*Afternoon report of preceding day.

Willamette Road on Easy Grade—T. P. Flynn and Paul E. Kuenzel, surveyors with the force service, have returned to Portland from a month's work on the old Willamette military highway. They completed location of the section of the road from Ripdon ranch in the Cascade national forest through Summit pass to Crescent lake on the Deschutes national forest. The surveyors succeeded in finding a practicable route with an excellent grade of 6 1/2 per cent. The road will cross the pass 100 feet lower than the old road.

Wood Famine Feared—A wood famine is quite evident in Dalles this winter. The shortage is due to the burning of the Willamette Valley Lumber company's mill some time ago, as many people got their supply from that source. The prime dryers have sold all their surplus and in many instances the slab wood sold for $8 per cord at the dryers. Wood vendors are getting $8 for fir wood and $10 for oak wood and many are unable to deliver their orders, due to bad roads caused by the rains.

Good Weather Wanted—Only about a month's work is required to complete the stretch of paving the Oshbar Huber construction company is building on the Pacific highway south of Ashland. But this month's work is being sadly hampered by the bad weather of the past week or two. The snow on the mountain at present has compelled activities there to suspend, and the rains in the valley have brought about the same results.

Bazaar Successful—Sufficient money was raised at the bazaar of the local Knights of Columbus, which closed Saturday night, to completely furnish the building, it was believed. The final hours of the bazaar saw the donations disposed of and the winners announced.

Hundreds of school children Saturday afternoon visited the clubhouse with their parents and teachers. They were given balloons and noise-making devices of all sorts.

Powdered Milk Factory in Prospect—A powdered milk factory, the first of its kind on the coast, may be erected at Eugene. If investigations now being made by the Eugene Farmers' creamery convince the board of directors of that institution that a new process of powdered milk can be developed into a commercialized product. The plant which would be built to take care of the business would cost $25,000 or $30,000.

Oregon Dead Honored—Among 53 bodies of officers and enlisted men who died overseas and were buried with military honors at Arlington national cemetery Friday afternoon are two from Oregon. They are: Verner C. Brandland, private, company D, 20th engineers, son of Charles Albin Brandland, Colton; Peter Dethman, private, company E, 20th engineers, brother of John Dethman of St. Helens.

Taylor Fund Totals $15,829.55—Pledges and paid-up subscriptions to the Taylor memorial fund now total $15,829.55, according to figures given out by Miss Iva Black at headquarters in Pendleton. A considerable amount of this is still in pledges, but they are now being paid up. The latest subscriptions are James A. Fee $100, R. O. Eberhart $25, Marion Jack $100 and J. R. Thompson $50.

Mint Stills Busy—Within two weeks, if the weather is favorable, the mint industry near Gervais will be over for the present season and all of the product will be made into extract. The stills are busy now, and the crop is being rapidly removed from the fields to the stills. Growers are highly pleased with the output. Next year a much larger acreage will be planted.

Seeding is Slow—Seeding is exceptionally slow this fall in the Inland Empire. Because of the rain, weeds have kept on growing and extra bedding has been necessary. Harvesting operations are still in progress in some of the counties. Tomorrow's harvest has not yet finished while Walla Walla county has harvested only a third of the crop.

INTOXICATED MAN KILLED BY PLUNGE

Internal injuries resulting from a fall from the second floor of the Edenhelm apartments, 325 Market street, early Sunday morning, caused the death of J. B. Middleton, aged 35. Middleton was taken to St. Vincent's hospital. He lived only a few hours after his fall.

Midleton is believed to have met with his accident while under the influence of liquor, according to the report of Police Inspectors Powell and McCulloch, who investigated the cause of the accident.

A quantity of moonshine whiskey was found in Midleton's apartment by the inspectors.

No one was with Midleton at the time of the accident as far as the police have been able to learn. He was unmarried. His body was taken to the public morgue. There probably will be no inquest, according to Deputy Coroner Geotisch.

Market Commission Bill Is Supported By Store Owner

By supporting the state market commission bill the business men of Oregon have an opportunity of proving to the farmers that they are willing to cooperate in helping them secure a fair return on their products," says Adolph Wolfe of Lipman-Wolfe company.

Besides indicating their friendship for the farmer by supporting a measure designed to assist him in the marketing of his products, the business men will go a long way toward assuring the future prosperity of the state, if they help pass this measure," says Wolfe. "If the establishment of great co-operative marketing organizations such as exist under the state market commission law," he said, "the fame of California fruits and other products have become nation wide through their successful producers or organizations and the national advertising campaigns that were made possible only through these organizations."

"My principal reason for choosing Portland as a home is the fine spirit of people of the city. I have made many trips through the West and I am familiar with all Pacific coast cities. Portland, to my mind, outclasses any other city in the United States as a home town. Commercially Portland is today where Detroit was 10 years ago. It has approximately the same population that Detroit had then, and its possibilities for commercial and industrial development are equal to any ever possessed by Detroit."
