

MOZOROSKY SUE BY S. SWIRE FOR GAMBLING DEBT

Sol Swire, in a complaint filed in circuit court today against Joseph Mozorosky, seeks judgment for $1600, because of alleged collections by Mozorosky as percentage from the winner on poker games. This is one of the most unique pieces of litigation in the history of the county.

Swire says from July 15 to August 15, 1929, Mozorosky conducted a gambling place at First and Sheridan streets, where games of chance were played for money, and that on December 1, 1929, to March 11, 1930, he conducted a similar place at Sixth and Davis streets. Swire says he lost $150 at the first location and $800 at the second, in money collected as percentage from the winner.

Whether gambling debts are to be recognized in court is one of the points to be decided.

The board bill was contracted before their marriage, she says.

The Coverts were married in Vancouver, April 24, 1918, after divorce was granted by Judge McCourt last May. She charged cruelty and desertion.

T. M. Satrup, 699 Sixty-ninth street north, prepared today to teach his 18-month-old son the traffic laws.

Mount McKinley Magic Peak for Alaska Travelers

John D. Guthrie of the public relations department of the forest service, has returned from a two months' trip in Alaska. Guthrie went north the last of July with Colonel W. B. Greeley's party, but when the party left after visiting the Tongass national forest in Southeastern Alaska, Guthrie continued northward.

From Cordova he entered the interior over the Richardson trail to Fairbanks, arriving just after the aviators had left. Here he took the government railroad to Nenah and then rode 100 miles on horseback through the broad pass country, obtaining a remarkable view of Mount McKinley. At Anchorage he again struck the railroad and rode to Seward.

"Mount McKinley is stupendous," said Guthrie. "It is like standing in the Grand Canyon and looking up. When the railroad is completed, it will be a wonderful tourist region. Wild game is plentiful in the interior and the vegetable garden produce that is raised makes the resident independent so far as food supplies are concerned."

ONE-FIRM BID COUP POINTS TO HIGHER-UPS

tire matter is the machination of minds in the East and had no local angle whatsoever. If the deal whereby the Barde company was to purchase the properties was not concocted in the home office of the shipping board at Washington it was not very far from that office, it is said.

SITUATION IS SAVED

The Barde bid would have been honored and a contract for sale would have been granted the company if, at the eleventh hour, Senator George E. Chamberlain and interested protesters had not demanded an extension of time for the receipt of bids, authorities declare.

In the meantime, however, the Barde bid was in the hands of the proper shipping board officials at Washington, approved and awaiting only the issuance of a sale contract, it is said. There is apparently no one in Portland aside from probably H. B. Miller, the director general of the division of supply and sales, who is visiting here, and members of the Barde company who know the figures of the Barde bid.

A member of the Barde firm, said to be Jack Barde, son of M. Barde, long active in commercial affairs in Portland, traveled West with a number of members of the division of supply and sales. Those members were not local attaches of the division, and the information that Barde traveled with Hamilton and Wood is said to be entirely erroneous.

W. C. Hunter, local director of the division of supply and sales, is said to have no knowledge of the Barde bid nor the quiet arrangements that led up to the acceptance of that bid by the shipping board without the formality of first advertising and opening bids on the important properties located at the three coast points.

VALUATION REDUCED

The board had originally appraised the properties at $12,000,000. Thereafter, however, the appraisal was reduced to $8,000,000, and on that basis the Barde bid was submitted. The reduction in the appraisal was more or less generally known, but the new appraisal and inventory was not made known to others than the Barde firm, it is said.

In the face of loud protests from some eight interests who were not advised of the call for new bids, which would ordinarily be advertised generally, H. B. Miller, visiting head of the division, wired to Washington a request for an extension of time for acceptance of bids. That little maneuver, demanded by Senator Chamberlain and those interested with him in the case, means that the mysterious Barde bid, if Barde did actually submit a specific bid in official form, is held for naught, and in black and white, open and properly, must be submitted again to take its course through official channels with the bids of others who care to enter into the purchase.

Committee Asked to Reveal Findings in City Paving Plant

A demand that the taxpayers' vigilance committee report on its findings of investigation of the city paving plant is made today in a resolution of the Alberta Commercial club. The resolution calls upon the committee to report "before the eve of election."

It was said at the city hall that the commercial club strongly felt the committee "was an organ of private interests" and if the committee "could dispel this ugly insinuation" it should come forward with a statement of findings. The vigilance committee was organized to inspect various departments of the city government in the interests of taxpayers. Its investigation of the municipal paving plant included an accounting of books and the taking of excerpts from these books.

J. E. Jensen of the Jensen Publishing company, secretary of the commercial club, said today that "we want to know what those fellows found out."

Robert Linden, who is editor of the Associated Contractor, a magazine devoted largely to paving contract work, is secretary of the taxpayers' committee. A copy of the resolution was forwarded to him.

Armistice Day Is Made Legal Holiday

Olympia, Wash., Oct. 5.—In commemoration of three notable events, Louis F. Hart, acting governor, yesterday proclaimed Thursday, November 11, 1930, as a legal holiday in the state of Washington. The admission of Washington as a state of the Union, November 11, 1889; the termination of actual warfare between the western allies and the central powers, November 11, 1918; and the Centennial massacre, November 11, 1919, provide the triple anniversary celebration.

Citizenship Making Stressed at Scout Executive Meeting

"The two major objectives of the Boy Scout program, character building and citizenship making, were strongly stressed at the conference of Boy Scout executive heads held in New York," said James E. Brockway, Scout executive for the Portland council, who recently returned from the conference.

The announcement was made at the conference that Portland is leading the world in the quality of its test for scout efficiency. The Portland test was given to the 25 boys who represented America in the big international jamboree in London last summer and the American Scouts carried off every honor. So impressed was the French government by it that it invited the American executives to go to Paris and open a school for Scout executives, using American methods. This was done and the schools are being conducted. The Portland test has been adopted by France.

Brockway has been absent from Portland for six weeks during which time he visited his parents in Battle Creek, Mich., and helped his mother celebrate her seventy-fifth birthday anniversary. Brockway, who is in New York, will return to Portland in a month.

MULTNOMAH STOCK IS AWARDED THREE CHAMPIONSHIPS

Three grand championships were awarded on Multnomah county stock exhibited at the Gresham fair, today. The Percheron stallion Havelock, owned by A. C. Ruby, took one. The Baricrest stock farm carried off two, Earlcrest Ladies winning honors as the champion junior yearling bull and Princess Happy as 5-year-old Yorkshire cow. Attendance at the fair both Monday and today was above expectations. Over 2000 adults and fully 1000 children attended. Owing to soft condition of the track auto races had to be postponed Monday, but were run off this afternoon. C. D. Minton, manager, was in great demand all over the grounds, and A. P. Miller, secretary, had a force of a dozen clerks filling and arranging the many entries.

The poultry and livestock entries poured into and machinery and specialty entrants were busy arranging their exhibits and displays. The floral display was all in place Monday morning and the board of directors and the vice president worked hard to make it the delightful beauty spot of the fair. The grange and school exhibits are numerous and full expression on Monday afternoon. Fred L. Bourn, after working all night and half of Monday arranging other exhibits, was rapidly reexamining their full expression on Monday afternoon.

The Ferris wheel attracted the little folk, who came from all parts of the county in buses, bunches and groups. If it doesn't rain too hard the fair gives every promise of being the biggest, best and busiest ever known in the history of Gresham.

Automobile Dealers Change By-Laws and Name of Association

Portland automobile dealers, at a special meeting Monday night, changed the name of their organization from "Dealers' Motor Car Association of Oregon" to "Automobile Dealers' Association of Portland." New drafts of the constitution and by-laws were also approved by members.

One radical change made was to place the affairs of the association in the hands of a board of nine men, to be elected October 11, and to reduce the number of officers to three. These will be a president, a vice president and a manager, each office to be filled by election. The president will be chairman of the board of directors and the vice president will be a member of the board. The manager will not be a director.

Up to this time the president of the association has been a disinterested party, a non-dealer under the requirements of the constitution. The new draft requires the president to be a dealer. The board will meet weekly, while the meeting of the association itself will continue to be monthly.

CLACKAMAS BONDS ARE HELD INVALID

Salem, Oct. 5.—Hopes of numerous Oregon counties, which have voted bonds for road building purposes in excess of the 2 per cent limitation fixed by the legislature of 1913, were finally blasted Tuesday morning when the supreme court denied a petition for rehearing in the case of W. P. Hawley vs. County Judge Anderson of Clackamas county.

This case involved the validity of a $1,700,000 road bond issue recently voted by Clackamas county. The supreme court in an opinion handed down some two months ago, reversed the decree of the lower court and held the issue invalid because it exceeded the 2 per cent limitation, the constitutional amendment since enacted permitting a total indebtedness of 6 per cent for roadbuilding purposes not having been made effective through the enactment of necessary legislation.

Numerous other road bond issues are involved in this decision, notably those of Lane, Jackson and Union counties. In most of these counties obligations have already been contracted on the strength of these issues, it is pointed out.

William Holbrook and J. E. Paddock, sentenced to terms in the state prison from Clackamas county for murder, were denied rehearings by the court in an opinion written by Justice Harris.

Other opinions handed down by the court were:

Luther Armstrong, appellant, vs. L. M. Travis and J. C. Parker, sheriff of Lane county; appeal from Lane county; action to set aside judgment originally rendered in justice court. Opinion by Chief Justice McBride. Judge G. F. Skidmore affirmed.

Ray Nightingale, appellant, vs. W. A. Taylor and T. P. Ristigen and F. S. Hunter; appeal from Multnomah county; action to recover money on contract. Opinion by Justice Johnson. Judge George G. Bingham affirmed.

R. Pappert, appellant, vs. The Lane County Credit association and G. R. Bardsley; appeal from Lane county; action to recover damages. Opinion by Justice Bennett. Judge G. F. Skidmore affirmed.

H. Steelman vs. Oregon Dairyman's League, incorporated, a corporation, appellant; appeal from Multnomah county; action to recover money under contract. Opinion by Justice Bennett. Judge Robert Tucker affirmed.

Petitions for rehearing denied in state of Oregon, ex rel. Plummer, vs. Berkshire company and Larson vs. Wellner.

Newberg Still Case Is Again in Court; Ramovitch Is Freed

The famous Newberg still, where government officials burned down a building on the farm, came to light again Monday when Antonio Ramovitch was taken before acting United States Commissioner Hawkins. Upon the motion of Assistant United States Attorney Fiesol, the defendant was turned loose. W. L. Hall, owner of the ranch where the still was found, is still held by the government. Two laborers, who confessed to being paid $5 a day to operate the still, were fined several weeks ago in the federal court.

The stamp case involving M. L. Hochfeld was also heard in part before Judge Hawkins and continued until a later date, when the court has time to listen to the rest of the testimony. The government alleges Hochfeld had $1000 worth of stolen and altered War Savings stamps in his possession.

ENIGMA WOMAN IN DENTON MURDER GIVEN 3D DEGREE

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 5.—(I. N. S.)—Hidden and guarded since she was taken from a train 87 miles from Los Angeles, Mrs. Richard C. Peete of Denver, "enigma woman" of the Jacob C. Denton murder mystery, underwent an all-night grilling by Chief Deputy District Attorney Doran and Deputy Turney, his assistant. It was learned today. Every question was recorded by a shorthand reporter.

The county grand jury was in readiness today to meet immediately at Doran's order to take up the entire case, including Mrs. Peete's statement. As far as could be learned, Mrs. Peete was not under arrest.

Doran's haste in obtaining Mrs. Peete's complete statement was apparently caused by Peete's declaration that he had retained a Los Angeles attorney to represent his wife. Doran's purpose in taking Mrs. Peete to a hiding place was two-fold. "First to avoid the attorney, and second, to avoid interviewers."
