Mrs. Farrington Honor Guest Wednesday

By Helen Hutchison
MRS. WILBUR PELTON REID and her mother, Mrs. Edwin F. Hitchcock, will be hostesses for a smart tea Wednesday afternoon honoring Mrs. Mildred Farrington, who has recently returned from overseas and Mrs. F. H. Gannett of The Dalles. Guests numbered more than 150 during the afternoon hours and for the occasion the rooms were adorned with dahlias and city center flowers.

State Issues Are Topics of Club Women

By Vella Wisner
THE Business Woman's club and the Women's Advertising club held a joint dinner Tuesday evening at the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of hearing discussed the state measures to be voted on at the forthcoming election. Miss Adelia Prichard, president of the former organization, presided. The program was opened with two delightful solos by Miss Evelyn Wolfe. B. F. Mulkey presented the matter of the Alameda Kerr Nursery Home fund for $25,000 to complete the new home on Sandy boulevard. Miss Mildred Smith sang. Miss Peterson spoke on the forthcoming drive for the W. C. T. U. children's farm.

Edna Goodrich, noted comedienne, who opens an engagement at the Heilig tonight in the farce-comedy, "Sleeping Partners."

Beautiful Edna Goodrich, in the gay French farce "Sleeping Partners," will be the attraction at the Heilig tonight. The wide appearance is given the gown by the wide panel of bright green brocaded satin with a daring touch of cerise. The panel, unlike the panels of last season, is draped diagonally from the hip to the bottom of the skirt at the opposite and up the back of the skirt to meet over the same hip.

Parent-Teacher Club Reorganized

Williamina, Or., Oct. 21.—The Parent-Teacher Association recently reorganized here. Through efforts of the high school student body the membership has increased to the hundred mark. The Commercial club has promised the school financial support toward a gymnasium and nearly all taxpayers are in sympathy. R. N. Stevenson, local merchant, elected member of the school board, succeeding J. B. Yates, postmaster, who resigned on account of civil service rules.

That it breaks up housekeeping is somewhat of a heart-breaking job. That it beats the high cost of living low personal property accumulates in a few years. That much of it is practically worthless. That for some reason or another we have to part with it. That other things of no intrinsic value are priceless because of memories with which they are associated. That we mention, for example, a pair of baby shoes—with holes in the toes and run over at the heel. That the junkmen won't pay much for anything. That it isn't much for which they won't pay something. That trunk-packing is delayed while old letters are read. That perusal of some of the epistles treasured for years by the L. W. convinces us that we were somewhat ardent, to say the least, in our younger years. That most anyone can pack books. That it's wise to let a professional handle the glassware and the dishes. Going Away. One might believe absent these observations that the Stroller family planned a journey. Well, we do. After the nine happiest years of our lives, in Portland, and with the journal of our life knocking, it sounds like opportunity, and we must answer. That's why we're leaving in a couple of days. The boys had a wonderful party for us last evening. The girls are having parties for the L. W. The children are having parties for the Titian and the Littlest One. Jerry was out all night. We've all been having a grand time, but it's no fun. We're going to miss all our friends, and we're going to miss the mist. But we can't have everything. More tomorrow.

Portland's mayor, George I. Baker, has become known throughout the length and breadth of the land, according to Imperial Potentate Ellis Lewis Garretson of the Shriners, who is here today on a visit. In a trip which covered 30 states, Potentate Garretson declared that Shriners retain a pleasant memory of their reception here during the June convention, and closely coupled with that memory is Baker's name. Garretson announced that Baker had been selected as one of a committee of seven to meet at St. Louis October 30 to decide the disposition of a charity fund of $1,000,000. It is the intention of the Shriners to duplicate this fund yearly.

Tuesday evening Wacoma lodge, Knights of Pythias, in session at Hood River, was surprised by the invasion of a delegation from Portland, intent on arranging for a ceremonial of the D. O. K. K., Saturday evening, December 4, and demanding the keys of the town for that occasion. The committee, was headed by H. Sellwood, grand vizier of Abd-Uhl-Atef temple of Portland, supported by Ed Meyer, grand emir; Captain T. C. Freiberg, commanding the patrol; George Smith, manager of the land, and E. R. Steen, chairman of the relief committee of the Portland K. of P. The party returned at an early hour—Wednesday.
Portland lodge, Loyol Order of Moose, held one of the liveliest sessions in a year Wednesday night, when a class of 41 candidates followed Cyclone Curtis, deputy supreme dictator, before the altar. He also passed 108 applications cards properly filled out and endorsed for that many more to come in later.
Portland camp No. 107, Woodmen of the World, Wednesday evening held an open session presided over by W. B. Schade. A most interesting program of vaudeville sketches, songs, dancing, pillow fights and other events. J. O. Wilson, head manager, was present and spoke briefly on fraternal subjects.
North Portland lodge, I. O. O. F., was host Monday evening to many visitors from Woodlawn and Star lodges. Light refreshments were served after an interesting session. Speeches were made by Dr. Earl Smith, I. W. Carl, Harry W. Wright, Chaplain Circle, W. Rea of Minneapolis, William Hodson and others.
Acme Rebekah lodge, I. O. O. F., will celebrate its thirty-third anniversary Saturday evening at First and Alder streets. A special program of music and addresses by officers and guests has been arranged. A number of grand officers are expected to be present. Members are requested to bring basket lunches.

IF YOUR FEET SWELL
Try Cantilever Shoes.
Feet swell from poor circulation, from strained cords and muscles, from ill-fitting shoes. Cantilever Shoes are a delightful change from ordinary footwear because—
(1) The flexible shank affords such perfect freedom to the foot that the muscles are exercised in walking, the blood circulates naturally through the tissues, and the foot grows strong.
(2) The natural inner sole line allows the toes to point straight ahead, and the slightly tilted heel tends to distribute the weight evenly over the foot arch. These features encourage a natural posture, without strain on any cords or muscles. In addition to their restful fit, Cantilever Shoes have a most attractive appearance. They are as good-looking as they are comfortable.
These shoes are made in the popular leathers. You never saw smarter looking walking boots than these. Cantilever Shoes sold in Portland only.

THE STROLLER
NOTICES
That it breaks up housekeeping is somewhat of a heart-breaking job. That it beats the high cost of living low personal property accumulates in a few years. That much of it is practically worthless. That for some reason or another we have to part with it. That other things of no intrinsic value are priceless because of memories with which they are associated. That we mention, for example, a pair of baby shoes—with holes in the toes and run over at the heel. That the junkmen won't pay much for anything. That it isn't much for which they won't pay something. That trunk-packing is delayed while old letters are read. That perusal of some of the epistles treasured for years by the L. W. convinces us that we were somewhat ardent, to say the least, in our younger years. That most anyone can pack books. That it's wise to let a professional handle the glassware and the dishes. Going Away. One might believe absent these observations that the Stroller family planned a journey. Well, we do. After the nine happiest years of our lives, in Portland, and with the journal of our life knocking, it sounds like opportunity, and we must answer. That's why we're leaving in a couple of days. The boys had a wonderful party for us last evening. The girls are having parties for the L. W. The children are having parties for the Titian and the Littlest One. Jerry was out all night. We've all been having a grand time, but it's no fun. We're going to miss all our friends, and we're going to miss the mist. But we can't have everything. More tomorrow.
MAYOR BAKER IS TO SERVE ON ST. LOUIS SHRINER COMMITTEE
Portland's mayor, George I. Baker, has become known throughout the length and breadth of the land, according to Imperial Potentate Ellis Lewis Garretson of the Shriners, who is here today on a visit. In a trip which covered 30 states, Potentate Garretson declared that Shriners retain a pleasant memory of their reception here during the June convention, and closely coupled with that memory is Baker's name. Garretson announced that Baker had been selected as one of a committee of seven to meet at St. Louis October 30 to decide the disposition of a charity fund of $1,000,000. It is
