present at this conference were Eddie Cicotte, Chick Gandil and Joseph J. (Sport) Sullivan. Sullivan had long been a friend of Gandil and the supposition is that through this relationship he was able to bring about the big coup.

"While complete details are lacking it is known that Sullivan met Gandil and Cicotte by appointment. They adjourned to the rooms of the automobile club, where a fair measure of secrecy was assured them.

"There the scheme was broached and plans made for the biggest gambling coup in years. It was arranged that Sullivan would complete the plans with the gambling clique while to Gandil and Cicotte was allotted the task of lining up the needed number of players to make it a success.

"Both Sullivan and the ball players were in New York immediately after this first conference. Sullivan conferred with the men who were to finance the deal. Gandil and Cicotte sounded out their fellows on the team on the matter.

"The success of the ball players is known. Just how well Sullivan fared is more or less problematical. Suffice it to say that about two weeks before the opening of the big classic he appeared in Chicago with 'Brown'.

"Then followed the meeting with Cicotte, Jackson, Gandil, Felsch, Weaver, Risberg, McMullin and Williams. At that time it was assumed that the plan was a success and all would go through as scheduled.

"Word went back to New York and from that center was sent to all points, where Arnold Rothstein as well as other big gamblers interested sent word to their associates in other cities."

Tacoma Dog Wins Big Field Trial Cup

Centralia, Oct. 1.—Hyas Cull Chicamun, a dog owned by M. A. Howe of Tacoma, won the international championship stake, closing the events of the 1920 Washington field trials. As a result, the G. G. McDonnell memorial cup, offered by British Columbia field trials clubs, and the cup offered by William Zeigler Jr. of New York, pass into Mr. Howe's possession, in addition to the special trophy offered by A. G. Wilkes of San Francisco. The field trials closed Wednesday night.

These cups were won last year by Willie Wilkes, owned by Dr. A. Beardsley of San Francisco.

New Body to Govern Game Is Essential

By Jack Veiock
International News Service Sporting Editor.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—(I. N. S.)—Sweeping changes in the form of government of organized baseball loom in the offing today as the result of the uncovering of the 1919 world's series scandal.

John A. Heydler, president of the National league and a member of the national commission, has come out as an advocate of a new baseball governing body, composed of big men not financially interested in the game. On his return here from Chicago President Heydler said that the disclosures regarding the 1919 world's series show the futility of the present national commission.

MUST BE POWERFUL

Other big baseball men, including a majority of the club owners of the National league, are thinking along the same line, and it is being freely predicted in baseball circles here that the coming winter will see widespread reforms in the conduct of the game.

"The controlling body in baseball must be one that is not hampered by bias, or club and league politics," said Heydler. "And this body must be big enough and powerful enough to enforce the most rigid discipline. It must be able to control everyone connected with the game from the league presidents down."

President Heydler expressed the belief that had it not been for unconscious partiality on the part of the members of the national commission and the influence of league politics, the scandal connected with the last world's series would have been exposed last winter, enabling baseball to start the 1920 season with a clean slate.

QUESTION DODGERS

The local end of the baseball investigation was continued here today by District Attorney Harry E Lewis of Brooklyn. Three members of the Brooklyn club, players Wheat, Mamaux and Taylor, have been questioned by the district attorney. Other members of the team will visit his offices today and tomorrow.

Beyond saying that it is his belief that the players are "on the level," the prosecutor declined to make a statement pending the finishing of his inquiry.

Manager Robinson and his new champions were scheduled to take on the Giants in a double header at the Polo grounds today. The Dodgers were expected to have a regular lineup in the field, though Manager Robinson plans to save his pitching aces.

In the American league the series which will decide the pennant were expected to start today at St. Louis and Detroit. The rearranged White Sox team will meet the Browns in the Mound City. If the Indians break even in four games with Detroit, Chicago can tie them by taking three straight from the Browns. If Chicago and Cleveland both win three more games the Indians will win the pennant with a percentage of .643 against .636, which would be Chicago's figure.

LANGFORD DOES ROADWORK FOR HERMAN BATTLE

SAM LANGFORD, the Boston "Tar Baby," went through two hard workouts Thursday in preparation for his contest with "Tiny" Herman in the main event of the Portland boxing commission smoker next Wednesday night.

Sam was out early for a long grind on the road and in the afternoon he went through gym stunts at the Armory. He wound up the afternoon by working out with little fellows. In his career, Langford has specialized by working out with light boxers.

In his sparring bouts Thursday Langford displayed great knowledge of ring tactics. He has great footwork for a big boxer and is clever at blocking and hitting.

Herman and his manager, Chet McIntyre, will arrive here Sunday to complete training for the contest.

Judging from the number of reservations being received a record crowd will attend the show. The seat sale will open Monday morning.

Rumler Suspension Is Approved "Cheating" Is Charged by Strub

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—(I. N. S.)—A new baseball sensation was sprung Thursday in the Pacific Coast Baseball league when Dr. C. H. Strub, president of the San Francisco Baseball club, charged at a meeting of the league directors, called for consideration of the five-year suspension of Outfielder William H. Rumler of the Salt Lake club, that Rumler last year led the league in batting through "cheating."

Strub charged that he had seen the third baseman and a pitcher of the Oakland club "deliberately permit Rumler to get hits" and thereby fatten his average. J. Cal Ewing of the Oakland club immediately demanded that Strub place his charges in writing and Strub agreed to do so.

The new sensation came at the close of a meeting which resulted in a victory for President William H. McCarthy over the Salt Lake club which tried to force the reinstatement of Outfielder Rumler, dropped from baseball by McCarthy because of his alleged connection with gambling.

After adopting a resolution of approval of the actions to date of President McCarthy the directors voted to appoint a committee to investigate fully all matters connected with the alleged gambling that existed in the season of 1919 and during the present season.

This committee is to be composed of President McCarthy, Manager Charles H. Graham of the San Francisco club, and J. Cal Ewing of Oakland.

This action means a reopening of the Rumler case, the Borton affair and the Maggert case, it is believed.

ST. LOUIS FANS GIVE WHITE SOX GREAT WELCOME

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 1.—(I. N. S.)—"Heads up. Let's go."

This was the slogan today of the 17 players of the Chicago White Sox who came here today to make a last ditch fight for the American league pennant in a three-day series with the Browns. The 17 are all that Manager "Kid" Gleason has left of the baseball machine that was torn apart when a Chicago grand jury indicted eight White Sox players for conspiring to "throw" the 1919 world's series to the Cincinnati Reds.

Although called the "wreck" of a once great ball club, the players refused to look or act like a wreck. They refuse to be downhearted.

About the hotel where the team is quartered this morning hovered an atmosphere such as accompanies a college football team. The players were cheerful, confident and carried their heads high and their chests out.

Perhaps the most noticeable thing about the demeanor of the Sox was an attitude of relief over their deliverance from association with players who by their own confession, double crossed their employer, their manager and their team mates. No expressions of regret at the fate that has overtaken their former associates has been heard from any of the 17 "loyalist" players.

St. Louis fans paid hearty tribute to the Sox on their arrival here. Even before they reached their hotel they were greeted by many lovers of clean sport and hundreds came to the hotel today to pay tribute to the players who are "on the square."

"Red" Faber, who will pitch the game today, declared he would pitch as he never has pitched before. He says it is great to go into a game knowing that every man on the field with him is a square shooter.

The line up of the Sox this afternoon probably will be as follows:

Liebold, rf; Strunk, lf; E. Collins, 2b; J. Collins, cf; Jourdan, 1b; Murphy, 3b; McClellan, ss; Schalk, c; Faber, p.

Carpentier May Box Dempsey This Fall

New York, Oct. 1.—(I. N. S.)—Georges Carpentier and Jack Dempsey may meet in a heavyweight championship bout in this country before the year is over, after all.

Charles B. Cochran, the English sportsman, is bound for New York today to witness the Carpentier-Levinsky bout at Jersey City October 12 and it is believed probable that an arrangement may be reached between Cochran and some American promoter whereby Carpentier will be permitted to meet the champion in America.

Rain May Halt Bout Again

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 1.—(I. N. S.)—Rain caused the postponement of the bout sheduled for last night at League Park between Jack Britton, welterweight champion, and Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, in which Britton's title is at stake. While it has been announced that the fight will take place tonight, weather indications point to another postponement.

Giants Not to Play Yanks

New York, Oct. 1.—(U. P.)—The Yanks and Giants will probably not play a post season series, according to Charles A. Stoneham, president of the Giants, who returned home from Cuba Wednesday.

"People might say it was played for mercenary reasons. Besides it might interfere with the world's series. I am most certainly not in favor of such a series."
