Portland and Vicinity-Sunday rain; warme tonight; southerly winds. Oregon and Washington—Sunday rain; warm-tonight; atrong southeast shifting to southwest gales on the coast.

WEATHER CONDITIONS WEATHER CONDITIONS

High pressure overlies the Northern Rocky Mountain and Northern Plains states and most of the eastern half of the country, the highest readings being in Tennessee. An important low pressure area is apparently central off Vancouver Island, moving rapidly southeastward.
These conditions give promise of continued rain in this section with strong southeast gales, shifting to southwest, on the Oregon and Washington coasts. Southwest storm warnings were ordered as 70 a.m. at all Oregon and Washington coast stations. Precipitation has occurred at a numher of Northwestern stations, and over a belt reaching from Texas and Louislana to the Lake ter of Northwestern stations, and over a belt teaching from Texas and Louisiana to the Lake region. The heaviest rainfall reported was 2.22 inches at Galveston, Texas. Killing frost is re-ported from prts of Nevada, Idaho and Montana. Relative humidity at Portland: Noon yester-day, 49 per cent; 5 p. m. yesterday, 58 per cent; b a. m. todsy, 77 per cent. BUSTER BEAR is the last one in the world to give advice of that kind, for he never has been known to be in the least careful of his own eating. But you will find frequently that people who give the very best advice never practice what they preach. Now that advice of Buster's is good, very good indeed. It couldn't be better. Had Buster heeded t in the past he would have been saved from many dreadful stomachaches and many bad dreams. But Buster Bear is largely ruled by his stomach. He wouldn't admit that. but it is true. The greater part of his time is spent in looking for good things to put in his stomach. The funny thing is that, though he thinks so much of his stomach, he abuses it shamefully. When he finds food that he is especially fond of he stuffs that poor stomach until it s stretched to several times its natural size and cannot be stretched another bit. He had done just this with the honey from the bee tree he had pulled over and broken open. Then, because moving away with such a swollen stomach was uncomfortable, and also because it made him sleepy, he had crept into a thicket sound asleep. Did you ever wonder where dreams come from? Let me tell you. More often than not they come from the stomach. Yes, sir, that is a fact. you doubt it just eat too much rich food and then go to sleep. and round raced Farmer Brown's boy

Farmer Brown's boy turned and ran. Buster chased him. In and out among the trees, round and round raced Farmer Brown's boy, with Buster at his heeis. It was great fun. That was a very pleasant dream. Finally, Farmer Brown's boy dived head first into a hollow log, just as Peter Rabbit might have done. Buster Bear was just reaching in to pull him out, when in the wink of an eye everything where he will try cases for United States was changed. Buster Bear felt himself growing smaller and smaller, until he was no bigger than Striped Chipmunk. At the same time he saw Farmer Brown's boy grow bigger and bigger, until he was as tall as the tallest treq. Then it was he, Buster Bear, ran and this terrible giant who chased tired that it didn't seem as if he could take another step. Still he kept on.

Then a terrible humming sound filled all the Green Forest. Buster looked Farmer Brown's boy had been joined by a swarm of great Bees, each as big as Blacky the Crow, and all bent on catching him. It was a bad dream, a terrible dream, one of the worst dreams he had ever had. Buster's stomach was getting even with him for the way he had abused it. (Copyright, 1920, by T. W. Burgess) The next story: "The End of Buster's Curiously enough, Lillian is not derived from lily as is popularly supposed, though it is called by etymologists a "flower name." The concensus of opinion seems to be that it has the same origin as Cecelia, though the connection seems a trifle difficult to perceive. How-

Airy, fairy Lilian, Flitting fairy Lilian,
When I ask her if she loves me, Clasps her tiny han's above me, Laughing all she can;
She'il not tell me if she loves me,
Cruel little Lilian.
