

LESIONS OF WAR HEALING RAPIDLY, ASSERTS WILSON

(By United News) Washington, Nov. 13.—President Wilson, in a Thanksgiving proclamation issued Friday night, said Americans have abundant cause to be grateful because the lesions of war are rapidly healing and because "in plenty, security and peace our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future, its duties and its opportunities."

Following is the text of the proclamation: "The season approaches when it behooves us to turn from the distractions and pre-occupations of our daily life, that we may contemplate the mercies which have been vouchsafed to us, and render heartfelt and unfeigned thanks unto God for his manifold goodness."

"This is an old observance of the American people, deeply imbedded in our thought and habit. The burdens and the stresses of life have their own insistence. The season approaches when it behooves us to turn from the distractions and pre-occupations of our daily life, that we may contemplate the mercies which have been vouchsafed to us, and render heartfelt and unfeigned thanks unto God for his manifold goodness."

Baby Girl Deserted; Police Care for Her

A blue-eyed baby girl, left on the doorstep of Mrs. Olive Fisher, 612 13th street, received the tender care of Portland's police force Friday night. Motorcycle Patrolmen Riley and Atkinson answered Mrs. Fisher's call at 8:20 and found the chubby infant in a dilapidated baggy with a few clothes and a milk bottle but no identifying tag or mark.

Says Man Mistreated Her On complaint of Edna Smith, 16, who claimed that she had been mistreated, Joseph Burbank, a married man living at 1323 Willamette boulevard, was arrested Friday for investigation by the police. A ring reported stolen from Mrs. Burbank was found in the possession of the girl, the police say. The girl is in charge of the woman's protective bureau.

WHISTLE ON ENGINE HAD FOLK WILD

Seven o'clock Friday night: "Hello—is this The Journal? Can you tell me, please, what all the whistles are blowing for?" "Why, er—" "Hello—is this The Journal? What for all the whistles?" "Well, it's this way—" "Hey! Is this The Journal? Say, there's a whistle over on the east side been blowing for 20 minutes. What is wrong?"

Anxious inquirers kept all telephones in The Journal office so busy that the perturbed staff was barely able to squeeze through a call to Southern Pacific headquarters, which quashed all suggestions of a belated armistice celebration or of a waterfrost fire with the information that an engine in the S. P. yards had started to whistle and had absolutely refused to stop.

NAVAL BASE PROGRAM IS TO BE ADEQUATE

(Continued From Page One) attracted by it and it could be used as a naval reserve clubhouse. I believe that Admiral Coontz agrees that it should come to Portland."

Following this remark, Admiral Coontz said that he intended to move the office would bring the Oregon to Portland, but said that a certain small sum of money would be needed for maintenance. FUNDS ARE NEEDED He said that it was important that the ship come here and suggested that some provision of funds be made for the ship's winter.

NAVAL AFFAIRS COMMITTEE PLEASSED WITH TONGUE POINT

Conversion of the Tongue Point site, on the lower Columbia river, into a naval base only awaits the final deed of the designated property to the government and the arrangement of a few minor details which will be completed by the end of the month.

Opinion generally prevailed in the party that it is showing during the world war. He said he never had any doubt about Oregon supplying her quota either in men, ships or food supplies.

The inspection trip was made to the Columbia river site in connection with a tour making the Pacific coast naval stations and is the first visit paid Tongue Point since the appropriation was made by congress for the site.

Where the John Day river enters the lower Columbia about 12 miles above Astoria, the committee members believed the farthest inland boundary should be placed. The remainder of the land should embrace the shoulder of land known as Tongue Point, this jutting highland to act as a protection to the base.

The visitors were guests of the Astoria Chamber of Commerce. Their reception and entertainment were arranged by B. F. Stone and President Sanborn of the chamber. Shortly after their arrival they embarked on the river for a water view of the site and later a trip was made by automobile to the John Day river to give an outline from the land side.

Doublets the committee members were impressed with the general ground plan. Arguments and data offered by the chamber of commerce and business men was attentively received, the visitors adhering strictly to the business in hand.

It is a wonderful city with a thoroughly modern municipal pier and an adjacent territory which should fill the desire for a naval station in this district," was the comment of Senator H. Ball, chairman of the senate committee, this morning. To Congressman E. B. Stephens of Ohio, who confessed that this was his first trip to the Pacific coast, the district was "a marvelous revelation."

$64,000 IS NEEDED FOR VOCATIONAL TRAINING COURSES

Salem, Nov. 13.—A total of $64,000 will be needed for the administration of the vocational education act in Oregon during the forthcoming biennium, according to J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of public instruction, who returned Friday night from a meeting of the state board for vocational education in Portland, at which the tentative budget was approved.

The money, Churchill explains, is used for training teachers and for carrying on agricultural and industrial education in the schools of Eugene, Pendleton, Salem and The Dalles. Home economics courses are offered at Ashland, Cottage Grove, Forest Grove and Salem. Agriculture courses are provided at Alesia, Cottage Grove, Dufur, Enterprise, Forest Grove, Gresham, Lebanon, McMinnville, Medford, Milton, Newberg, Ontario, Rainier, Redmond, Union and Woodburn.

Dr. F. A. Lieullen Is Decorated for Bravery in Service

Pendleton, Nov. 13.—Dr. Fred A. Lieullen of this city, who was decorated officially on Armistice day here with the Distinguished Service cross for conspicuous service as a captain in the medical corps under fire, received congratulations by wire from the Fourth army engineers, with whom he served in France for nearly one year. He has previously been made a present of a handsome gold watch by the rank and file of the regiment.

Citation read at the presentation was: "For extraordinary heroism in action near Serre, France, July 28 to 31, and August 1, 1918, when he was in command of a company of engineers. He was in charge of a dressing station for two days under unusually heavy enemy fire. Our front line was for a time bent back by the enemy, thus exposing his position to capture by the enemy. He refused to leave his dressing station and continued to attend to the needs of 100 wounded men until the ground was taken by our troops. This officer performed gallant services also at St. Thibout, France, August 6 to 12, 1918, while maintaining a dressing station with the advanced elements, under heavy enemy fire."

Unemployed Men Of Better Class Are 'Hitting Road'

Salem, Nov. 13.—Not since the pre-war days have there been so many unemployed men "hitting the road" through Salem as at the present time, according to Chief of Police Welch. Fifty-five men beating their way southward on a Southern Pacific train Wednesday night were pulled off the train by the police.

A large majority of the men who seek free lodging at the city jail here are not of the common hobo type, Chief Welch said, but are of the better class of workmen, out of a job for the first time in several years. Many have been shipped to jobs by employment agencies only to be turned down when they reached their destination with the explanation that cheaper labor is wanted.

Products Company Factory Is Slightly Damaged by Blaze

Fire originating supposedly from an overheated stove near a vinegar vat, spread rapidly through the plant of the Hood River Valley Products company, Fourteenth and Quimby streets, John C. Kyle, a workman, discovered the blaze at 11:30 p. m. He turned in an alarm and many empty bottles were captured in the Hillsboro jail. The arrests were made by Sheriff George Alexander of Washington county and revenue officers.

Heavy Rains Delay Trains at Glendale

Roseburg, Nov. 12.—The heavy rains of Thursday caused a washout of a large section of track near Glendale, and all trains were delayed about six hours. The traffic was heavy that night, and No. 54 was run in three sections, all having to lay over at Glendale until the track was repaired. All trains were reported nearly on schedule this Friday.

MEDAL AWARDED SALEM HERO E. G. GATES, chief boatswain's mate, being presented with naval cross by Admiral R. E. Coontz, chief of naval operations, U. S. N., at Multnomah hotel this morning.

E. G. GATES IS GIVEN CROSS FOR HEROISM

Heroism of E. G. Gates, chief boatswain's mate, U. S. N., during one of the wartime marine disasters, was rewarded this morning at an impressive ceremony in the lobby of the Multnomah hotel, when Admiral R. E. Coontz, chief of the bureau of naval operations, presented the young man with the navy cross awarded by President Wilson.

Accompanying the medal was a citation which Admiral Coontz read to Gates as he stood at attention with an escort of local naval officers. Gates is in charge of the Salem naval sub-recruiting station.

He came from his headquarters at the state capital in answer to a summons issued by Dr. G. S. Whitehead, lieutenant, U. S. N., who is in charge of the local station. He was totally ignorant of the mission to this city until his arrival. Admiral Coontz is in Portland with the special joint naval committee of congress which is investigating Pacific coast naval stations.

Gates was married to a Portland girl about a year ago and following the advice of the summons issued by Whitehead he accompanied her husband to Portland and witnessed the ceremony. The citation fully details the reason for honoring Gates with the navy cross. The citation reads as follows:

"For extraordinary heroism as a member of the crew of boats sent from the U. S. S. Stewart to the rescue of men from the Florence H., which vessel, loaded with explosives, was burned in the harbor of Quibron on the night of the seventeenth of April, 1918. Almost immediately after the outbreak of the fire the water in the vicinity of the Florence H. was covered with burning powder boxes, many of which exploded, scattering flames throughout the wreck. The crews of the Stewart's boats drove their boats into the burning mass without thought of danger to themselves and assisted by boats from the other ships present in the harbor succeeded in saving the lives of many men, but for the help so promptly and heroically extended, must have perished in the flaming wreckage."

Police Batter at Bootleg Ring of City's North End

A coup which police believe has broken the bootleg ring which has supported most of the North Portland vandals of moonshine was begun Thursday night and completed Friday, when four men were arrested and four stills and quantities of corn mash, moonshine and rainins were taken.

A 50-gallon still, two 12-gallon stills, 200 gallons of mash, 15 gallons of moonshine and many empty bottles were captured in a cave near Oreoc Thursday night, and a 20-gallon still, 300 gallons of mash and 10 gallons of moonshine were taken in the cabin of Mike Grubb, two miles south of Beaverton.

Milan Morovich and Joe Tomach of 63 North Third street, and John Pleas of the Princess hotel are held with Grubb in the Hillsboro jail. The arrests were made by Sheriff George Alexander of Washington county and revenue officers.

CONVICTED SAFE ROBBER TO ASK FOR NEW TRIAL

Vincenzo Mattio, convicted in the circuit court a short time ago of robbing the safe in the store of Joe Lemma at Linnton, and whose trial caused two factions in the Italian colony to take deep interest in the proceedings, will ask for a new trial.

Through his attorneys, Collier & Collier, a motion was filed today, and the statement is made that the points which will be relied on in argument for a new trial are the court admitted evidence over objections, pertaining to other crimes in no manner connected with the indictment, and evidence touching the financial ability of the defendant from which inferences were drawn that Mattio must have stolen money from Joe Lemma other than the money charged in the indictment, and civil matters were permitted to be introduced by which the jury was prejudiced.

NON-SUIT ORDER ENTERED IN BEN WEISS LITIGATION

After two days of testimony in the suit of Anna Weiss Tallman against Ben Weiss and Pearl Weiss, in which the plaintiff sought a recovery of $100,000 which she claimed the defendants were withholding from her. Circuit Judge Gaten has entered a non-suit order. Ben Weiss, former husband of the plaintiff, and Pearl Weiss, his wife, were made joint defendants, but the testimony of the plaintiff was directed solely against Ben Weiss.

The plaintiff created a sensation when she fainted while on the witness stand and plunged down two steps to the floor of the courtroom. She had previously sued for the setting aside of the divorce decree which Ben Weiss had secured while she was in Alaska, but this suit was withdrawn.

The Oregon Cafeterias' association met at the Chamber of Commerce Friday with Dr. George Parrish, city health officer, to consider charges that have been made by a certain Portland publication against the cafeterias of the city and its declaration that unless their foods were enclosed with glass by next Monday complaints would be filed against them. Dr. Parrish said his office is satisfied with the sanitary conditions of Portland cafeterias and that they are being conducted in accordance with the provisions of the city ordinances.

Mrs. Minna Trautmann filed notice Saturday of her appeal to the Oregon state supreme court from the decision of the Multnomah county circuit court September 4 in favor of the defendant in her suit against the supreme lodge of the Knights of Pythias. Suit was for the recovery of $1000 on a life insurance policy carried by her husband, John Trautmann. The defense of the lodge was that Trautmann had been engaged by the western businessmen and therefore was ineligible to carry life insurance in this order under its rules.

May Depart Leper Louis Poy, the Chinese leper who has been a problem for many months, may be deported to the leper colony of Molokai, one of the Hawaiian islands. Mayor Baker telegraphed Friday to Hugh S. Currier, secretary of the federal health service at Washington, D. C., urging that provision be made for the man's transfer to this colony. Louis Poy has been cared for at the county hospital, but the county officials have and therefore was ineligible to carry life insurance in this order under its rules.

Men, Here's Fine Chance to Wed Boston Misses!

From far away Boston and its traditions of culture and refinement comes a request by "two refined young ladies" to "correspond with two Western gentlemen, not exceeding 30 years of age."

Miss Poppy and Miss Roselund, who say their ages are between 20 and 25 years, sent an ad to the "editor" of a town paper, North Portland, which G. A. Fierston, president of the Portland Union Stock Yards company, in turn forwarded to The Journal, since there is no stock paper at North Portland.

"Full particulars sent upon inquiry," say the Misses Poppy and Roselund.

Jury Frees Harris In Federal Wool Theft Prosecution

Lou Harris was found guilty of receiving stolen government wool, in a sealed verdict returned to Federal Judge Wolverton this morning. The jury was given the case at 5 o'clock Friday night. Harris was charged by the government with willfully receiving wool that had been stolen by four men from the warehouse of Bernstein & Co. Harris did not deny handling the stolen wool, but pleaded that he had been an innocent victim of men, whom he believed to be his friends.

As all transactions were made by check nothing appeared to be secret. The four men who are serving sentence for stealing the wool are: Harry Schulz, Ralph Campbell, Abe Weinstein and Harry Nudelman.

WILSON WILL URGE REVISION OF TAX LAWS IN MESSAGE

(By United News) Washington, Nov. 13.—President Wilson's message to congress will be a brief document, couched in calm and deliberate terms, it is learned. It will be the last message of the president to a congress, unless some reason should arise for him again to address that body during the short session, which seems unlikely.

The president will make no effort to pillory congress, although he is known to believe it has been remiss in many things. He desires to refrain from anything that might be interpreted as bitterness in what will probably be his last important paper. Cabinet members have furnished the president with recommendations, much as they would if the Democrats were to have control of the law-making body, and as if the party were still to control the administrative establishment after March 4. These the president is considering and will present, with modifications and additions he deems necessary. The president will not make recommendations on matters which obviously would be a matter for Republican determination, because this is considered futile.

But he will urge revision of tax laws, it is understood, calling attention to their inequalities, and to the necessity for permanently establishing the floating debt. He will also ask for labor legislation and for laws to protect the consumer in the distribution of necessities.

Supplying Telephone Service

Occasionally subscribers move and ask us for a continuance of telephone service at their new location. They may be told that compliance with their desires is immediately impossible owing to "lack of telephone facilities" in a particular locality. "Why," one will say, "the poles and wires are on the street and the house is already wired."

We wish that the problem were as simple as it sounds. There may be poles and wires, but every wire may be in use in giving service to others. There may be a cable, but every circuit in it may be assigned to telephones already installed. There may be a telephone in the vacant house or apartment to which you move, but no spare wires and circuits from your location to the central office. There may even be sections of switchboard in the central office but not available for operation on account of the lack of necessary switchboard apparatus such as ringing keys, relays, etc.

The reason for the shortage of telephone equipment is simple. During the war period we were unable to maintain our reserve or stock plant as the same materials we use were required and taken for government purposes and for industries properly favored by the government. Since the war, with the unexpectedly prolonged problems of reconstruction, production, and delivery of materials needed to meet even current demands have been delayed. Every business concern is having similar experiences. The manufacturers of telephone equipment have been bending every effort to fill our orders, but they, in turn, are meeting the same difficulties in securing rubber, paper, silk, glass, porcelain, tin, thread, shellac, metal parts and other articles not generally associated in the public mind with telephone service.

At the same time with this abnormal situation with reference to materials there exists an unprecedented demand for telephone service and even under these circumstances our record is one of fulfillment of demand. In the first nine months of 1920 we made a total net gain of over 7300 telephones in the State of Oregon. A fact worthy of consideration in our operations is the large number of telephones handled in proportion to net increase. In those nine months we disconnected, connected and moved 41,140 instruments to secure the net gain above mentioned.

We desire to give service as much as a patron wishes to receive it. We desire to promptly comply with the suggestions of public authorities who have taken a proper interest in the situation. We are facing abnormal conditions, but we are trying to overcome our difficulties.
