

APPEALED CASES SPEEDED; ACCUSED LOSE IN HEARINGS

Presiding Judge Tazwell gave a new forward turn to the speed control in the long grist of appeals from the municipal court this morning, when he announced that the remainder of the 56 cases set for definite and certain dates a few days ago would be reset. They will be tried by Circuit Judge Harry H. Belt in consecutive order, one to follow the other as speedily as possible.

Judge Tazwell heard evidence in the appeal of Katie Holman, charged with vagrancy, who was sentenced by the municipal court to 30 days in the city jail. The lower court was sustained. Immediately after this judgment was announced, Judge Tazwell addressed himself to Deputy City Attorney Lionel C. Mackay, who represented the city in this instance, stating that he had tried to impress upon the city attorney's office the fact that the presiding judge was seriously trying to clear away the big grist of appeals from the municipal court, and that he wanted it definitely understood that if there are any other appeal cases awaiting that have not been called to his attention this must be done at once. He asked that the city attorney's office make an immediate investigation, and Mackay said this would be done.

The appeal of Harry Nakaya, Japanese, of 33 North Third street, from the fine of $100 and 20 days in jail for violation of the prohibition law, was heard before Circuit Judge McCourt, who raised the fine to $125 and ordered that he be committed to jail until the fine is paid.

"I think these appeals from the municipal court should be discouraged," said McCourt. "It appears to be the policy to make these appeals simply in hope of getting a mitigated sentence. This court is inclined to uphold the judgments of the municipal court unless it is clearly shown that they are wrong."

WIDOW OF MAN KILLED BY OFFICERS STARTS LAWSUIT
Lena K. Heddery, widow of Robert W. Heddery, who was killed in resisting arrest by police and federal officers on the night of September 10, filed two damage suits today against these officers. One is directed against William D. Morris and Earl M. Jackson, policemen, and the American Surety company, their bondsmen. She asks for a judgment of $2000. The other is against William R. J. E. Marshall, a colored jockey who has appeared in horse races all along the Pacific coast and who has repeatedly made the circuit of Oregon and Washington fairs, filed suit today against

O. J. Brown, a race horse owner, for $10,000. He charges malicious prosecution. Brown had Marshall arrested October 16 in Sherman county on the charge of larceny by bailment. He was brought to Portland, held five days in the county jail and in a hearing before District Judge Jones was discharged. The trouble arose over the disposal of a mare which Marshall had been driving.

W.M. HASKINS FREED ON ARSON CHARGE IN HEPPNER
William Haskin of Portland was acquitted by a jury in Circuit Judge Phelps' court at Heppner Tuesday of the charge of arson. He formerly conducted a general store at Boardman and it was charged that March 16 he set this store on fire. After his arrest on this charge he signed a confession but repudiated it, claiming he had been subjected to "third degree" methods until he signed the statement. The jury had the case under consideration six hours. Tom Garland of Portland assisted Sam Van Volkenberg of Heppner in defending Haskin.

TWO BROTHERS SENTENCED TO COUNTY JAIL FOR THEFT
The desire to equip their boat on the Sandy river with a gasoline engine led D. A. and H. Crawford, brothers, of Troutdale, to a sojourn of three months in the county jail. District Judge Belt sentenced the men this morning after they had pleaded guilty to larceny. Close to where the Crawfords kept their boat, E. G. Krum also kept a boat fully equipped with engine and accessories. The Crawfords transferred the engine to their own boat and then sank their craft, expecting to raise it at a more opportune time. Krum reported his loss and Deputy Sheriff Schirmer and Krum made a search, discovering parts of the equipment.

Today it is the most popular molasses in the world
