COX EXPOSES PLOT TO GRAB U. S. TRIBUNAL

Harding's Cohorts in League to Name Reactionaries to Fill Four Expected Supreme Court Vacancies, Declares Democrat.

By Harry L. Rogers

En Route With Governor Cox, Paducah, Ky., Oct. 8.—(I. N. S.)—Absolute control of the supreme court of the United States, of congress and the presidency, is the stake for which the senatorial oligarchy is playing, Governor James M. Cox charged in his speech here today.

Four supreme court judges are likely to be appointed during the next presidential administration, Governor Cox pointed out, and insisted that "it would naturally follow" that Senator Harding, if elected, "would appoint reactionary members," thus binding the country to reaction "for the better part of a generation."

REAL DANGER SCENTED

"It is a simple matter for the people to make a change in the executive and legislative branches of the government," the governor continued, "but not in the judicial. As I see it, this is the real danger of a reactionary victory, next to the scrapping of the League of Nations.

"There are three branches of government, the executive, the legislative and the judicial. Throughout the years the senate has trespassed on the authority of the house of representatives. The constitution provides that all legislation having to do with the raising of revenues shall be initiated in the house. Yet there has probably not been a single tariff measure in the last 50 years which was not changed in its every line after the enacting clause once it reached the senate.

FOUR VACANCIES SEEN

"By the nomination of one of its own members as the reactionary candidate for the presidency, it now has the opportunity of annexing the executive department. If the senatorial ring should win the election it would, in addition to controlling the president, also possess the constitutional right of confirmation of members of the supreme court appointed by the president. Four members of the court being now eligible for retirement, there will, beyond doubt, be at least four vacancies on this court within the next four years.

"It will be seen at a glance that the senatorial crowd is playing for big stakes."

W. C. Howe May Be Fatally Injured by Falling Steel Plate

W. C. Howe, 811 Ochoco street, suffered possibly fatal injury late Thursday night, when he was struck by a falling piece of steel plate at the Northwestern Bridge & Iron works.

The steel plate, which weighs more than a quarter of a ton, fell across Howe's abdomen, and he is said to be injured internally. He was taken to St. Vincents hospital.

Miss Elmathon Sweet, 1332 East Thirty-sixth street, slipped and fell when alighting from a street car at Second and Alder streets Thursday night. In some manner her left foot caught on the car steps and she suffered a crushed ankle. She was taken to St. Vincent's hospital. Miss Sweet is employed at the Ames, Harris & Neville Bag Co.

Failure to Report Contagious Disease Prompts Arrest

The winter campaign of the health department of the city government against failure to report communicable diseases staretd today with the swearing of a warrant for T. N. Conner, 224 East Fifty-third street north.

The Conner family is suffering from smallpox. Dr. R. W. Sipple of the health bureau placed the home under strict quarantine after an investigation. His wife and four children were inoculated, as was a niece of Mrs. Conner, before the home was quarantined today.

THIS IS NOT TRUE

—said Ex-President Taft

It is said that Article X will involve the United States in wars to protect nations in distant parts of the world in whose welfare we have no interest, and will call for the expenditure of money and the lives of our boys in which we ought not to involve our country. THIS IS NOT TRUE.—William Howard Taft, in his Portland Auditorium address.

Kerby, Rathie to Hang Dec. 3 for Taking Part in Taylor Murder

Pendleton, Oct. 8.—December 3 is the date set for the hanging of E. D. Kerby, alias Jim Owens, and John Rathie, a little more than a month later than the date set for the hanging of Bancroft, alias Neil Hart, the three men paying with their lives for the murder of Sheriff Til Taylor on July 25.

Stoop and Henderson, also parties in the conspiracy, have been sentenced to life imprisonment. Before sentence was pronounced Friday morning on Owens and Rathie, Judge Phelps delayed court for half an hour, waiting for attorneys for the defense to appear. Attorney P. M. Collier had gone to Hermiston for the day and Edward G. W. Clark did not appear before the sentence was given.

The convicted men were unmoved when they heard the sentence and were even in a cheerful mood when they returned to their cells. No objection was made when asked to give a reason why the death sentence should not be pronounced upon them. Attorney Charles Bolin of Toppenish, who returned to Pendleton Friday, filed a motion for a new trial for Kerby, but the motion was denied.

WOMEN RAISE FUNDS

Four hundred dollars has been raised and the additional $200 will be secured within the permitted time by a group of people who feel that all five men should not pay for the life of one man. Mrs. W. A. Roberts and Mrs. A. L. Mallery are promoters in securing the money and are being advised by W. H. Cox of the Pendleton Baptist church. The case may be appealed to the higher court.

It is believed by attorneys for the defense that the supreme court would reverse the decision of the jury. With the exception of a few who are not believers in capital punishment, satisfaction is expressed in most discussions about the town on the murder trial. The four accomplices of Bancroft, who fired the fatal shot, filed motions for a change of venue on the grounds of prejudice, but all were denied.

TWO IN PREVIOUS FIGHT

In reviewing the case, it shows that the two principal actors started on the road to the gallows when they resisted arrest at Rieth, Or., on July 15, where they were captured after a hard fight with Sheriff Til Taylor and Deputy Jack Marin. Jim Owens and Rathie were first charged with robbing Indians on the reservation during their jubilee, and for holding up Eugene Lyman on his way in from the reservation, where he had been during the last day of the celebration.

Senate Committee Exonerates Cox on Note Made in 1917

Dayton, Ohio, Oct. 8.—(U. P.)—Questions surrounding a $5000 note signed by Governor Cox in 1917 and paid off later by the Dayton Metal Products company were cleared here today by the senate subcommittee investigating campaign expenses.

H. E. Talbot, president of the Metal Products company, testified Cox borrowed the money from a bank to finance a municipal good government movement here.

Talbot was one of the leaders in the good government campaign. He said he felt since he and business associates had induced Cox to go into the movement, they were under moral obligation to pay the $5000 the governor had borrowed to finance the plan.

Republicans who gave the investigators informtaion on the $5000 transaction had suggested that it might conceal a campaign contribution to Cox.

The eommitee adjourned this afternoon to meet in St. Louis 10 days hence, October 18.

Harding's Stand Is Great Victory for Germany--Tumulty

BREAD STILL HIGH WHILE FLOUR DROPS

Bakers Refuse to Follow Retail and Wholesale Prices, for Raw Materials; Sugar Is Down, but Cakes Perch at Pre-War Price.

By Hyman H. Cohen

Materials for bread making are down again!

Flour is down 40 cents a barrel both at wholesale and retail.

The new retail selling price is generally down to $3 a sack and in some instances as low as $2.90 is being quoted.

Bread is unchanged. Some of the leading bakers assert there has been practically no change in the price of flour recently despite the fact that all market reports and all mills are quoting severe cuts almost daily.

The price of flour may go still lower. Canada is the big factor in the situation. Wheat growers there are making every effort to sell their supplies before still further drops in the price and this has enabled the Canadian millers to undersell the Americans by at least 50 cents a barrel.

Sugar prices have shown the most sensational drop ever known and still the price of bakery cakes is up in the air, while there is not the slightest disposition to cut the price of bread.

Bakers have an entirely new alibi in the bread situation. Some of them admit, when cornered, that flour has dropped heavily, but they claim that flour has little to do with the actual price of bread. They claim that labor is the whole thing. The fact that most of the bread is now being made by automatic machinery appears to have been forgotten. Little automatic machinery was used previous to the war.

When flour was high, then the bakers pointed to its price as the real reason for high priced bread. With flour cheaper, another excuse is brought forward.

In the meantime war prices are continued for bread and cakes while materials for their making have dropped almost to prewar standards.

Bread Prices Tumble

Los Angeles, Oct. 8.—(I. N. S.)—Prices of food stuffs are beginning to tumble in Los Angeles. Bread that sold a week ago at from 15 to 16 cents a loaf now is retailing at from 13 to 14 cents, with some grocers selling two loves for 25 cents.

Who Delays Reconstruction?

Senate Oligarchy at Work

Washington, Oct. 7. — (WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL.)—In some of his recent speeches Senator Harding has had considerable to say about unpreparedness for peace. He seeks to place blame upon the administration for not doing more toward hastening reconstruction. A few facts in that connection are timely.

During the war there was much talk of reconstruction measures, talk of creating commissions to study the problems, to make surveys and submit suggestions. Many members of congress of both parties believed that such effort was academic and premature, in view of rapidly changing conditions. Two definite moves were made, one with the Democratic origin, the other Republican.

SECRETARY LANE'S PLAN

The Democratic move came first, if there is any point in having been first, as Harding seems to intimate. Senator Overman in 1916, before America entered the war, proposed a resolution for the appointment by the president of a commission to make reconstruction studies and recommendations. The Republicans in congress would have none of it, and later on proposed a congressional commission, which would be dominated by themselves. The president did not want that kind of a commission, and both moves failed. That is the truth of the matter so far as general reconstruction plans are concerned.

Specific plans of reconstruction were proposed by the president and cabinet along several lines, however. Perhaps the one that would have been of greatest immediate help in the West was Secretary Lane's plan for the development of irrigation and drainage on a large scale. Republican opposition in the house killed it. In a mangled form it made its way through the house public lands committee, but was never given a day for consideration. While this effort was being made, Senator Harding, Senator Curtis and other prominent Republican senators were writing articles to prove that development by private enterprises would be better, and Senator Penrose was openly deriding the plan on the floor of the senate.

CONGRESS LETHARGIC

Another big step in preparedness for peace was legislation for revision of taxation and effective dealing with the profiteer. President Wilson submitted his recommendations in specific form,

Familiar Figure Of Fair Grounds Tearfully Bids Place Goodbye

State Fair Grounds, Salem, Oct. 8.—Alex Grant, 74, and for 15 years a familiar figure about the barns and race track of the state fair grounds, left today to spend his remaining days with a son at Sacramento, Cal.

Broken in health and feeble, there was something pathetic about the old man as he tearfully pointed toward the stables.

"Good-bye, old barn; good-bye to all. I am all in and I can't come back any more," he said as he went through the gates.

Grant served in the United States navy during the Civil war and after his discharge drifted to the Pacific coast and to Alaska and was there the day the transfer of the territory was made from Russia to the United States. He and another man were assigned the duty of hauling down the Russian flag and hoisting the American flag over Alaskan territory. The flagpole was a double one crossed at the top, and the other man's duty was to haul down the Russian flag, but it stuck and taunted the Americans. Grant, being a sailor, climbed to the top of the poles, pulled loose the Russian flag, slid down the pole and hoisted the Stars and Stripes amid cheers of the few Americans gathered there.

Bids for 6 Miles of Hood Loop Road to Be Awarded Today

Bids will be awarded this afternoon by the bureau of public roads for the grading of a six mile section of the Mount Hood loop highway in the upper Hood River district. Four bids were opened this morning from Seims & Carlson of Spokane, the Warren Construction company, the Johnson Contracting company and Guy E. Atkinson of Portland. The proposals range from $250,000 to $300,000, based on amounts of certified checks which must be at least 5 per cent of the amount of the bid.

Construction of the Zigzag section of the Mount Hood loop is now under way by the forest service, the state and Multnomah county.

Bids were also opened for graveling two miles of the Grants Pass-Crescent City highway in the Siskiyou national forest. Bidders were H. W. Webber of Grants Pass, Joplin & Eldon of Portland and the commissioners of Josephine county.

Resourceful Cupid Springs Surprises In Stansfield House

When Miss Elizabeth Stansfield, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joshua Stansfield, planned a tea at her home in Fairview boulevard Thursday to announce her engagement to Owen Davis of Chicago, she did not realize that she would have two interesting bits of news to impart to the 30 or more guests.

Along with the dainty nosegays of old-fashioned flowers which carried her own betrothal cards came the word by wire from California of the marriage of her brother, Thornton Stansfield, and Miss Helen Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Adams of this city.

The bride, whose engagement to young Stansfield has long been known by their many friends in Portland, went to Southern California some days ago to visit friends. It was in Los Angeles that the young couple were married last Monday and they are spending their honeymoon in the South.

Ram Singh, a lumberjack, who for seven months and 10 days was treated in hospitals for a severe bullet wound which may cost him his right leg, is still looking for the man who shot him.

When they were arraigned in municipal court Thursday on charges of assault with dangerous weapons, Mo Ky Fun proved he had been out of Portland for three years. Lee Yuk Sun, 97 Fourth street, proved he was in the rear of his building at the time of the shooting. Judge Rossman dismissed the charges against both.

LARGE GUARD QUOTA ASKED FROM OREGON

Headquarters of Forty-First Division Tentatively Allotted to State, Word Brought From Capital by Adjutant General.

Salem, Oct. 8.—Oregon is assigned to the task of furnishing heavy quotas of additional national guard troops in the new scheme of national defence provided in the new army bill passed by congress June 4, and approved by the president the next day, according to George A. White, adjutant general of the state, who is back from Washington after conferences with general staff members and army bureau chief on the reorganization plan.

Headquarters of the Forty-first division has also been tentatively allotted to Oregon and probably will be located at Salem. The command will devolve upon a regular army officer of high rank and the division staff will be provided by qualified officers from the five states making up the divisional area—Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming.

STATE GETS HEADQUARTERS

The allocation of units to Oregon more than doubles the size of the National Guard of Oregon as it stands and adds several new branches of the service. Under the plan Oregon is given a quota of 3200 men to raise by June 30, 1924, on a peace time basis. The largest single unit is a brigade of infantry, less one battalion. Oregon has one incomplete regiment of infantry and must add approximately 12 units in order to complete brigade organization. The state of Washington will furnish the additional battalion to complete the brigade, although brigade headquarters and command of the infantry brigade will repose in Oregon.

RENTAL COMMITTEE ADMITS ITS FAILURE

Admitting failure to cope with the rental situation, Portland's fair rent committee rendered its final report to Mayor Baker this afternoon. They asked to be discharged from further duty, a request that the mayor granted.

During the meeting, held at the Benson hotel, R. W. Price, representing the President's Council, declared an apartment house manager, under investigation, had told him that Herbert Gordon, also a member of the committee, declared: "Now is the time to get high rents."

Gordon emphatically denied the allegation, and stated he did not feel that any member should "be insulted at this session."

The committee's failure to find relief for profiteering in rentals was ascribed to a lack of legal power. They declared that owners and managers of apartments and dwellings refused to show their books, and as a consequence they could not get at the root of the difficulty.

D. E. Nickerson, representing labor on the committee, offered a separate report from that of the other seven members, briefly stating that the committee had found "apparent profiteering" but were unable to meet the situation.

The majority report reviewed the increase in rentals locally and nationally and cited specific instances of "excessive" rentals.

Mrs. Josephine Othus injected a bit of political by-play into the meeting when she announced at the outset, as she sat next to Gordon:

"Mr. Mayor, I want you to know that I am for Gordon as mayor in this coming election." The mayor graciously bowed, but asked permission to "caution" Mrs. Othus she "was on the losing side." Further efforts to bring politics into the discussion were turned aside by other members of the committee. Gordon felt "we shouldn't make the rental question a political issue," or, at least, the only issue in this campaign." Baker agreed with him.

It was predicted that the mayor will take further steps to reduce rentals and will formulate plans for the appointment of a new committee, or take such steps as he sees fit to "get somewhere."

Restaurant Man to Face State Charge

Sam Anatomopulus, a restaurant proprietor at Fourth and Everett streets, was arrested this afternoon on a charge of assault on a state warrant sworn to by Mary Davis, Glenwood hotel. She charges that he broke into her room the night of October 4 and attacked her. He was released on $2500 bail. Anatomopulus was fined $100 in municipal court yesterday by Judge Rossman on a city charge of assault and battery growing out of the same allegation.

Mails Is Late in Getting In Manager Burleson Is Blamed

Ring Tells Why Indians Lost

By Ring W. Lardner

Cleveland, Oct. 8.—We may not get back to Brooklyn no more this year, and I want to take this here opportunity to speak in defense of Charley Ebbets, the master mind of the Brooklyn club, witch is now 1 up and 6 to go. A lot of prejudiced and unfair cooties that is writing baseball has more than hinted that the man that said a fool and his money was soon parted made the statement several years before Charley was born, and didnt have him in mind at all, so he dont need to get sore thinking he has been called a fighting name.

Now leave us look into the facts of the case. Theys a lot of signs around Ebbets field witch reads "Governor Smith gave us Sunday baseball, vote for him." Now although it is Mr. Ebbets own ball park and not gov. Smiths ball park, theys no sign to tell the people what Charley has give us and the public might remain in ignorants if I didnt step out and tell them. Well in the 1st place he has give us books of press tickets with 8 coupons in each book and each coupon leaves us in free to a ball game so if this serious goes 15 games and 8 of them is played at the Brooklyn pk the newspapers boys that is still living wont half to pay to get in to none of them, and one of Charleys friends told me today that if it was nessary to play more than 8 games in the Brooklyn park, that Charley was going to leave us in for ½ fare regardless of age.

CHARLEY IS GENEROUS

In the 2d place, the Cleveland club was up against it for a shortstop for the serious because Sewell didnt join the club till it was too late for him to be eligible, so Prest Dunn of Cleveland ast Charley if he would wave the rules, and leave Sewell play, and Charley says "klum" witch is Brooklyn for yes. Well I was comeing out of the ball park today and I heard somebody tell Charlie that it was mighty nice of him to leave Sewell play, and Charley past it off lightly by saying that he was always glad to do anybody a favor. A bird that had bet on Cleveland in todays game come along just then and overheard the remarks, and said "Favor Hell." In the 3d place some of the boys of the Journalistic Prof has been making dirty remarks about the banquets that was served in the press room at Comis-

U. S. ENGINEERS INSPECT SNAKE

By Marshall N. Dana

On the Snake River, Near Pasco, Wash., Oct. 8.—After shimmying through the rapids and flirting all day with ugly headed rocks that grabbed at the hull of the Umatilla and took chunks out of her wheel, the United States engineer board reached the mouth of the white-capped Snake at dark Thursday evening.

The least channel depth was just two inches less than the Umatilla draws, and only the driving power of thousand horsepower engines and the exceptionally skilful handling of Captain S. V. Winslow kept the doughty boat going and averted disaster. The last exciting adventure was passage through a space in the falsework for the Evergreen highway bridge, which was just two feet wider than the boat.

Women Would Know How Nominees Stand On Certain Measures

A questionnaire asking for an expression of opinion on the four measures indorsed by the National League of Women Voters, the formation of a federal department of education with federal aid for the removal of illiteracy, increased federal support for vocational training in home economics, continued federal appropriation for education in sex hygiene, the establishment of a joint federal and state employment service with women's departments under the direction of technically qualified women, and independent citizenship for women, has been sent out to all candidates for congressional election in Oregon by the Oregon branch of the league.

The league has been successful in obtaining an appropriation for the children's bureau, of which Miss Julia Lathrop is director.

The Oregon branch of the League of Women Voters has at present in the field Miss Liba Peshakoba and Miss Gertrude Watkins, both graduates of American universities and both of whom are presenting to the women of the state the Non-partisan character of the league and its value in furthering needed legislation. Meetings have been held by these young women in Salem, Corvallis, McMinnville, Forest Grove and other towns. They will visit Portland after October 15 when Portland women will be afforded an opportunity to meet with and hear them.

YANKEES IN JAPAN SHOW MORE ALARM

"Japan Should Be Condemned Forever if She Consents to Anti-Japanese Treaty With America," Says Tokio Leader.

By Henry W. Kinney

Tokio, Oct. 8.—(U. P.)—"Japan should be condemned forever, should she consent to the conclusion of a treaty that would please anti-Japanese agitators in America," Viscount Kato declared yesterday at Sendei, where he was addressing a convention of the Kensei Kai party.

Kato is leader of the opposition party in the diet.

As a result of the apparently growing feeling on the Japanese-American situation here, Americans in Japan are becoming nervous. Officials, however, appear inclined to the belief that the present outburst will wear itself out and will have the ultimate effect of rendering less grave the danger of any serious demonstrations should California pass its proposed anti-Japanese legislative program in November.

CLEVELAND AGOG AS TEAMS ARRIVE

By Jack Veiock

Cleveland, Oct. 8.—With the arrival of the Indians and Dodgers here today to continue the world's series battle begun in Brooklyn last Tuesday, Cleveland's temperature went skyhigh.

Speaker is expected to send Coveleskie back at the Dodgers tomorrow.

The spitballer will have had three days' rest by that time and with the home crowd behind him, he should be more of an enigma to the Robins than he was in the first game.

BAGBY'S SECOND CHANCE

On Sunday Jim Bagby probably will get his second chance to win a game from the National league champions. Bagby did not pitch his best brand of ball against the Dodgers last Wednesday and he can be figured to give them a battle.

After shooting Covey and Bagby at Robby's boys, Speaker will have Walt Mails to fall back on and Mails figures to give Brooklyn the stiffest kind of an argument if his performance in the last game in Flatbush can be taken as an indication of what his style of pitching looks like to boys on Colonel Ebbetts' payroll.

In starting Ray Caldwell against Brooklyn yesterday, Manager Speaker took a long chance. If Caldwell had been able to come through with a victory, the Indians would have been on easy street. As it is, they have a hard job cut out for them and it looks now as though they will have to play some super-baseball.

RUBE MAY BE USED

Manager Robinson has said all along that he expected to send Rube Marquard back at the Indians. Since Sherrod Smith demonstrated that a southpaw can beat them, it would not be surprising should the Rube get his second chance tomorrow.

Prior to the start of the series, a good many of the experts had it figured that the supposed superior teamwork of the Indians and their greater hitting strength as indicated by the .300 average they piled up this year, would stand out in the series.

To date this has been far from the case, for Brooklyn has fielded and slugged the ball in fine fashion.

Pitching, therefore, is bound to be the deciding factor and much depends upon how Robinson and Speaker handle their pitchers from now on and whether or not the hurlers who have scored victories will be able to repeat.

PITCHING WILL BE TEST

Robby can afford to take a chance, but there's nothing like that in Speaker's case. If Tristram makes another losing play as he did when he sent Caldwell to the rubber, probably acting on a mere hunch, there will be a world's championship banner flying in Flatbush.

Ernest Hall Held In Liquor Inquiry

A warrant charging violation of the national prohibition law was served on Ernest Hall of Newberg Thursday night by Deputy United States Marshal R. D. Carter. In default of bail Hall spent the night in the county jail. Hall is said to be connected in some way or to have evidence which the government desires in the famous Newberg still case. The buildings, burned at Newberg several weeks ago by prohibition agents following a raid, are said to have been on the property of Hall's brother, W. P. Hall.

Beveridge Asks Help On Election Boards

One hundred and fifteen precinct supervisors have failed to return to County Clerk Beveridge their lists for election boards at the forthcoming general election, and the work of preparing the list of election officials has been greatly hampered. Beveridge asks citizens who are willing to serve on election boards to submit their names to him without delay
