BUTTER RISE FOR

It was finally decided to advance the price of butter and butterfat in Port-land Sc a pound Monday morning with best butter in plain wrappers 59 cents and best butterfat, Portland delivery, 57 cents a pound.

It has been definitely settled that the by The Journal in a previous issue, tracted considerable attention. It was Puget Sound prices have already made Locally the situation in the butter trade has been strong for some days as far as it pertains to the extra quality. There has been a general shortage of first class butter here and those that have put out that quality have not experienced any difficulty whatever in cleaning up at the higher prices. Those that were unable to secure this price were reported as putting out inferior butter under the best brands. There was also talk that some cold storage stock has been used in place of fresh stock, but this is contrary to the law and recent court difficul-ties would at least make the trade be careful in this regard.

The trade in the South has a very good tone during the last few days.

Those desiring special information regarding market, should write Hyman H. Cohen, arket editor Oregon Journal, enclosing stamp EGG MARKET SHOWING STRENGTH Strength continues general in the local egg trade, but prices were unchanged. Fresh stock is extremely scarce and sellers are able to nmand quoted figures with ease.

TURKEY SALES ARE MADE HIGH Sales of dressed turkeys were made generally in the Front street trade during the 24 hours around 50c a pound for best quality, although a few selected birds went up to 52c a pound.

CHICKEN TRADE HOLDS STRONG Trade in the chicken market is holding strong along the street and a general cleanup of offerings was shown at the prices quoted by The Journal. Heavy bens and light springs continue in best request.

All Onlone Harvested All Onions Harrested

Beaverton, Or., Nov. 13.—All onions grown on beaverdam in this locality are now harvested.

For the first time in years have Washington county growers been unable to harvest their onion crop until the middle of November. Johnson & Sons, extensive growers, have all of their 16 serie crop in the onion bouse. Mr. Johnson states that in spite of all the unfavorable climatic conditions, he finally harvested the balance of their crop in good condition.
