Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Boss were hosts of 10 guests at a charmingly appointed dinner Saturday evening, given at their home in Irvington. The dinner table was artistically decorated, centered with an immense pumpkin filled with cut flowers. This, with lighted candles and lanterns, gave a most pleasing effect. The guests were greeted at the door by a ghost, who bade them enter, while another sentinel in ghost-like form was stationed at the doorway. The evening was pleasantly spent in fortune telling and other Halloween amusements.

William Schmeier, sales and merchandising manager of the Gevurtz Furniture company, was married at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to Miss Laura C. Baker of Newberg. The wedding was celebrated at the home of Sanford C. Brant, 606 East Fifty-third street north. Dr. C. E. Kline performing the ceremony. Louis Gevurtz was best man. Mr. Schmeier was formerly president of the Oregon Furniture company and was once a member of the Portland city council. The bride comes from a pioneer Oregon family.

Oregon Normal School, Monmouth, Nov. 4.—A delightful party was given by the student body in the gymnasium Saturday evening, celebrating Halloween. The decorations, games and costumes were in keeping with the day. The most interesting number on the program was a feature dance given by Miss Virginia Hales and Miss Dorcas Conklin. The refreshments consisted of doughnuts, served on long polished sticks, and sweet cider.

A studio tea was given this afternoon at the Portland hotel, which included an exhibit of photographic child studies displayed by J. J. Hamilton of the Grove studios. At the tea Mrs. Arthur H. Meiers, Mrs. Guy Porter, Mrs. O. M. Clark and Mrs. Jay Smith presided at the table and were assisted in serving by Miss Genevieve Butterfield and Miss Vona Guthrie. The exhibit will be continued through Friday afternoon.

Miss Betty Gram expects to sail for Europe this week to study voice in Germany. She will make the trip on the steamship Richmond and expects to spend at least three years abroad. Before her departure from New York Mrs. Thomas Carriek Burke gave an informal evening affair for Miss Gram, which assembled a group of her Portland friends to bid her adieu.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Merrick are being congratulated on the arrival of a son at St. Vincent's hospital October 24. The baby will be named Paul Harbaugh, after his uncle.

Miss Elizabeth Hailey was hostess for an informal luncheon Saturday afternoon, honoring Mrs. Anna Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Wheeler, who, with her parents, left Sunday for Los Angeles, where she will enter the Bishop school this winter.

Mrs. A. St. Clair Gay was hostess for a delightful Halloween party entertaining the young friends of her daughter, who are members of the Q. V. club, Saturday evening, at her home on Portland Heights.

A card party will be given in the rooms of the Catholic Women's league, 287 1/2 Washington street, Friday evening, conducted by the women employees of the cafeteria.

Summer Relief corps will not hold its usual meeting Saturday evening at 525 courthouse, as other arrangements have been made for that evening.

Donald Woodward Jr. has returned to Portland, having successfully passed the radio examinations at San Francisco.

New Baritone Here Pleases in Recital

J. Erwin Mutch, baritone, was presented in a complimentary recital Wednesday night at the Helig theatre by the Ellison-White conservatory of music at which institutions he has charge of the vocal department. Mr. Mutch arrived here recently from the East and this was his first public appearance here. His singing was received with rapturous enthusiasm because his voice is of excellent quality, his diction is like that of his former teacher, Oscar Seagle, noted for splendid diction, and the interpretation was artistic. The program included two songs by the late Tom Dobson of Portland, "Cargoes" and "When I Was One and Twenty." Miss Louise Huntley was the very excellent accompanist.

Jewish Women Will Sell Tags

By Yella Wisner

The sale of Christmas seals, the community effort to eradicate tuberculosis, will be given an auspicious opening in Portland, the Council of Jewish Women being in charge of the downtown booth sale on the opening day, December 2. Mrs. Henry W. Metzger will be chairman for the day and she will be assisted by 50 or more of the most prominent women of the council. Final plans for the sale were made at the meeting held yesterday by the council in B'nai B'rith building.

The program for the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. Charles P. Herz. Mrs. Metzger sang with her usual charm and brilliancy "The Star," "Tes Yeux" and "Good Morning, Brother Sunshine," with Miss Mame Helen Flynn at the piano. Robert Treat Platt gave a comprehensive address on the three hundredth anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrim fathers. On account of illness Mrs. Harold Wendell was unable to give her impersonations.

The Alberta Forward club met at the home of Mrs. H. K. Brintzenhoff, 1005 East Twenty-seventh street north, Thursday. Study topics for the day were George Eliot and Franz Liszt. Current events were discussed around the table, and a social hour enjoyed. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Earl Panhorst, 930 East Thirtieth street north, November 12.

The literature department of the Portland Woman's club will meet Friday at 2:30 p. m. at the Hotel Multnomah. Mrs. D. M. Watson will review "Man Alive," by Gilbert Keith Chesterton. Immediately at the close of the program the home economics department will meet in the same room with Miss Edna Groves in charge.

The newly-organized School Art League, formerly the school beautifying committee, will meet to complete its plans for the winter, Monday at 3:30 at Central library. All interested will be welcome.

The auxiliary will hold its regular monthly luncheon at the Portland hotel grill Saturday at 1 p. m. There will also be a short business session on account of the regular meeting being postponed on account of election night.

The Progressive Women's league will hold its regular business meeting Saturday, November 6, in the blue room, Hotel Portland. The members will answer to rollcall with a talk on the home beautiful.

BURGESS' BEDTIME STORIES

Chatterer Becomes Acquainted Rusty picked up a fat hickory nut and turned it over two or three times to find the best place to open it. "No," said he, "I can't say that I am. The fact is I have decided to settle here in the Green Forest. I like it. I like these fat hickory nuts. They are the best I've ever found. I think I can live here very comfortably and happily. I hope you won't object to having a new neighbor, especially a member of your own family." Rusty said this most politely, but his eyes twinkled with mischief. "Won't you come down Chatterer isn't in the least bashful. In fact, I know of no one less bashful than Chatterer the Red Squirrel. He isn't afraid to use his tongue. Some people call him impudent because he uses his tongue so freely. But he doesn't mind this at all. He keeps right on using that tongue of his, and the result is he knows about all there is to know in regard to his neighbors and their affairs.

For a while after his discovery of that big red-coated stranger under his favorite hickory tree Chatterer kept his tongue still and was content to keep out of sight and watch. But the longer he watched the stranger became his curiosity. He wanted to know who this stranger was and what his business was. When his curiosity became so great he could no longer stand it, he opened his mouth for a sharp retort and then thought better of it. "Yes," said he meekly, "I know a member of my family when I see him. Of course you are one of my cousins. But I never have seen you before and I was wondering what your name is."

"Rusty," replied the stranger promptly. "I'm Rusty the Fox Squirrel of the Green Forest." "Are you just passing through here on your way to some other place?" asked Chatterer, looking rather anxiously at the fat hickory nuts on the ground.

"Hello, yourself!" cried the stranger, good-naturedly. "Me? Why, I'm a Squirrel. Don't you recognize a member of your own family when you see him?" replied the stranger with a twinkle in his eyes. Chatterer saw that twinkle and it provoked him. He felt that inside the stranger was laughing at him, and if there is any one thing Chatterer cannot stand it is being laughed at. He opened his mouth for a sharp retort and then thought better of it. "Yes," said he meekly, "I know a member of my family when I see him. Of course you are one of my cousins. But I never have seen you before and I was wondering what your name is."

"Rusty," replied the stranger promptly. "I'm Rusty the Fox Squirrel of the Green Forest." "Are you just passing through here on your way to some other place?" asked Chatterer, looking rather anxiously at the fat hickory nuts on the ground.

involve an additional expense for which funds must be provided. Unless relief is afforded by means of a special election, radical reductions in the strength of the police, fire and other city departments must be made, it is said, by members of the city council.

Point Isabel, Tex., Prepares Reception To President-Elect

(By Universal Service) Point Isabel, Texas, Nov. 4.—Residents of this quiet little Texas town began preparations today to entertain President-elect Harding when he comes here soon for his vacation. Intimation that he was coming did not reach here until today when the newspapers brought the first word.

He will fish and hunt ducks and deer for 12 days. He will be accompanied by J. G. Culbertson, defeated candidate for governor of Texas, and other prominent Republicans of the state. It is planned to take him over to Matamoras, Mexico, for a few hours' stay. He will visit the famous fishing flats of Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palma.

Defeat of Budget Increase Jolt to Salem's Finances

Salem, Or., Nov. 4.—Having rejected by a decisive vote the proposal for an increase in the city's financial budget by approximately $25,000 over that allowed under the 8 per cent limitation, the people of Salem are confronted with the prospect of a seriously depleted municipal machine or an extra election at which to authorize additional funds.

The city treasury shows a deficit of some $20,000, it is pointed out, and the two-platoon fire department, authorized by the voters at Tuesday's election, will

Nursery Fund Drive Workers Will Plan Saturday Tag Day

Campaign workers of Albertina Kerr nursery home drive, in their quest for $25,000 to finish the new home at East Twenty-second street and Sandy boulevard, will assemble tonight at Central library hall to discuss plans for the tag day street sales Saturday, the closing day of the campaign. A motion picture and musical program will vary the order of business.

Through the generosity of Arthur Johnston, proprietor of the Coffee Cup restaurants, the entire proceeds and management of these cafeterias will be turned over to the nursery campaign officials Friday. Employees of the restaurants have additionally pledged per centages of their wages to the fund.

"We are confident of success," said Mrs. R. E. Bondurant, chairman of the campaign, "and believe that the citizens of Portland are as vitally concerned in the welfare of these little waifs of their own home town as they are in the welfare of European war orphans. Both are worthy causes, and we are convinced that the homeless children of this city will receive the same kindly recognition that is given by our citizens to the unfortunate babies of distant lands."

You can now have an old-time delicacy THE rich mellowness of real plantation molasses in your gingerbread. Hot, delicious, filling the air with fragrance! For that was the secret of the tantalizing flavor that made famous the gingerbread of old-time Southern cooks. It was that flavor of home-made molasses. Then open kettles of juice from fresh-crushed sugar cane used to bubble over cracked bonfires—cane-crushing time with every one on the plantation watching their chance for a sly spoonful of that luscious molasses! Today the famous old-time delicacy is yours again. Twenty-two years ago two Louisiana boys decided to restore that bygone Southern delicacy—genuine sugar cane molasses. Spurred on by delicious memories, they revived their plantation days and put up a molasses so fragrant, so full flavored, so sweet and pure that the first taste carries you back to childhood joys. And they named it Brer Rabbit, in honor of the hero in the plantation stories of their childhood. Today it is the most popular molasses in America. So successful have they been that Penick & Ford have become the largest packers of sugar cane products in the world. One taste and you know the difference its flavor makes in your cooking! Try it in your gingerbread—that old-time flavor! You can get Brer Rabbit at your grocer's—both the light molasses (gold label)—for table use as well as for cooking and the dark molasses (green label)—a stronger flavor for cooking). Penick & Ford, Ltd., New Orleans. Brer Rabbit Molasses Rich with the flavor of the sugar cane PREPARED BY THE WORLD'S LARGEST PACKERS OF SUGAR CANE PRODUCTS
