* Afternoon report of reading day.

Log Jams Caught Damage—C. M. Allen, telephone engineer of the forest service, has returned from Lake Quinalt, on the southwest corner of the Olympic national forest, where he inspected telephone lines and the work of controlling the channel of the Quinalt river. Each year log jams have caused the channel to change and overflow from 10 to 15 acres of ranchers' land. The forest service is cooperating with the county on a 50-50 basis in dynamiting the obstacles. Part of the right channel, a new $40,000 steel bridge across the Quinalt at the end of the lake on the Olympic highway has just been completed.

Coat and Hat Stolen—W. A. H. Anderson, 637 North Kingsley drive, Los Angeles, spent Monday evening at a local theatre while awaiting the departure of a south-bound train. When the show was over Anderson's overcoat and hat were missing from their peg near his box seat. A green hat remained in it were initials that are similar to those in a cap recovered by the police recently after the flight of a pickpocket. Both headgear were purchased at The Dailies and police are attempting to ascertain the identity of the owner through the dealer.

Wind River Road Complete—The Wind River road, leading from Carson, Wash., to Government Mineral Springs, in the Columbia national forest, is now complete, except for some graveling on the lower end, which has been postponed because of weather conditions. Supervisor F. H. Brundage announces. The road was to have been finished in July, but the crew was called off to fight forest fires. About four and one half miles were built this summer. The total length of the project is about 17 1/2 miles.

Lookout at Gumbot Mountain—A new lookout has been completed on Gumbot mountain, east of Yacolt, under a cooperative arrangement between the forest service, the state of Washington and the Washington Forest Fire association. Supervisor F. H. Brundage of the Columbia national forest has announced. The lookout is of the standard type. This is the third lookout built on the Columbia this year, the other two being on Lookout mountain and Little Huckleberry.

Quail Cause $25 Fine—Morton Everest of Cloverdale was arrested and convicted at Dallas of having Bobwhite quail in his possession and fined $25 and costs. The arrest was made by Deputy Game Warden Roy Bremner.

Hogue Heads Bureau—Chester J. Hogue, formerly in charge of the West Coast Lumbermen's association office in Portland and more recently eastern representative of the association in New York, has been appointed head of the West Coast forest products bureau, recently organized. The new bureau will be representative of lumber manufacturers, loggers, lumber wholesalers and timber owners. Hogue will make a survey of the requirements of the eastern market and appoint a number of field men to do personal work among eastern wholesalers.

Thirty-six Inmates at Home—A report submitted to the county commissioners today by Earl C. Frost, superintendent of the Frasier detention home, showed 36 inmates in the home September 1 and 42 received during the month. Twenty-two were returned to their parents and 24 placed in other institutions; 3 were placed out, 1 ran away and 28 were retained. The average number of persons in the home each day was 29.3, the average number of days of each child remaining in the home was 11.2.

Medical Society Meeting—The City and County Medical society will meet Wednesday evening in the assembly room of the Hotel Portland. Papers will be given on the diagnosis of brain tumor with special reference to the labyrinthine tests by Dr. Lawrence Selling and Dr. Frank Kistner. Dr. E. R. Rocky will speak on the essentials of gastro-intestinal surgery and the discussion following will be led by Dr. W. B. Holden and Dr. George Koehler.

Road Improvement Urged—Representatives of logging interests adjacent to the Logie road appeared before the county commissioners Monday morning to further press the matter of putting that road in usable condition. The commissioners ordered the rock crusher set up in that district and decided to make an appropriation of $2000 in addition to the budget item of $1000 for this road.

John Lethaby to Talk—John W. Lethaby will give a talk on a two weeks' tramp round Mount Hood, at Central library hall, Thursday at 8 p. m. Special slides will be shown and also a moving picture reel loaned by the forestry department. All lovers of the outdoors and the general public are invited. The lecture is under the auspices of the St. Stephen's Young People's society.

Symphony Players Feature—A special program by the Portland Symphony orchestra will be featured at the meeting of the Portland A. C. club at the Benson hotel at noon Wednesday, to which women are invited. Prizes will be awarded to each woman who attends. J. H. Shively will give a short talk on "Fire Prevention." Robert Louis Barron will conduct the orchestra.

Parade Celebration—The people of Park Home community are taking an active interest in the roseway celebration to be held Friday afternoon at Fifty-sixth and Sandy boulevard. It is their intention to continue the roseway on from Eighty-second out to the Park Rose tract, so that the roseway, when completed, will be over six miles long.

Reed Campus to Be Given Its Annual Cleanup Wednesday
Reed college is due for its annual bath, hair cut and shampoo. Campus day, a traditional institution, is on the boards for Wednesday, and all phases have been cancelled to permit students and professors a holiday for work.
According to Howard McGowan, chairman of the day, activities will begin with the 8 o'clock whistle, and when the entertainment begins at 3 o'clock every committee will be expected to report its job completed.
Among campus day plans are the construction of an outdoor fireplace for steak roasts, the repair of Reedway walk and Tolman bridge, cleaning of woods and the Lakeview path, and the relining of tennis courts.
Reveille will be sounded at dawn, and every member of the community will work steadily until 3 o'clock, or take an involuntary bath in the lake. The evening's entertainment is being planned by Consuelo McMillan.

Study of Chinook Salmon Completed By Dr. W. H. Rich
After completing his studies for the summer on the life history of the chinook salmon, Dr. W. H. Rich, field assistant of the United States bureau of fisheries and a member of the faculty of Stanford university, spent Monday in conference with Carl Shoemaker, secretary of the Oregon fish commission.

Rich has been conducting his investigations along the Little White Salmon and the Clackamas rivers. While he has been attending to his classes at Stanford, his brother, Theodore Rich, has been assisting him by gathering specimens and data.
