Guard Sees Bomb Suspects Strangers Demanded 'Package'

That two roughly dressed men planted the bombs in the niche in the wall between the First National Bank building and the Henry Jennings & Sons furniture store early Wednesday morning is believed by the police as a result of information from Night Watchman Bateson. Bateson told Inspectors Swennes and Schulpus Thursday that shortly after he had gone home he was roused by a hammering on the back door of his house.

Two roughly dressed men, one tall, the other short and fat, are alleged to have demanded "the package."

"What package?" Bateson asked. "You know well enough what package," one of the men is alleged to have said gruffly. "And unless you come across pronto we'll come in and get it," he added.

STRANGERS HURRY OFF

Bateson told the police that he flashed his deputy police star and told the men that he had a gun and demanded that they leave. They left, without further comment, he said.

Bateson said that he had not examined the package, but did so as soon as he was assured that his visitors had left. When he learned the contents of the package, he immediately notified the police.

Two of the bombs were sent to Seattle as a follow to one lead that they might be celebration bombs manufactured in that city.

Inspectors Swennes and Schulpus disclaim the theory that they were left as a post-election joy fest.

Chief Jenkins has worked with the detectives in carrying on a rigid investigation since the discovery of the bombs. He said Thursday that he believed firmly that it was part of a reign of terror promulgated by I. W. W.

He announced again Thursday that a determined effort to ferret out all I. W. W. would be made and extra precaution would be made to guard downtown buildings.

William Bryon, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice of the Northwest, has joined the police department in an effort to get at the bottom of the alleged reign of terror.

TWO VISITORS SOUGHT

That the bomb exploded by Chief Jenkins at Kelly's butte late Wednesday afternoon was of the same material as a bomb exploded at the home of C. B. Hurt, 1067 East Burnside street, last week is the opinion of Inspector.

Swennes, who compared pieces of the broken bombs Thursday. With Bateson's description of the two men who called at his home, the police are making every effort to locate them, who, they believe, planted the bombs with malicious intent.

Miss Ezma Jones Is Killed by Auto Near Hood River

Hood River, Nov. 4.—Miss Ezma Jones, better known as "Auntie" Jones, aged 65, formerly a nurse here, was instantly killed Tuesday night near here in the Barret district, when she was struck by an automobile driven by Bertha Cate, 16-year-old girl, who had no driver's license. The car got out of control and left the road, striking Miss Jones, who was walking in the grass, and knocking her nearly 50 feet, caused an extensive fracture to the base of her skull.

A coroner's jury Thursday recommended that the driver of the car not be again permitted to take the wheel. Miss Jones was loved by a wide circle of friends and was always ready to help others, even at her own inconvenience. Arrangements for the funeral are being made.
