

CITY WILL STAND BEHIND TENANTS FACING EVICTION

Mayor Baker today ordered the city health division, the building division and plumbing and electrical divisions to make a thorough survey of the Arline apartments, Seventeenth and Lovejoy streets. His action followed the protest of tenants that they were being forced to meet excessive rental demands and that the building was insanitary.

The mayor said the assertion of tenants entitled to a thorough investigation, but in issuing his orders he made it plain he did not want any sensational stuff—just thorough survey, which, if it proves the case, can be used as a basis of prosecution.

Tenants of the apartments also have the promise of Mayor Baker that if illegal efforts are made to evict them following their protest against rental increases, the city will furnish police and legal aid to fight their battle.

They waited on the mayor Wednesday night and told him radical increases had been ordered, "on a two-day notice." The mayor said he would protect them under the law. He said the rent had been increased from $5 to $12.50 per month, making the highest rental in the building $55.

The tenants pointed out to the mayor that the building is in an "undesirable" locality and contend the increases are unjustified.

The tenants came to the city hall prepared to submit their protest to the rental commission, which was to have met Wednesday night in the mayor's office. The meeting was postponed Friday noon, and when the tenants discovered this, they submitted their protest direct to the mayor.

The tenants told the mayor the apartment was acquired by the John F. Shafer company about September 25. Form letters notifying them of the raise were sent out under date of September 19, announcing that the increase would be effective October 1, two days later.

When tenants protested that a month's notice of increase was the legal requirement, they were informed, the delegation told the mayor, that they could pay the old rate for October, but they were to vacate November 1.

The total amount of the increase, according to the charge of the tenants, is $110 a month or $240 a year, making the total revenues from the 24 apartments, $12,240 a year. They charged also that the owners were not affected by the increased cost of fuel because when they acquired the building, a full winter's supply was on hand which cost them no more than the former owner had paid before the rise.

off Smith's delivery. A couple of Texas leaguers went to the credit of Steve O'Neill. That was all the Indians could do. In spite of their failure to solve the puzzle of the perfect Brooklyn defense, the Indians fought gamely to the end. They look far from being a beaten club and seemed ready to come back at Brooklyn with their usual tenacity.

Real baseball weather prevailed today and the result was baseball enthusiasm of the world series variety for the first time in the history of the park was packed to capacity, more than 23,000 fans getting through the gates.
