TESTIMONY ENDED IN SUIT TO ANNUL MAYER MARRIAGE

Testimony has been concluded before Circuit Judge Kavanaugh in the suit for the annulment of the marriage of Brunswick Mayer and Rebah Wall, both minors, and the court today ordered the attorneys to submit briefs on points of law raised.

The question is whether the boy, who is seeking the annulment, has a standing in court, for the reason that immediately after the marriage he went to California and remained there three months until his parents sent for him to come home "and face the music." Upon his return his father instituted the suit for annulment. He alleged that the father of Reba Wall had coerced and forced young Mayer to accompany them to Vancouver, where they were married, and that he had made a false affidavit in securing a marriage license.

On the witness stand young Mayer acknowledged that he had wronged the girl previous to their marriage, but declared that he had had no intention of living with her even at the time the marriage was performed.

The jury in its verdict of guilty had recommended leniency on account of Mattio's family. Attorneys for Mattio were granted 30 days within which to prepare a motion for a new trial, and his bond was raised to $2000.

Sugar Agent Pleads Not Guilty; Case Is Booked for January

Richard Adams, local agent for Parrott & Co. of San Francisco, appeared in the federal court this morning and entered a plea of not guilty to the first sugar conspiracy indictment returned against him several weeks ago. His trial was set for 2 p. m. January 17, 1921. He was also arraigned on two similar indictments returned Thursday, and asked to have 15 days in which to plead.

Counsel for Parrott & Co. also appeared and entered a plea of not guilty to the first indictment and was given 15 days in which to plead on the two indictments returned Thursday.

Republican Since 1860, Lathrop, 83, Will Vote for Cox

A Lincoln man and Republican "down the line since then," P. N. Lathrop, 83 years of age, will vote for Cox and the League of Nations Tuesday next.

He voted for Lincoln in 1860 and 1864; was one of the 24 men named as honor escort to the martyr's grave and is a prominent member of the G. A. R. He has lived in Portland 33 years.

"There are 12 votes in my family and 11 are for Cox with one on the fence. We'll push him over on the right side before Tuesday," is the way Lathrop expresses himself.

"I have heard some big men speak in my time. There was Jim' Blaine, Lincoln himself, Douglas, Bob Ingersoll and many others. I heard Cox, too, and when I stacked him up against Harding, I knew he was the big man of the two."

Salem G. O. P. Entry Weds Marquam Girl

The wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Albright. Carson is a son of the late John A. Carson, for many years a prominent attorney of this city and for a time deputy district attorney of Marion county. Mr. and Mrs. Carson will arrive here later in the week and will make Salem their home.

FURTHER CHARGES IN JACKSONVILLE BANK CASE LIKELY

Medford, Or., Oct 29.—Following the indictments announced Thursday against William H. Johnson, president and cashier, his half brother, R. D. Hines, vice president of the wrecked Bank of Jacksonville, and Mrs. Myrtle Blakeley, county treasurer of Jackson county, and the adjournment of the grand jury until November 5, it is announced that the jury investigation into the affairs of the defunct bank is far from completed and will be resumed.

Further indictments are expected against others with probable additional counts against President Johnson. The fact that only three indictments have been returned against Johnson has caused general surprise.

WIDE FIELD COVERED

It has been learned that the grand jury investigation covers a wide field.

R. D. Hines, formerly of Hines & Snyder, automobile dealers in Medford, was unable to obtain bail of $10,000 Thursday. Johnson has been in jail since the failure of the bank. Both will enter pleas in court Saturday forenoon. Mrs. Blakeley, who pleaded not guilty when arraigned, was released on her own recognizance. Much general sympathy is felt for her, as it is the prevalent belief, even of District Attorney Roberts, that she is guiltless of any criminal intent and is merely the victim of unfortunate circumstances by which the county loses an amount said to be from $60,000 to more than $100,000. A number of her many friends maintain that she is "the goat" of the bank failure.

TWO CHARGES MADE

One indictment against her charges malfeasance in office and the other with aiding and abetting a bank cashier to make a false statement to the bank examiner. Of the eight indictments against Hines four charge that he knowingly falsified statements to the bank examiner, three charge that he received deposits in a known insolvent bank and one charges that he certified to a check when the known drawer did not have any money to his credit, all presumably while, as vice president, he was in charge of the bank while President Johnson was in the East attending a national church convention.

Chamberlain Wagers Begging; Stanfield Backers Disappear

Eighty-seven hundred dollars to bet on Chamberlain is burning holes out of the strong box at the Sol Stiller cigar store, with no Stanfield money in sight.

A couple of days ago it was whispered through betting circles that there was $3000 of Stanfield money at Stiller's. As a result of the rumor Chamberlain money began to flood the Stiller till, until there is now $8700 there waiting to be covered, while enough more is on the way to boot the ante to $10,000 or more.

There has been a great deal of talk at the Stanfield headquarters in the Portland hotel about Stanfield admirers hungry to back their candidate with coin, but up to the present time, when any Chamberlain money has appeared, the Stanfield admirers have faded away.

George L. Baker Has Two to One in Poll At Franklin School

George L. Baker led a 1200 vote poll taken today at the Franklin high school, where all students had been given a regular ballot such as will be handed voters Tuesday next, and asked to name their choice. Baker had more than 2 to 1 over Gordon in the municipal election. The returns were: Baker, 580; Gordon, 263; Richards, 89; Kellaher, 77. For commissioners, Barbur led with 701, Mann a close second with 690, Perkins, 228, and Ziegler, 80.

In the national field, Harding polled 607; Cox, 346; Debs, 52; Watkins, 4; William Cox, 5.

In the senatorial race, Chamberlain and Stanfield were almost neck and neck, 452 for Chamberlain and 449 for Stanfield.

The vote is part of the poll being conducted in all high schools of the city.

HARDING SATISFIED OHIO VOTE FOR HIM

By Floyd MacGriff

Akron, Ohio, Oct. 29.—(I. N. S.)—A series of impromptu rear platform speeches were to be delivered today by Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican presidential candidate, en route to Cincinnati, where tonight he will deliver his last but one prepared address before election. He planned to review tonight what he declares to be the "fundamental incapacity" of the Democratic administration and to outline the Republican plans for retrenchment and reconstruction along both national and international lines.

Senator Harding's campaign party left Akron before breakfast quite satisfied that this section of Ohio was amenable this year to Republicanism. The senator was more than impressed by the patience and enthusiasm of the Akron audience, 1000 of whom had to stand in the jammed armory during the 90 minutes of his address which dealt chiefly with foreign affairs.

TUMLTY BREAKS SILENCE TELLS OF MARTYRDOM

"Two pictures are in my mind," he said. "First, the hall of representatives, crowded from floor to gallery with expectant throngs. Presently it is announced that the president of the United States will address congress. There steps out to the speaker's desk a straight, vigorous, slender, active and alert man. He is 60 years of age, but looks not more than 45, so lithe of limb, so alert of bearing, so virile. It is Woodrow Wilson reading his great war message.

"The other picture is only 3½ years later.

"There is a parade of veterans of the great war. They are to be reviewed by the president on the east terrace of the White House. In a chair sits a man, your president, broken in health, but still alert in mind. His hair is white, his shoulders bowed, his figure bent. He is 63 years old, but he looks older. It is Woodrow Wilson. Presently in the procession there appears an ambulance laden with wounded soldiers, the maimed, the halt and the blind. As they pass they salute, slowly, reverently. The president's right hand goes up to give a salute. I glance at him. There were tears in his eyes. The wounded is greeting the wounded; those in the ambulance, he in chair, are alike, casualties of the great war.

"I don't believe in his heart President Wilson regrets his wounds. I fancy he realizes no man could die in a greater cause, but I do sometimes wonder if it ever seems to him strange that when a man has been seriously wounded in his country's service he should be met with sneers and calumnies from his countrymen. I think already the better nature of America is awakening. Those who have joined the chorus of calumnies begin to grow ashamed of their unchivalrous conduct, begin to resent the tricks of politicians which beguiled them into base ingratitude."

Channel Widening Urged by Warren at Realty Board Meet

The necessity of immediately raising funds and providing equipment to widen and deepen the ship channel from Portland to the sea was urged by Frank M. Warren of the Port of Portland commission at a meeting of the Portland Realty board in the grill room of the Portland hotel at noon today.

Warren explained that the commissioners had no intention of purchasing ground upon which earth dredged from the bottom of the river is deposited. The commissioners did believe, Warren said, in the wisdom of filling Mock's bottom as an industrial center, but in view of strong opposition having developed to this plan, had pledged themselves to leave the question of this improvement to a vote of the people.

W. M. Killingsworth opposed the harbor project, stating that there is an abundance of deep water in the lower Willamette river and the North Portland harbor to handle 10 times the traffic now coming to this port. On motion the question of endorsing the port measure was laid over one week.

Farmer's Love Suit Fails; Shoots Self

Corvallis, Oct. 29.—Bert Hall, a farmer and sheep herder, 44 years of age, whose parents reside at Alpin, shot himself late Wednesday evening and died Thursday morning. The cause is said to be disappointment because his attentions to Mrs. Frank Stevenson, a widow, were not welcome.

AIRPLANE'S VISIT WILL PROVIDE BIG GRIDIRON FEATURE

Flutter of airplane wings will not interrupt interest in the O. A. C.-University of California football contest on the new state college field Saturday afternoon, but the flutter will provide a prologue for the big game that will enhance interest in the battle.

Immediately upon delivery of bundles of the first afternoon edition of The Journal to Lewis and Clark field, Archie Roth, pilot for the Oregon, Washington & Idaho Airplane company, will spin the propeller of a speedy Oriole plane and will head for the Benton county college city.

The plane, laden with The Journal fresh from the presses, will fly directly to Corvallis, landing there undoubtedly in very little more than an hour, within sight of the great new O. A. C. grandstand, where will be college and townsfolk as well as large numbers of spectators from Portland and valley towns.

Corvallis has not yet witnessed commercial airplane delivery service, which was inaugurated in Oregon by The Journal and carried on with unusual success throughout the summer, when papers were delivered to sea coast resorts, to the Round-Up at Pendleton and to the state fair at Salem.

The delivery of The Journal will occur just before the opening whistle starts the week's biggest football game on home soil. The Journal plane will soar over the gridiron and will alight nearby with its cargo. Waiting carriers will circulate the papers in the grandstand and bleechers where Corvallis and the college will be en masse.

Offer of Marriage Fails to Bring Halt In White Slave Case

An offer of matrimony was made by counsel for Alex Cooper in the federal court this morning in an effort to clear up a white slave indictment returned Wednesday. When Assistant United States Attorney Reames heard the request, following the plea of not guilty, he objected to such a light interpretation being placed upon marriage and asked that the woman in the case, Mrs. Maude Stark, be arrested and placed under $500 bonds. Judge Wolverton ordered her arrest. Cooper's trial was set for January 13.

In an effort to prevent the marriage, Reames has refused Cooper visitors in his cell in the county jail. Cooper is said to have broken up the Stark home in the East and to have transported Mrs. Stark about the country as his wife. Recently when Cooper drove her out of the house she complained to government officials and told the story of their life. Cooper owns a chicken ranch near Milwaukie.

Gilman Is Awaiting His Transfer; He Is Still With S., P. & S.

L. C. Gilman, president of the S., P. & S., who was recently selected by the Great Northern as vice president for that system, has not yet tendered his resignation to the North Bank road. His election by the Great Northern was to become effective Monday, November 1, or when he should resign from his present position.

Gilman announced this morning that his transfer would be made as soon as all preparations were made locally. A successor to Gilman has not been named although it is reported that W. F. Turner, vice president, will become president.

Boy Is Sentenced To One Hour After Being Held 3 Months

Lester Winkle, 17, waited three months in the Multnomah county jail to receive a sentence of one hour. Winkle was arrested three months ago in Bend, after he stole a 50-cent piece from a mail box. His parents refused to put up bail for him. Thursday he was indicted by the grand jury for violation of the federal penal code. He pleaded guilty this morning. When Assistant United States Attorney Flegel learned that Winkle is only 17 years of age and that he had spent three months in jail awaiting trial, he recomemnded a sentence of a few hours in jail. Judge Wolverton made the sentence one hour. Winkle was at one time in the reform school, Flegel told the court.

ENOUGH GRAPES TO MAKE STATE 'WET'

There were enough wine grapes received in Portland from California during the last 48 hours to make the entire state "wet."

Eight carloads were received here during that period, in addition to the former liberal shipments, and more carloads are said to be destined for the Portland market.

According to the estimates made by dealers, there are sufficient grapes in the latest shipment alone to make 40,000 gallons of wine.

These grapes are used for practically no other purpose than for winemaking, and the highest price on record—$250 a ton—is being received by wholesalers here. This compares with a normal price during the real "wet" days of about $10 a ton.

Despite the extreme price quoted for these wine grapes, wholesalers report that the demand was never so great.

Arno Dosch Fleurot Due Here Saturday For Month's Visit

Arno Dosch-Fleurot, son of Colonel Henry E. Dosch, and for seven years a war correspondent in Europe for the New York World and other publications, will arrive in Portland at 8 o'clock Saturday morning for a month's visit with relatives. He will then go to New Zealand to pursue his special correspondence work for the New York World.

The last four months he has spent in Ireland, studying the general situation in that troubled country, and he arrived in New York October 18, leaving his family in Paris. During his visit to Portland he will make a study of the radical elements of the Pacific Northwest, which have shown themselves through the activities of the I. W. W. and the Communist-Labor party, preparatory to writing a series of articles on unrest in America.

3 Bills Approved, Two Are Opposed, In City Club Vote

Membership of the City club at the noon luncheon of the organization today approved five reports on referendum measures which will be voted upon next Tuesday. Three of the reports were in favor of support to measures and two were opposed to support.

The members approved a negative stand upon the oleomargarine bill and the single tax amendment. They approved the measure fixing term of county officers and the state market commission. The club also approved a report read at today's session disapproving the divided legislature measure but favoring the 60-day amendment.

Will Investigate Possibility for Industry Growth

Investigation to determine what additional lines of manufacture could be profitably conducted in this city is to be made by the Purchasing Agents' association of Oregon in cooperation with the department of industries of the Chamber of Commerce, according to an announcement made by W. H. Crawford, manager of the department, this morning.

Members of the association are now buying upward to $50,000,000 worth of material annually. The agents realize that a lot of this money could be spent here if manufacturers were prepared to supply the needs.
