

CHAMBERLAIN AND EFFICIENCY OR STANFIELD, ISSUE

Oregon's Senior Senator Experienced Legislator Enjoying Confidence of the Whole People.

hand in committee work, and before this committee goes nearly all legislation affecting shipping and commerce, both by land and sea, coming into the senate. Oregon now has two votes on that committee on all matters relating to shipping and commerce of Oregon. Chamberlain's defeat would cut the power of the state in half.

Chamberlain and McNary are both placed on the committee on public lands. Pointdexter of Washington is on that committee. Oregon now has two votes on the committee. Chamberlain's defeat would leave it only one.

Pointdexter is on the committee on interstate commerce. Johnson and Phelan, both of California, are on the committee on irrigation.

Washington's and California's shipping, commercial and industrial interests are hostile to those of Oregon. Both states are striving against Oregon for irrigation development. The weaker Oregon is, the more power those states will wield in those directions for their own advantage and against the advancement of Oregon.

WHY FILES, POINTDEXTER!

Washington's big interests and California's big interests realize these circumstances keenly. That is the reason ex-United States Senator Sam Files and present Senator Miles Pointdexter were imported into Oregon to fight Chamberlain.

Powerful political and financial interests in California have extensive irrigation projects mapped out in Siskiyou and Modoc counties just south of the Oregon line. Immense financial gain for these interests is involved in the success of their projects. They planned to dam up Klamath lake, inundate 20,000 acres of fertile and valuable tillable land about the borders of the lake—land now sought as homes by Oregon service men—and use the water to irrigate their vast holdings in Northern California.

These interests were so powerful that they secured a permit to do this wrong to Oregon against the protests of Senator Chamberlain from the then secretary of the interior, Franklin K. Lane, a Californian.

CHAMBERLAIN STOPS IT

But, when Lane went out of office, Chamberlain took up the fight for Oregon anew and stopped the work of the California-Oregon Power company.

Within less than a month Montaville Flowers, a California orator, had been sent into Oregon, under orders to stay here until the close of the campaign, to fight ceaselessly and persistently to defeat Chamberlain.

With Chamberlain out of the senate, his power and influence gone, and with both Johnson and Phelan on the irrigation committee, California's financial interests would be in immeasurably stronger position to put over their scheme to the irreparable injury of irrigation development in Klamath county.

STANFIELD IS NOVICE

R. N. Stanfield would be a novice in the United States senate, if elected. He would start at the bottom of the ladder in committee assignments and influence.

Stanfield is associated in business with and is supported for election by Swift & Co.

Swift & Co. want Stanfield elected to the senate because he is the business associate of the company and of Louis F. Swift, its president.

Louis F. Swift and Swift & Co. have put Chamberlain on the blacklist because he refused to be influenced by Louis F. Swift, and told him so. He refused to help kill the Kenyon bill, introduced in the senate to curb the unlawful practices and combination of the "Big Five" packing combine. For that Swift & Co. and all its varied influences are combined to effect Chamberlain's defeat, if possible. They know that congress will be asked again to regulate them, to enact legislation to curb them in the interest of the consuming public. They want to be regulated, if regulated they must be, by their friends. Stanfield would be a friend of Swift & Co. in the senate, because he is a business associate and a friend in private life. He is under too many and too deep obligations to Swift & Co. not to be a Swift & Co. senator, were he in the senate.

ISSUES ARE PLAIN

The issues in the senatorial contest are plain.

Big interests of Washington and California are fighting Chamberlain for selfish reasons. They want to subrogate the irrigation, the commercial, the business and the industrial advancement of Oregon to the interests of California and Washington.

Swift & Co. want a friend in the United States senate for personal and selfish reasons.

All of them combined are fighting Chamberlain, and are asking the voters of Oregon to finish the job for them.

The issue is: Will the voters of Oregon, on Tuesday next, vote to advance the interests of California financial and business interests on the South, the interests of Washington commercial and business advancement on the north, and Swift & Co.'s interests everywhere, by voting for Stanfield?

Or will they vote to maintain Oregon's prestige, influence and power in the United States senate by voting for Chamberlain?

ALL THREE PARTIES CLAIM VICTORY ON GRAYS HARBOR

Aberdeen, Wash., Oct. 30.—Completing arrangements for final campaign rallies Monday and organizing their staffs for the reception of election returns, county chairmen of the Republican, Democratic and Farmer-Labor parties Saturday night hailed their campaign activities to predict in Tuesday's balloting the largest vote ever cast in the county.

Victory in county and state is claimed by all three parties. Farmer-Labor representatives, while conceding that the third party national strength is not sufficient to make victory likely, declare that Grays Harbor voters will elect the third party county ticket and give a majority for Robert Bridges, Farmer-Labor candidate for governor.

The total registration of the county is 14,730, and practically all party managers believe that the total vote poll will not be less than 12,000.

The attitude of the Republican and Democratic leaders in the county is strongly contrasted on the subject of the third party. E. B. Benn, county Republican chairman, asserting that the Farmer-Labor party constitutes a menace to American ideals and institutions, while, Watson Vernorn, Democratic chairman, says that his party has not sought to antagonize the Farmer-Labor vote.

These statements are reflected in the views of John A. McAloon, representing the new party here, who says that the Democratic campaign has been fair to Farmer-Labor interests and the attitude of some Republicans notably unfair.

Election Returns

Election returns will be received at the University club Tuesday night, following a special dinner for which reservations are now being made.

RESIDENCE SECTIONS FOR GORDON

Reports from residence sections throughout the city show that Herbert Gordon is the favorite candidate of the voters.—(Paid advertisement—Gordon-for-Mayor club; Ralph Coan, pres.; C. C. Stout, secy.)

Note the flexible shank. You can double it right up. This flexibility takes the strain off the foot when you walk, for the shank must bend, and if it doesn't bend easily the foot is strained accordingly. This is a Ground Gripper feature. It exercises and strengthens the muscles of the arch without strain.
