New trains, Nos. 23 and 24, will operate between Portland and Pocatello, leaving Portland 11 p. m. and arriving here 7:30 a. m. This train will carry through equipment between Portland and Salt Lake.

Trains Nos. 5 and 6 will become exclusively mail trains. Trains Nos. 20 and 21 between La Grande and Baker will be discontinued. No. 11 will leave Spokane 15 minutes later arriving here 15 minutes earlier. Trains between Walla Walla and Spokane will operate 15 minutes later.

MURDERER OF TIL D. TAYLOR PAYS PENALTY part of the audience of 35 at the hanging.

The body was turned over to the Salvation Army and will be cremated.

PRISONERS RESENT HANGING

A demonstration by other prisoners was started as visitors passed through the main lobby to the Bertillon room, where the execution took place. Shouting and pounding on their cells, the inmates decried capital punishment. The demonstration lasted throughout the execution and until after the body was removed from the hanging room.

Doctors M. B. Marcellus of Portland and R. S. Byrd and W. C. Smith of Salem pronounced Hart dead.

With Warden Compton when the death warrant was read were Deputy Warden J. W. Lewis, Principal Keeper E. C. Halley and P. M. Varney, state parole officer.

CERTIFICATE IS ATTESTED

The certificate attesting to the execution of Hart was signed by Samuel H. Hutchinson, sheriff at Yakima, Wash.; L. V. Jenkins, chief of police, Portland; C. E. Klingsmith, Portland; Levi Chalmers, sheriff at The Dalles; Maurice L. Cottrill, chief assistant agent of the Southern Pacific railroad, Portland; Fred M. West, lieutenant of police, Portland; B. B. Penick, deputy sheriff, Pendleton; J. H. Estes, Pendleton; Elmer W. Moore, Pendleton; John E. Montgomery, Pendleton; A. L. Moreslock, Salem; H. M. Hanson, Pendleton.

Among Pendleton people who witnessed the execution were N. B. Swearingen, J. H. Estes, J. E. Montgomery, Glenn A. Bunge, and H. M. Shellenbarger.

TWENTY-FIFTH TO BE HANGED

Hart was the twenty-fifth man to hang in Oregon and the first since the restoration of capital punishment by vote of the people May 21. The last previous man to pay the penalty in this state was Oswald C. Hanson of Clatsop county, who was hanged November 14, 1913.

A coincidence is noted in the last previous hanging and that of Hart in that both men were convicted of murdering men by the name of Taylor. Hanson was hanged for the murder of Frank J. Taylor.

Hart shot and fatally wounded Til Taylor, sheriff of Umatilla county, at 6:10 o'clock on the morning of July 25, in the course of a jail delivery party invited in by Hart, Jim Owens, Jack Rathie, Richard Patterson, Lewis Anderson and Albert Lindgren. Taylor's death followed four hours after he had been shot.

USED SHERIFF'S GUN

Hart was being held in the Umatilla county jail awaiting trial on a charge of highway robbery. On the morning of the jailbreak the prisoners secured the guard when he brought in the morning meal, bound him and left him in a cell while they proceeded to make their getaway. Hart and Owens were in the sheriff's office searching for guns and ammunition when Sheriff Taylor entered. Owens grappled with the sheriff and while the two were scuffling on the floor of the office, Hart shot the officer in the breast with one of the sheriff's own revolvers.

Poses were immediately placed on the trail of the fugitives and Hart and Owens were captured on Friday night, July 30, asleep in a sheep herder's cabin on the Tollgate road in the Wenaha forest in Union county. They were taken to La Grande and lodged in the county jail and were transferred to the jail at Pendleton.

A voluntary plea of guilty to a charge of murder, was entered by Hart on August 29 and on September 15 Judge Phelps sentenced him to hang. The first such sentence to be imposed in Oregon since capital punishment was restored by vote of the people on May 21.

Owens and Rathie are in the penitentiary under sentence to hang December 3, but this sentence has been stayed pending an appeal of their case to the supreme court.

PACIFIC LIVESTOCK LAND PRICES IN HARNEY ARE FIXED

Salem, Or., Nov. 5.—A maximum price on the 10,000 acres of Harney county land to be placed on the market by the Pacific Livestock company under agreement made with the state a year ago has been agreed upon by J. W. Biggs of Burns, representing the state desert land board, and A. R. Olson of Burns, representing the livestock company, and was placed before the state board Thursday for final approval.

The board expects to take action on the agreement within a few days and the land will be placed on the market immediately following approval of the figures. The figures provide for a maximum price of $100 per acre for the best land with proportionately lower prices on the poorer lands in the tract, all of which, with the exception of 300 acres, is under irrigation. The maximum price calls for an aggregate valuation of the land of approximately $735,000.

The sale of this land was agreed to by the Pacific Livestock company in a compromise effected by Attorney General Brown, who was preparing to bring suit against the company charging fraud in obtaining possession of the lands in Harney county through the use of dummies.

Under the compromise the company also paid to the state $125,000. The land is to be sold only to bona fide settlers in tracts of not more than 320 acres to each purchaser and no land is to be sold to corporations except with the consent of the state land board.

According to announcement by Olson before the board Thursday the Pacific Livestock company will offer for sale ranch, some 38,000 acres, as soon as the remainder of their Harney county ranch, some 38,000 acres, has been disposed of.

EBEY ADVOCATES SOUND-PORTLAND ORIENTAL COMBINE

Oriental steamship sailings of the Admiral line from the Columbia river to Puget Sound should be combined with one sailing a month. This suggestion was offered as the only solution to keep foreign trade to Oriental ports through North Pacific ports alive during the present period of depression and was made by H. H. Ebey, director of operations on the Pacific coast for the United States Shipping board. Ebey spoke at an informal meeting of city and port officials and shippers and business men at the Chamber of Commerce at noon today.

Ebey was welcomed by Mayor Baker and introduced by H. B. Van Duser, president of the chamber. In opening his address he assured this port a square deal under its new headquarters at San Francisco. Ebey continued: "We are facing a gloomy aspect in foreign trade. There is a lack of demand. We used to have trouble in making allocations of ships; now we have a surplus of ships that exceeds the demand. Oriental business is poor. Portland business men have not supported local sailings as well as they should."

"There seems to be a prevalent idea that the ships should be operated regardless of earnings and loss."

"I can find no provision in the Jones merchant marine bill which would permit operation at a deficit, or that would permit the withdrawal of funds from the United States treasury to keep the vessels in operation."

"Any feeling that ship removals from this port is prejudiced is erroneously based. You should have no trouble in increasing your tonnage when cargo facilities."

"Local shippers are said to be encouraging the sailings of a foreign line. Almost their first duty, I think, would be to support American shipping."

Teal Appointment Best Achievement Of Commerce Body

Securing the appointment of J. N. Teal as a member of the United States shipping board is the greatest single accomplishment of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, according to Otto W. Melko, director of the chamber, who addressed the members of the Portland realty board at a meeting in the grill room of the Portland hotel at noon today. Melko stated that Teal is better informed than any other man in the country on the needs and opportunities of a strong merchant marine.

President German of the realty board announced that the organization would get behind a movement to frame a new zoning ordinance to present to the council. The new measure he said would eliminate the objectionable features which resulted in the defeat of the zoning ordinance at the general election Tuesday.

Motorman Cut in Crash

Motorman Clairmire was cut about the face by flying glass Thursday when his street car collided with a truck driven by Watt Godby, 642 East Twenty-sixth street, at Fifth and Main streets. He was not seriously hurt. The front end of the car was smashed in, but the truck was only slightly damaged.

PRESIDENT UNDECIDED

President Wilson has not yet decided his course. Had it not been for the report that Bryan had suggested his resignation, there might have been real reason for thinking the president would adopt such a course as a result of the election, in order to remove himself, since the Republicans have said he was an obstruction in the path of peace.

Bryan and Wilson, however, had much in common, and have had increasingly less in common during the last three years. Were Bryan, therefore, to suggest Wilson's resignation, the odds might be placed at 100 to 1 that Wilson would remain in office.

In the meantime the chances favor the president's resubmitting the treaty with some recommendations that might possibly obtain its ratification. Regardless of the vote of the people, the league covenant is still dominant in the president's thought and heart, and for that reason those intimately in touch with him believe he will make it the leading subject of his final message to congress in December.

ELIHU ROOT IN DISFAVOR WITH PRESIDENT-ELECT

The one thing certain thus far that President-elect Harding considers himself committed to is some kind of a league of association of nations. Beyond that no one can go, except to say that it is pretty well assured and understood in Marion that Elihu Root will not be the dominating figure of the next administration which has so publicly predicted that he would be.

Just what the league of nations will look like when the negotiations with the next administration and the European powers are concluded, it is difficult to say. Some "irreconcilables" will be satisfied if they eliminate Article X, which Mr. Wilson called the "heart of the covenant." With that article gone, and other articles substituted, they may be ready to call it a "new association" or the "Harding league," and work for ratification.

TEXT OF ROUND ROBIN

"Perhaps this was because neither Senator Borah nor Senator Johnson, leader of the irreconcilable group, spent much time arguing what kind of a league they favored, but condemning the present league. The Republican platform in Chicago accepted by Borah and Johnson favors "an international agreement," to accomplish the same general objects which the Democrats have claimed as the purpose of the Wilson covenant. But more specifically than the Republican platform, the Harding plan is reflected in the following text of the famous round robin sent originally by the Republicans in the senate as a warning to President Wilson in the midst of the peace negotiations:

"Whereas, a committee of the peace conference has proposed a constitution for a League of Nations and the proposal is now before the peace conference for its consideration; now therefore,

"Be it resolved by the senate of the United States, in the discharge of its constitutional duty of advice in regard to treaties, that it is the sense of the
