

CALIFORNIA VOTES 3 TO 1 TO EXCLUDE JAP. LAND OWNERS

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—(L. N. S.)—California voters yesterday emphatically registered their approval of legislation against alien land ownership in the state.

The amendment aimed at the Japanese, which will prohibit them from owning or holding land in the state, carried by at least three to one. The vote in San Francisco was about four to one in favor of the measure. Some upstate counties, in which feeling against the Japanese was especially strong, went six to one for the law.

The Harris prohibition act modeled after the Volstead enforcement measure, which would have given state officials power to enforce prohibition, was defeated. The vote available is three to one against the measure, but rural districts will cut this ratio down probably. Returns indicate, however, that the voters have registered emphatically against the measure.

COLBY SILENT ON VICTORY OF ANTI-JAPANESE LAW

Washington, Nov. 3.—(U. P.)—Secretary of State Colby today refused to comment on the adoption of the California law prohibiting all land-holding by Japanese.

The passage of the law was said to be significant, however, in that it makes the protest of Japan a definite issue between the two countries, the protest having been made originally months ago when the California measure was only proposed. Since then Ambassador Shidehara and the state department have been negotiating to settle Japan's protest and the negotiations are believed to be nearing a conclusion.

WHITE PINE BOX IS ELOQUENT FOR PEACE

A trooper in full uniform half asleep on a bench near the baggage room. He wears an ammunition belt and revolver. He is on duty. A few feet away on a baggage truck is a white pine box and wrapping it is an American flag.

THEY AT LEAST PAID

Hundreds of American boys are coming home from France that way. Their votes were cast on the battlefields of France. It's two years this month since the guns stopped roaring in the Argonne. Both sides in the political campaign have talked either of the League of Nations as a provocative or preventive of war. The election result is a mixed verdict on domestic and international affairs.

Yet the writer cannot help thinking today of the scene at the railroad station at night—the lonely remains of a boy that has given up his life for the nation. It seemed but a feeble aftermath of the cry that went up during the war to stop war forever. Boys are coming back from the other side with beautiful flags draped about them. Soldiers escort them to the hundreds of villages where the heart-broken parents welcome even at this late date a reminder of their sons' heroism. These silent voters are received into the soil of the land they sought to defend.

DOMESTIC ISSUES RAISED

And yet, in the great presidential election, where party bitterness and the friction of the contest has prevailed, the thought has unquestionably been of issues and subjects far afield from the sacrifice these troopers have made. The effort to stop war has gotten little encouragement from America in the last two years.

Had the fatalities been as great in the American army as they were in the French, the people of the United States might have felt more deeply the wounds of war. There might have been more demand for constructive ideas on the prevention of war. The campaign has unfortunately centered on domestic grievances. Such scant attention as was given to the greatest of all problems, world peace, was concentrated on violent criticism of the one plan offered, and thus many people have been led to forget the original objects and principles of the whole thing.

NEEDS SYMPATHY

The new president of the United States will have great responsibility. He deserves sympathy as much as congratulation. For the thousands of boys who are returning home in the white pine boxes come as mute reminders of American duty still undone. It may be "The League" or "A" league, but it will be some kind of League of Nations, something that will fulfill the pledges made when America entered the war, and that responsibility which the new president will face.

Such is the underlying psychology of this election day—and with the parades of triumph and the happy plaudits of victory have died down there will come stronger and stronger the spirit of these silent voters to demand a real contribution from America to world peace.

HARDING AND HIS TICKET SWEEP U. S.

figures of the Republican majorities and pluralities to the women's vote.

The Republicans succeeded in turning back into the Republican column every Northern and Western state which Woodrow Wilson carried over Charles E. Hughes in 1916. Four years ago the Central and Far West elected Wilson. Yesterday those same states rolled up impressive majorities for Harding. Fourteen states which in 1916 were carried by Wilson and which Harding carried yesterday were California, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Maryland, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. Even in the Southern states the Democratic majorities showed, in many cases, heavy declines from 1916. Where Texas four years ago gave Wilson a handsome majority of 221,515, it was generally estimated today that Cox majority will be many thousands less. Republicans even had strong hopes today of electing their men in several congressional fights. Other Southern states showed like decreases.

The 13 states which Governor Cox appeared today to have certainly carried are: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Kentucky, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia.

Republican national headquarters here were literally flooded with telegrams today and some of these would not concede the Democrats the so-called border states of Kentucky and Oklahoma until the last vote was counted. On the face of the returns, however, they appeared to be safely in the Democratic column.

BEHIND, YET VICTOR

One of the unusual features of the election was that Judge Nathan L. Miller, Republican candidate for governor of New York, ran nearly a million votes behind the Republican national ticket and yet was elected by a substantial plurality.

"Al" Smith, Tammany Hall's favorite son, polled nearly a million more votes in New York than Cox and yet was defeated. Miller's plurality was estimated today at between 50,000 and 80,000.

While definite figures were not available today, it appeared that the Socialist popular vote is going to be considerable, as compared with former years. In New York city alone Eugene V. Debs, the prisoner-candidate, rolled up nearly 150,000 votes.

Figures on the Farmer-Labor ticket, headed by Parley P. Christensen, of Utah, were not available this forenoon. The figures on other minor parties are not believed to be impressive.

Accused of Robbing U. S.

James Murphy and Charles Todd must answer the charge of stealing government property from Oregon Agricultural college, consisting of steel tape and rifles, compasses and other articles which they are alleged to have taken from the armory, into which they are said to have broken. Todd has been arrested in Washington and Murphy is in jail at Corvallis.
