'Cannonball' Baker Slips by Portland In Dash to Blaine

A long distance telephone call from Eugene in the wee small hours this morning failed to connect with the Wray Motor company and "Cannonball" Baker, endurance race driver, slipped through Portland just as day was breaking, on his way from Tia Juana, Mexico, to Blaine, Canada, to break the Three Flag record for motor cars. Baker is piloting a Templar four.

The first news of Baker's passage through the city came when watchers at the Templar agency had begun to fear that the car and its driver were in the ditch between Portland and Eugene. W. W. Wray, who had gone to Goble to arrange for a quick transfer to the Washington side on the ferry, waited in vain for the speeding car that had beaten its own schedule over the renovated Pacific highway. Baker came through Portland some weeks ago to inspect the road south and at that time made his schedule to fit in with road conditions. He was expected to arrive about 10 o'clock this morning. No official time check was made of his actual arrival.

It was not until late in the day that Wray found Baker had given him the slip. When Wray reached Goble the ferry men told of the car's crossing at breakfast time. Baker making a short stop in Kalama before going north. Early in the afternoon the driver wired from Tacoma that he and his machine were putting the car through its paces and expected to reach Blaine some time tonight.

U. S. Pleadings in Lumber Suit Lose; To Amend Action

Motion of attorneys for the Grand Ronde Lumber company to dismiss the civil action filed against it by the government to recover a large tract of timber land was upheld in the federal court this morning by Judge R. S. Bean. The court, however, granted Assistant United States Attorney John Veatch the right to file an amended complaint. The original complaint is held to be defective because the first Grand Ronde Lumber company was dissolved February 9, 1914, and the complaint does not show the connection between that company and the one now in existence. Veatch said he had this matter up with the department at Washington before he filed the complaint and was advised not to include the complete identification. Judge Bean has held differently from the attorney general's office, so Veatch will file an amended complaint.

GROGERS ADMIT CONSUMERS WIN

By Hyman H. Cohen That extravagance of the buying public has greatly subsided and that consumers are no longer willing to pay unnatural prices for foodstuffs is the statement of several members of the wholesale grocery trade.

In this they see a reaction toward normal times. Prices on many commodities of foodstuffs are dropping but here and there some advances have been noted. The latter are principally in those commodities that come from a distance and are affected by the higher transportation charges.

Fred H. Cooper, head of the sales forces of Wadhams & Co., wholesale grocers, says that there is no doubt that the period of declining values and price adjustments, that consumers have longed for and expected for many months, has now definitely begun.

Cooper has for years been a student of foodstuff values, therefore his analysis is viewed with favor. "For the first time since the beginning of the world war," says Cooper, "the declines in staple groceries have more than counterbalanced advances—a most healthful sign, so far as the consumer is concerned. While many Eastern manufactured products were affected by the increase in freight rates, heavy reductions in such commodities or necessities as sugar, coffee, cooking oils and fats, flour and cereals, rice, beans,

Quality Merchandise at Popular Prices

Why the flavor doesn't vary—

It is remarkable that twenty-four kitchens can co-operate so closely that the quality of Tillamook Cheese does not vary. The cheese in every vat is tested before it leaves the kitchens and unless the highest standard is reached, Tillamook is not placed on the rind.

Tillamook is so good in flavor because of its creamy richness. It is high in food value and will reduce the cost of living materially if substituted for meats and eggs on your menus. Five quarts of full cream milk are used in making a pound of Tillamook Cheese.

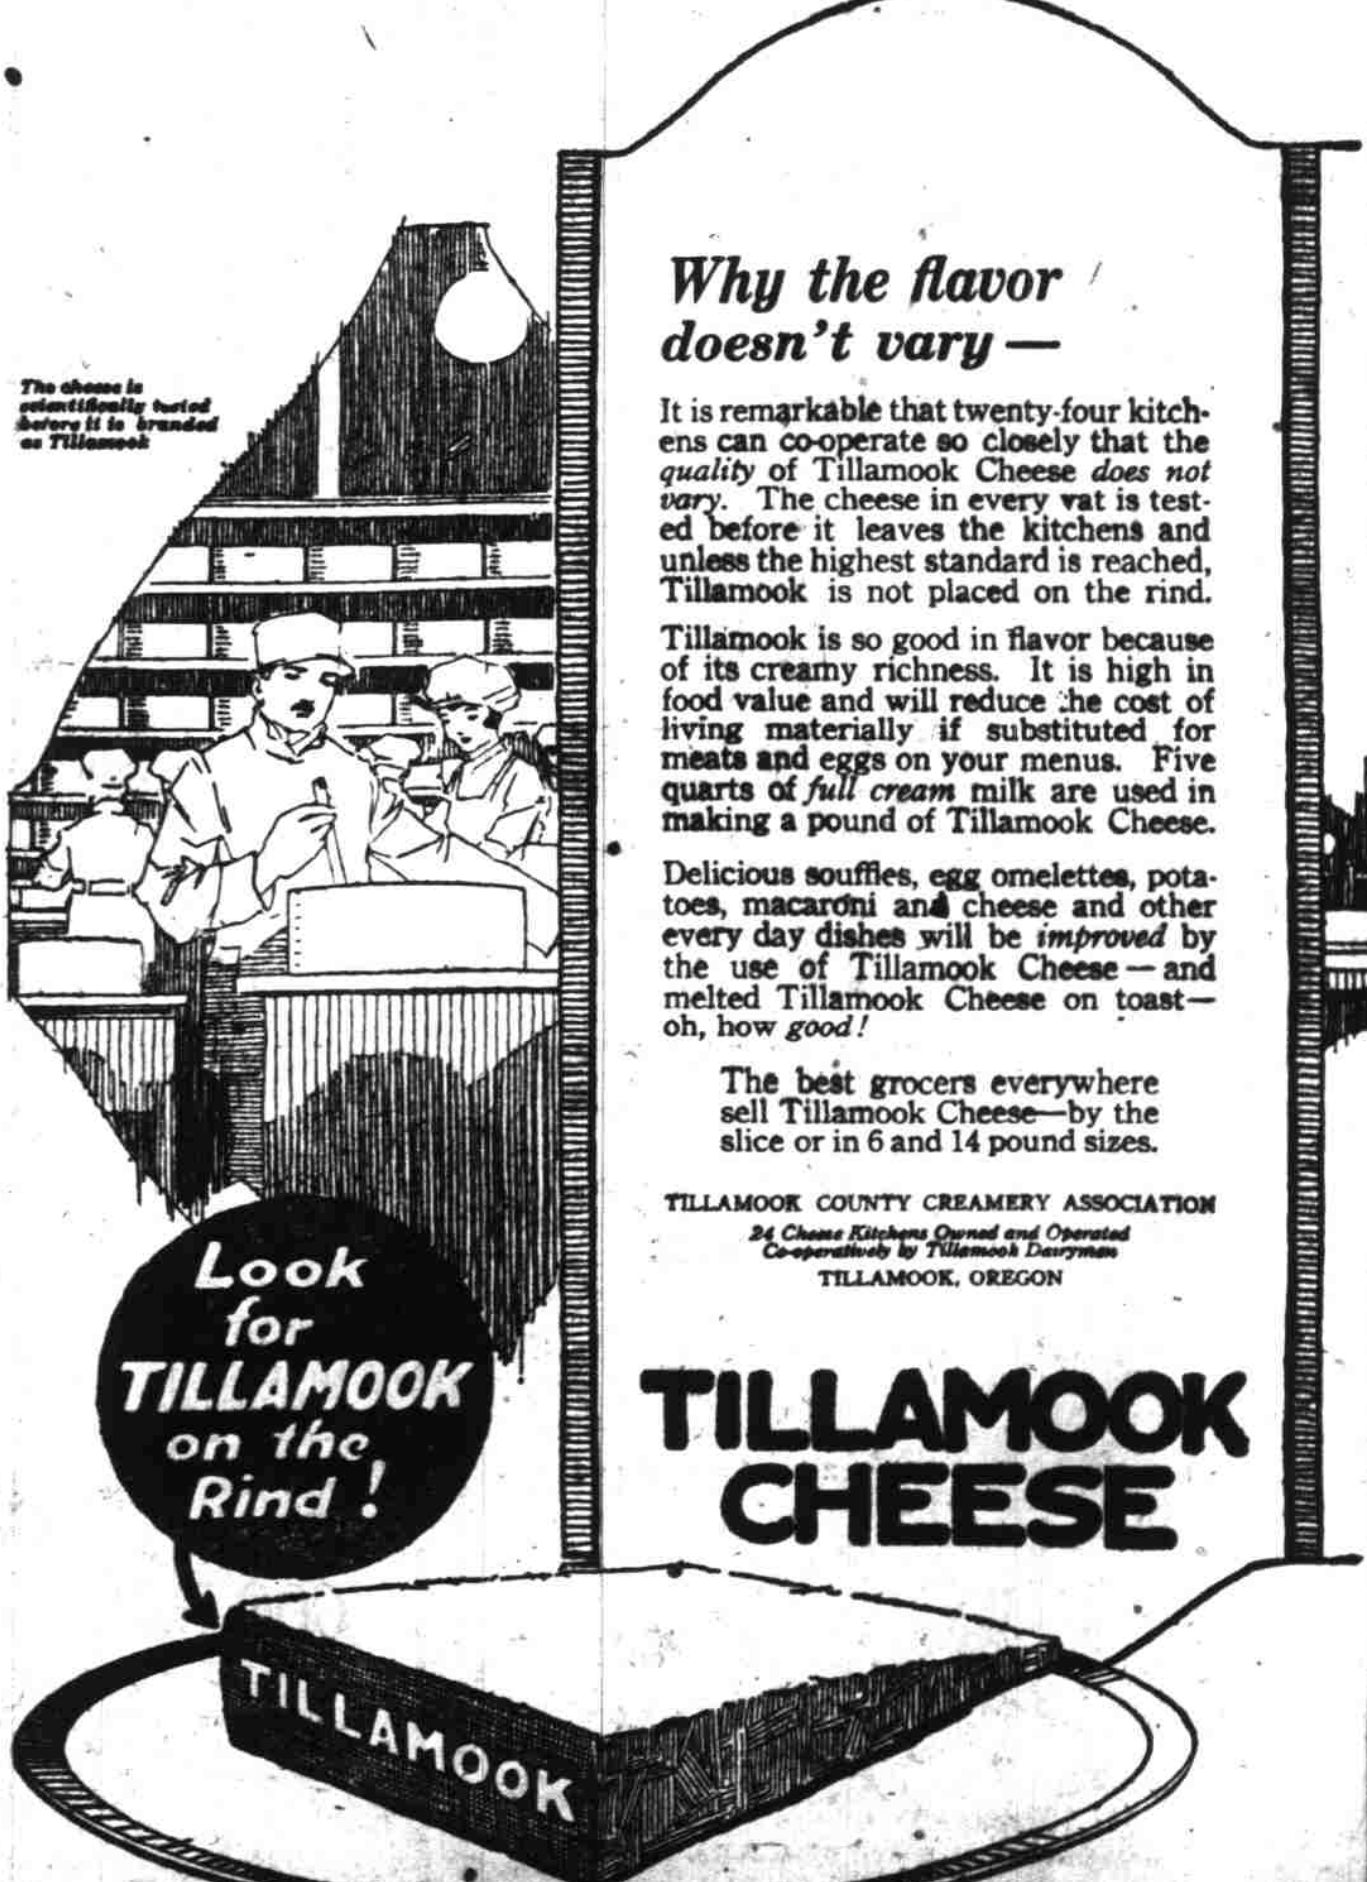

Delicious souffles, egg omelettes, potatoes, macaroni and cheese and other every day dishes will be improved by the use of Tillamook Cheese—and melted Tillamook Cheese on toast—oh, how good!

The best grocers everywhere sell Tillamook Cheese—by the slice or in 6 and 14 pound sizes.
