

LOCAL MUSICIANS CALL OFF STRIKE AGAINST THEATRES

Settlement of the musicians' strike against the Jensen & Von Herberg chain of motion picture theatres in Portland, Seattle and Tacoma has been accomplished, word to the local union late Friday advised.

Call off all strike activity. Executive committee will come to conclusion this afternoon, a message from E. E. Pettengill, local union president said, in effect.

Pettengill was called to Seattle suddenly Wednesday night, and there went into conference with union officials, who also met with representatives of the picture house-against which the musicians have been striking for many weeks.

The Portland end of the strike, primarily inspired by sympathy for Tacoma strikers, has been particularly active and has led to frequent court encounters.

The terms of settlement were not known here late Friday, and the union men concerned were keenly anticipating promised enlightenment from the Seattle meeting.

In obedience to the mandate from President Pettengill, all local strike activities have ceased under order conveyed to the strikers by F. E. Newberger, special agent in the absence of Pettengill and one of the strike leaders.

C. S. Jensen, local head of the Jensen & Von Herberg interests, has been in Seattle for several days in connection with the series of meetings and conferences that have halted the strike.

BLAST VICTIM'S FUNERAL DELAYED

Oregon City, Nov. 6.—Arrangements for the funeral of William Brown, who was instantly killed Friday in an explosion at the Crown-Willamette paper mill at West Linn, are delayed pending word from the only known relative of the young man, H. H. Barcher, of San Jose, California.

Brown had been warned that two charges were to be shot and had taken refuge in a large steel tube near the site of the construction work. After the first charge he started to leave the tube, forgetting about the second explosion, which hurled a large scuffling against him, killing him instantly.

Two other men employed on the work escaped uninjured, as they were able to draw back into the tube before the second charge went off. Brown had been employed by the mill about three months. He was 22 years of age. The body is at the Holman & Face establishment.

LAUNDRY OWNERS GATHER TO FORM STATE ASSOCIATION

More than 80 per cent of the laundry owners of Oregon gathered at the Benson hotel this morning to form a state organization for the protection of their industry.

Convening at 10 o'clock the meeting was welcomed by Mayor Baker. Response was made by Ed L. Moore of Portland. Percy G. Allen was selected as temporary chairman and V. A. Spier as temporary chairman.

The morning session was devoted to adoption of a constitution and by-laws. It was decided that all counties and cities should be represented and that the organization should be temporarily for "the protection of the industry against unjust competition and discrimination."

The constitution of the National Laundry Owners' association was adopted as the standard for the Oregon association. It was decided that there should be three classes of membership—acting, associate, and allied trade.

At noon a luncheon was held at the Chamber of Commerce. At 2 o'clock the meeting reconvened to elect officers.

BOMB SCARE IS TRACED TO BOYS' PRANK BY POLICE

They were just four harmless, callow office boys trying to get along until the opportunity came for them to stage a Tom Sawyer thrill for the honest burghers of Portland.

They seized the opportunity to such effect that policemen took up a ceaseless chase of terror that flies by night. And the more timid citizens looked twice to see that their doors were locked before they crawled with more than one shiver in between the sheets.

The "reign of terror" that began near Halloween was a long time a-borning. It all started last summer when the Victory loan boosters decided to stage a Fourth of July sham battle. Some 50 bombs were stored in a downtown basement, to be ready for the occasion.

But the sham battle didn't call on the 50 bombs for service. Instead they were ordered onto the field and then forgotten—by all save the four office boys who helped to transport them.

And the police worked more earnestly on the case. Then came the November dawn which brought the revelation that there lay in a crevice in the walls of the Jennings store and the First National bank, three deadly bombs.

The chief of police had an idea the bombs might be motion picture properties or the like. So he arid Inspector Tom Swennes and another officer took one to Kelly Butte and set it off. In nearly knocked them for a row of goal posts.

There was one policeman who got an idea of his own and gave it a chance. And that was who has the story.

The four office boys, it seems, couldn't quite agree. And one of them held out to the other boys to the extent of three deadly bombs. No clue to their antecedents was to be found, but there were many who solemnly averred that the trick was evidently that of bloodthirsty nihilists.

And you can bet the police kept working on the case. POLICEMAN WITH BRAINS

There was one policeman who got an idea of his own and gave it a chance. And that was who has the story.

The four office boys, it seems, couldn't quite agree. And one of them held out to the other boys to the extent of three deadly bombs.

And the boys, Roy Hall, the ring leader, who lives at 1470 East Giles street, John Hazlett, Kenneth Wilson and Claud Holton, confessed.
