

EIGHT HOUR DAY IS RETAINED; WAGE ISSUE POSTPONED

The board of governors of the Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen closed its semi-annual meeting at the Portland hotel Wednesday night without coming to a decision on the proposed decrease in wage scales for the mills and camps of the Northwest.

It was unanimously agreed that the eight hour work day would become a permanent rule in the industry, but the readjustment of wage scales was deferred to a meeting of the board called for January 10.

Members of the board of governors recognize that if the present slump in the lumber market continues, with the cost of production increasing, some adjustment of wages will be necessary to enable the industry to function," said F. L. Abbey, executive secretary of the legion.

The minimum wage provided by the Loyal Legion scale is $4.40 per day, but wages paid by the majority of operators have been above the figure. The East Oregon Lumber company of Enterprise, a concern affiliated with the Legion but without a local organization, recently cut wages to the minimum.

The bond of the company was declared forfeited and its membership in the legion was cancelled.

In other cases of alleged violations of rules governing wages and working hours the operators promised to remedy conditions.

PRICES FOR STOCK ARE DISAPPOINTING

Western Feed company of San Francisco.

Oregon won the community award of stock selected from the state this morning. The stock was selected as being representative of the best at the show from Oregon. The other states were grouped in the same way, Washington winning second place.

Bidding on high class Jersey stock at the auction sale Wednesday afternoon showed the same slump from last year, the 30 head going for $13,750, or an average of $458.33 an animal. The highest price paid was $1850 for a bull calf, Old Man's Darling Cuthbert Second, owned by Pickford Brothers, Marion, Or. The buyers were Fox Brothers, Silverton.

Second high money was taken by Gwendolfa Rosaire, 8-year-old cow, owned by L. P. Larden, Salem, the buyer being N. C. Sorrensen, analyst at Silverton, for $1525. Last year the same cow sold for $2050.

GUERNSEY SALE BEGINS

Following the general fat stock auction sale in the main arena this morning the Guernsey sale was called and will continue through the afternoon. The winning stock in the present show will be included in the sales stock.

Judging was completed in all classes of the large exposition except the Jersey and Guernsey classes Wednesday afternoon, according to schedule.

Northwest boys' and girls' livestock judging teams will receive their awards at the big arena tonight at 8 o'clock. The show is well attended. Manager O. M. Plummer will present the medals to all individuals winning them and H. H. Bushnell, editor of Oregon Farmer, will present the Farm Trio cup to the champion team from Marion county.

OREGON CHILDREN WIN

Washington state showed the best "community" string of Holstein cattle Wednesday, and captured a $300 prize. The state herd of Oregon placed second and that of California third, winning $180 and $120, respectively.

Oregon boys and girls captured every first prize but one Wednesday in the junior stock class, coming out with almost all of the $1000 offered in prize money. Those winning first prize on cows, bulls and heifers are Clarice McConnell of Clatsop, Black of Redport, Phyllis Lester of Klamath Falls and Dale West of Klamath Falls. Successful boy breeders of first prize swine are: Howard J. Grant of Silverton, Donald Grant of Fairview, Raymond Montgomery of Oregon City, Gilbert Wagner of Fairview, Cris Grasley of Portland, Melville Richey of Boring, George Dahlhammer of Rockwood, William Olson of Husum, Wash., and Charles Tallman of Gresham. Highest sheep honors were given to Grant McMillan of Gresham in three classes and to Dale Altman of Gresham in one class.

MOHAIR GROWERS MEET

Although the exhibit is not so large as in some other classes, competition for grand champion Ayshire bull and cow was quite keen Wednesday afternoon. Willowmore Peter Pat, owned by E. W. Van Tassel of Wenatchee, Wash., took the royal purple bull ribbon and the Belle of Wenatchee of the same herd captured the highest Ayshire cow prize.

A special meeting of the Oregon Mohair Growers' association was held Wednesday night at the hotel. It was discussed for further development of the industry in the Northwest. The members started a movement which is aimed to bring about a change in the exhibition at next season's exposition. Attention of the public is called to the goat fleece exhibit to be found in the goat pavilion.

One of the big daily features of the show each night is the livestock parade of champion cattle at 7:40 p. m. Cattle receiving blue and purple ribbons in the day's judging are paraded for the benefit of horse show patrons.

About 100 cadets of Hill Military academy made up a party that visited the show this afternoon. O. M. Plummer, manager of the big show, received the boys personally. Ella nephew, Cadet Peddicord of Spokane, assisted in conducting the other cadets on a tour of inspection. The cadets will be required to write essays specializing on what most impressed them. Professor J. W. Daniels accompanied the boys.

Wilson's Pet, owned by W. A. Goddin of Cornelius, this afternoon won the awards as senior champion cow in the Guernsey class and also grand champion, while the junior champion heifer award went to Marjorie of Chiconia, owned by A. L. Gile of Chinook, Wash.

MISUNDERSTANDING CITED
Incidentally from these same Republican sources that are not altogether friendly to Will Hays comes the report that the coolness which developed temporarily between Senator Harding and Ethiu Root was due entirely to a misunderstanding on the part of Mr. Root in sending in his pro-league cablegram from Europe advising the senator that the league wasn't dead and should be retained.

HARDING INVITES ROOT TO MARION
alleged action at the Republican national convention at Chicago.

HATS WANTED NOMINATION
They insist that, when the recess was taken in Saturday after the drift to Harding had been begun, Hays made an effort through his friend, William Boyce Thompson of New York, to have himself nominated.

Whatever foundation there may be for the story, the fact is that a feeling does exist and one encounters it in talking with various Republican leaders. It crops out in questions of policy and bears a relationship to the question of finance. For example, it is insisted by some Republicans close to Harding that the original scheme of placing a $1000 limit on contributions suggested by Mr. Hays was both impracticable and unwise. The Democrats had placed no such limitation on themselves and since the end of the campaign would surely find the party facing a deficit that would have to be made up by rich men.

This, the original Harding men insisted, would put Senator Harding in an awkward position. He would feel embarrassed if he appointed anyone who has contributed, for instance, as much as $25,000 or $50,000. Should any of the friends of such contributors approach him with a request that the aforesaid contributor be appointed, they said, "Warren Harding wouldn't feel comfortable in turning down the request, for he recognizes service to the party." The fact of the matter is Senator Harding doesn't want a few rich men to make up the deficit. He wants it made up somewhat as the campaign fund itself was collected. It is therefore understood to be his wish that all contributions of $500 or $1000 should be doubled, or at least a request made for duplicate sum from all who have all these two amounts.

FRANCE BLAMED BY ANTI-REDS

By Karl H. von Wiegand
Universal Service Staff Correspondent
Berlin, Nov. 18.—That Wrangel saved Poland, and having succeeded in that France began to show less interest in him and failed to give him necessary support, especially in providing artillery, is the charge made in Russian anti-bolshevik circles in the bitterness of their feelings over the disaster to General Wrangel's army in the Crimea.

One of General Wrangel's adjutants has been in Berlin for many weeks endeavoring to interest former German military circles and also to get financial support and supplies. His mission here did not meet with success. German military leaders seeing no chance of success for General Wrangel from the start.

"General Wrangel did not want to advance as he did, but the French government presented him with what amounted to an ultimatum to start the offensive at a time which was not to his advantage, but he did so at the price of his own destruction."

Wrangel was told by former friends in the czarist army that if he advanced against the Bolsheviks to retake the Crimea, all Russian people would consider him the enemy of Russia. The French ultimatum forced him to disregard the advice of his friends. One of them declared:

"Wrangel, to our amazement, started the offensive, forcing the Reds to withdraw many troops from the Polish front, but he did so at the price of his own destruction."

The French, it is asserted by Russian leaders here, have now switched their support to the Ukrainians in an endeavor to start a military offensive against the Bolsheviks from there.

rowing trouble. From this incident has come forth many an impression that former Secretary Root would not occupy a position of importance in the Harding regime. Even the last fortnight indicates a distinct effort on the part of mutual friends to put Mr. Root and Senator Harding in closer contact and to bring about a solution of the December 10 is expected to iron out all misunderstandings.

BIG TEST TO COME
Moreover it will be noted that Senator Harding himself invited Will Hays to go to the Executive mansion with him, and while the president-elect is cognizant of the factional feeling, he has shown every disposition to ignore it and keep harmony. The big test will come when the question arises of appointing Will Hays to the cabinet.

The news from Indianapolis that Senator Harry New may go into the cabinet is interpreted as meaning that some friends of Will Hays are urging New for the cabinet because they believe the chances of Hays are not so good as they have been.

The story seems to be that if New resigns from the senate the governor of Indiana would appoint Will Hays to the senate.

There are always a lot of after the campaign revivals like the one going on in Europe. Disinterested observers think Will Hays' services will ultimately be recognized by Mr. Harding either in the cabinet or some other important office.

Cecil declared that the league should not terminate its present session without taking definite action toward admitting the former enemy powers. Hon. NO APPLICATION MADE
The danger of the formation of a "rival league" was pointed out, and Puerrydon

MONARCHIST NEW GREEK PREMIER

London, Nov. 18.—(I. N. S.)—Georgios Rhalhis, a monarchist, has taken oath as premier of Greece, said a News Agency dispatch from Athens this afternoon.

Premier Rhalhis' first official act was to call upon Admiral Coudouriotis to resign as regent of Greece. Former Premier Venizelos has left Greece for Nice in a yacht escorted by a British warship.

Another dispatch from Athens said that soldiers and police joined in a Constantinian demonstration and acclaimed Constantine as king.

GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE WILL NOT RECOGNIZE KING
Paris, Nov. 18.—(U. P.)—Great Britain and France will not recognize a Greek government headed by King Constantine, the French foreign office announced today. The two countries, as guarantors of the Greek kingdom, are entitled to determine the character of the government, the announcement said.

understanding which reveals mutuality of interest, no difficulties can long abide. We cannot hope for war activities and excesses and pre-war costs, but we can give and take and find the rational reaction. Such a solution cannot come out of the greedy thoughts of the profiteer or the revolutionary agitation of those who would destroy. These are but surface disturbances. We choose the deep and ever-onward currents of normal America for the course of the republic.

"With 100 per cent production and minimized waste we may make the reconstruction and establish a sure footing. We must be more concerned with the substance in reward of activity than in its coin measurement. And our concern must be in a dependable prosperity which is righteously shared.

"In a land of opportunity, with standards of wages and living the best in the world, I want to go on in good conscience until we evolve the ideal relationship where men may labor with a soul in their tasks. There is no substitute for the reward of merit, there never can be, but in the scales of justice we must see that reward balances evenly with merit.

SEES NO SECTIONALISM
"We want good fortune a common possession in America. We want the cotton-grower of the South to have his becoming reward with the wool-grower and the wheat farmer of the North. We want Southern factories to be attuned to the music of the mills of the North. We want your ports to send their cargoes under the American flag, to bear the messages of peace and good will to all parts of the earth. There is no sectionalism in righteous American ambitions.

"I believe the American people have come to realize that we must face momentous problems—world problems, but more particularly our own problems—and must face them with resolute courage and practical wisdom and patriotic determination. There must be no reason for pause, no excuse for despair, no

"Surely we are going to be called on—nationally, collectively and individually—to renounce extravagance and learn anew the old lessons of thrift and providence.

"The big thing for all America to realize now and always, is the dignity of productive labor.
