BEYOND MENTIONED IN SHIPPING INQUIRY

Government stipulations as to the accounting for moneys handled by operators have been ignored.

Some operators have borrowed money, ostensibly for ship operation purposes, but then diverted it to other uses.

Repairs can be made by operators up to $10,000 per vessel without inspections by government officials.

There have been interlocking contracts in allocation of ships, which is disadvantageous to the shipping board.

Government shipbuilding property has been disposed of at ridiculous figures.

Over advances have been allowed for construction of ships by the Emergency Fleet corporation.

Claims of contractors which have been allowed despite protests of United States shipping board inspectors.

Alleged waste and graft are pointed out in report Washington, Nov. 10.—(WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL)—

Severe condemnation of shipping board practices and charges of numerous leaks and outright graft are contained in a report made public today.

Representative Walsh of Massachusetts, chairman of the house investigating committee, which visited the Pacific coast last year.

The report covers the work of two experts employed by the committee, A. B. Fisher, and J. F. Richardson.

The contract with George F. Rodgers for removal of unfinished ways is scored, investigators reporting $5000 a hull was paid when no work actually was performed.

An official of the Barde company is asserted to be acting in a "dual capacity," being also a member of the shipping board cancellation and claims board.

The report bristles with allegations of waste, incompetence and graft running all through the shipping board operations from supervising officials, contractors, and masters of ships down to ship stewards and clerks.

Of Rodgers' contract the report says: "Among other contracts which have been severely criticized is the George F. Rodgers' hull removal contract.

"This covers generally a hull fee, an unfinished state at the time of the armistice, or rather at time the contract with Rodgers was signed.

Under his contract Rodgers was to remove these hulls from the building ways or to secure from builders of the hulls and owners of the land upon which the hulls and ways rest a release from further liability.

"For some reason the shipping board saw fit to contract with Rodgers to pay him $5000 for each hull thus handled.

The result has been that in many cases the shipping board has paid an additional $5000 a hull to have Rodgers sell the hull or give it away.

PERSONAL PROFIT CHARGED. "Rodgers has found little difficulty in selling the hulls to the builders or others at a very fair price, which revenues, under his contract, revert to Rodgers.

URGES FULL INQUIRY. "This contract should be gone thoroughly into by this committee for the purpose of ascertaining what, if any, advantage accrued to the Fleet corporation from such a contract.

Accused Sings Self Into Jail, Then He Sings His Way Out

James Gordon, a Montana miner, has a good baritone voice. He used it ill-advisedly and got into jail. Then he used it advisedly and got out of jail.

Gordon was arrested Tuesday night by Sergeant Keegan at Broadway and Washington streets, where the singer had attracted a large crowd.

Gordon told the court he came from a mining camp in Montana and was on his way to the oil fields of California.

He said he had no money, but after seeing other people playing instruments on the street for coins, he decided to try his voice.

When Judge Rossman gave consent, he entertained the court with a solo, singing "Down the Trail to Home Sweet Home."

Supply of shipping board boats is alleged to be largely in the hands of firms who will pay gratuities, make deliveries at any hour and charge the cost to the shipping board.

Stupendous losses, aggregating perhaps 40 and 50 per cent, are said to occur in ship supplies.

Manipulations of repair contracts to produce overcharges and excess profits are declared of vast amount and "so common that it can easily be proved in practically every port of the United States."

Grounding projects are criticized for improper location, excessive cost and depreciated sale values.

The report comprises over 100 pages and will come before the Walsh committee for consideration shortly.

Marriage Is Unique In Fairyland Scene At Local Florist's

A crowd which taxed the standing-room capacity of Clarke Brothers florist shop Tuesday evening witnessed a unique wedding ceremony read by the Rev. Frank L. Wemett, pastor of the Centenary Methodist church.

Miss Pearl Lapp of Marshfield and Wendell Lapp of the same town were married. The sales room of the store, in spite of its commercial day time attire, was transformed into a brilliant setting of the season's choicest blooms.

A bridal arch of tall standards of chrysanthemums in yellow and white combined with palms and interwoven with greenery was fashioned over the stairway and there the young couple stood for the service.

An orchestra played the wedding music and continued its strains softly through the service.

The bride's gown was a smart tailored costume and her flowers were a corsage of orchids and baby roses.

The bridegroom was in a tuxedo and the bridesmaid was Miss Minnie Schultz of Portland. Walter Gregg was best man.

The idea of the wedding ceremony in the store started some time ago when A. J. Clarke proposed in a joke that any member of the organization who would be married in the store should be given a wedding celebration at the company's expense.

AUTO OWNERS ARE SLOW IN ASKING FOR LICENSE TAGS

Salem, Nov. 10.—Less than 5000 applications have been received for 1921 motor vehicle licenses up to date, according to Secretary of State Koser, who urges automobile owners to file their applications as early as possible in order to avoid the usual last-minute congestion in the automobile registration department.

Motor vehicle owners are reminded that it will be a violation of the law to operate cars after January 1 without the new license tag and that the issuance of these tags requires a certain amount of time.

Automobile owners who delay in filing their applications may find it necessary to store their cars after the first of the year until their belated applications can receive attention and the licenses issued in their regular order.

It is estimated that not less than 60,000 applications will be made before January first and based upon present indications the great bulk of these will be made at the last minute.

A total of 102,427 automobiles, 3483 motorcycles, 751 dealers and 3264 chauffeurs have been registered for 1920 up to date, with receipts of the registration department aggregating $2,041,042.75.
