

COURT RULES SON MUST PAY MOTHER $300 FOR BOARD

A serious nick is to be made in the $550 bank account of Willie Rose, 30-year-old negro "boy" who is a character of the Kenton district. He must pay his mother, Mrs. Irene Rose, $300 for 10 months' board and lodging.

District Judge Bell so ruled today. He said, however, that he had no sympathy with the father and mother because of their treatment of their son, who has a man's body and the mind of a lad. He has been forced to leave home because of their "nagging," he said.

Willie Rose never saved a penny until after he was 28 years old. Then the Kenton banker got hold of the boy, imbued him with the idea of creating a bank account and arranged so that Willie could deposit dime and quarters any time. The result was the building up of the $550 account. Then his parents tried to get themselves appointed his guardians. Their applications were twice rejected by the circuit court, it being held that Willie had shown an ability to save money and take care of himself. He had left home and they then instituted suit for board and lodging for 10 months. Bell held that there was sufficient showing of a contract between Willie and his mother to justify judgment in her favor.

NO RELATIVES FOUND FOR JOHN DOYLE $760 ESTATE

Presiding Judge Tazewell gave permission Thursday to Levi Johnson, administrator of the estate of the late John Doyle, to pay the undertaking fee of $191.50 and telegraph tolls for writing various places in trying to find relatives. The man left $760 in a Portland bank, and so far no relatives have been discovered. It is probable the remainder of the money will escheat to the state.

Kanzler Gets New Code

Judge Jacob Kanzler of the court of domestic relations is the first official at the Multnomah county courthouse to receive copies of Olson's new Oregon code. It includes the statutes of the January session of the state legislature and supersedes Lord's Oregon laws, the standard for the courts for many years.

Leader Estate $12,500

The will of Augusta B. Leader, who died at Eugene, November 14, was filed for probate in Portland today. The will names Edwin O. and Elmer W. Leader, sons, to pay the undertaking fee, and consists of a farm near Corbett, valued at $10,000; four lots in Portland, valued at $500, and $500 worth of personal property.

Pleas Not Guilty

J. Singh, charged with undertaking to bribe Sergeant W. H. Bruning of the city police force with an offer of $20 to release him from arrest, pleaded not guilty before Judge Tazewell. He is at liberty on $500 bail.

CONDITION OF COP'S SLAYER GROWS WORSE

Tillman as well as Walters on murder charges.

TILLMAN WAS UNWILLING

"Some things seem to indicate that Tillman did not want to enter the carnival of crime in the first place, and that several times he tried to get out of doing the things Walters planned," Deich said. "Take the last robbery. Tillman told us here that when they held up Byron Riffe, Walters held the gun and went through all of the man's pockets except one. He told Tillman to search the last pocket. In that pocket Tillman found a wallet containing $35, although I don't believe he knew there was that much money in it. He said he slipped the wallet into Diffe's overcoat pocket. "Riffe came to the police station to identify the men. Tillman told the story in Riffe's presence. Riffe put his hand in the overcoat pocket and there was the wallet he thought was missing all the time."

MOTHER IN TEXAS

Walters told Deich he was born in Beaver City, Okla., 24 years ago. His mother lives in Denison, Texas, he said. He was first stationed at Fort Logan, Colo., and later transferred to Camp Lewis. He told the district attorney that he had been married some time ago, but was divorced. About two months ago he came to Portland, and was taken back to Camp Lewis after overstaying his leave.

The reason for the holdups, to which he confessed, he told Deich, was to get money to get back to Camp Lewis. Tillman admitted to Deich that he knew that Walters and another had hired up a man in Seattle some time ago, but he said he did not think that was the reason for Walters coming to Portland. Walters is said to have claimed that he bought moonshine in Olympia in an apparent effort to establish the fact that he was drunk when he committed the crimes charged against him, but Tillman denied this. Tillman said they had several drinks of cider after they came to Portland, but no whiskey.

A coroner's jury Thursday night found that Palmer had come to his death at the hands of Walters. The physician, who performed the autopsy, testified that the bullet which killed the policeman entered his breast just over his heart, the bullet severing the trachea, passing through both lungs and out of the body under his right shoulder. Death was instantaneous, he said.

PALMER DIDN'T FIRE

The testimony of both Patrolman Thorpe and Tillman, Walters' companion, who were present at the time of Palmer's death, was that Walters fired the fatal shot from in front of Palmer, and that he fired before

STOOL PIGEON PAID IN LIQUOR TAKEN BY POLICE RAIDS

Patrolmen George W. Russell and Frank W. Huntington divided liquor taken on raids with Jim Marshall, who acted as a stool pigeon in their prohibition enforcement work and Russell admitted that fact to him, according to the testimony of Assistant United States Attorney A. F. Fligel Jr., at the morning hearing on the removal of the policemen before Mayor Baker today.

"Marshall told me and others that he had an arrangement with these officers whereby he was permitted to take part of the liquor obtained on raids and sell it as compensation for his services. He did not believe him, neither did the other officers believe him, at the time, but later Russell admitted to me that the statement of Marshall was true," Fligel testified.

TILLMAN GIVES DETAILS

Tillman said he left Camp Lewis with Walters Friday afternoon and went to Olympia. From there they went to Centralia, Wash., where they remained two days, arriving here at 3 p. m. Wednesday.

When they reached Portland both men were armed with army automatics. Walters' gun was sold at the Pacific Loan agency, Third and Ash streets, according to Tillman's statement, and the remaining weapon was afterward carried by Walters.

Tillman is 17 years old. His mother and other relatives live at Sand Point, Idaho. Plans for the funeral of Patrolman Palmer were taken up this morning by Police Captain Moore at the request of Chief Jenkins. It is planned to hold services at the city council chamber, if that is available, at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The body will lie in state Sunday and Monday with a police guard of honor from the first night relief. Burial will be in Rose City Park cemetery. Patrolman F. C. Short, bugler of the police department, sounding taps. The police quartet and the Red Cross band are expected to furnish the funeral music and active pallbearers will be brother officers.

NEW ATTRACTIONS FOR HORSE SHOW

Officials of the Pacific International Livestock show are making every effort to make the Saturday matinee horse show worth while for those who have the afternoon off and want real entertainment. Special attractions have been added to the horse show matinee program for the children. The program begins at 2 o'clock and lasts until 4:30. All riders are to be under 16 years of age. The events are:

Seat Sale for Big Holiday Opera Open Saturday Morning

An aggregation of talent said to surpass anything ever assembled in Portland for a similar event is that which will present at The Auditorium on Tuesday and Wednesday evening, "The Mandarin," Reginald De Koven's delightfully entertaining opera. The vocal and dramatic talent is augmented by a wealth of wardrobe and scenery that is said to outdo anything yet attempted in a local way and a number of specialty lighting effects are as unusual as they are beautiful. The role of Jesso, Fan Tan's wife, is sung by Mrs. Fred J. Olson in a manner that, rehearsals indicate, ranks her with anyone who has essayed the part. Mrs. Olson is one of a notable group of singers who are volunteering their time and talent for the benefit of the municipal Christmas tree fund of the Portland lodge, B. P. O. Elks, under whose auspices the seat sale for the performance opens Saturday morning at the Sherman & Clay store.

Wage Cut Accepted By Timber Workers

Salem, Nov. 19.—The announced reduction of 60 cents a day in wages paid to common labor at the plant of the Spaulding Logging company here, with proportionate decreases to other classes of labor, is acceptable to the employees, according to Henry M. Peterson, head of the local Timber Workers' union. Peterson states that the union voted to accept the cut in the wage scale after it was pointed out that closing down of the plant was the only other alternative. The new scale will become effective Saturday.

WESTON ADMITTED MURDER OF KRUG, SAYS JOE WILSON

Bend, Or., Nov. 19.—Mrs. A. J. Weston, wife of the defendant in the sensational Krug murder case on trial in circuit court here, entered court for the first time this morning. She has been suffering from a nervous breakdown since the trial started. Pale and apparently still far from well, she walked directly to her husband, kissed him, then quietly took her place by his side.

WOMAN INJURED IN CYCLE-AUTO SMASH

One woman was injured and four other persons narrowly escaped serious harm when the car in which they were riding completely overturned as a result of a collision with a motorcycle at Third and Salmon streets late Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Eva J. Thomas, 683 East Fifty-ninth street, sustained a fractured arm and serious injuries to her head. She was treated at the emergency hospital, and later taken to St. Vincents hospital. Her condition is reported not to be critical.

PRACTICE IS SCORED

"I told Russell that such practice was not legitimate, could not be tolerated by federal officials and should not be tolerated by city officers. He replied that he had taken the matter up with his sergeant and that official had agreed the end warranted the means."

Fligel stated that while the actions of Russell and Huntington could not be justified from any standpoint, he believes less considered those two men as efficient, trustworthy and reliable as any member of Portland's police department. "They have done wrong, but I believe they have learned their lesson and will not permit their zeal in the enforcement of the law to tempt them to do such a thing again," he said. "They are very valuable to both city and federal courts in the prosecution of federal prohibition law violators."

PROTECTION IS DENIED

While Russell admitted dividing the liquor with Marshall, who wanted it to sell again, he insisted that both Russell and Huntington denied Marshall any protection "in the event he was caught selling the liquor."

The morning session was conducted primarily by the attorney representing the deposed policemen, in proving the excellent general conduct of Huntington and Russell. Jesse E. Flanders, federal prohibition enforcement officer for Oregon; Special Agent W. R. Bryon of the United States department of justice, Acting Lieutenant of Police H. A. Thatcher, Sergeant W. C. Epps, J. H. Killis, inspector for the United States shipping board, and other federal and city officers were unanimous in declaring both men efficient and expressed the highest regard for their integrity.

The mayor questioned each witness closely with regard to the practice of police in "dividing the spoils with stool pigeons" to enlist their aid, each in turn emphatically stating that nothing justified such practices.

STREET REPAIR MACHINES WILL BE GIVEN INSPECTION

Superintendent R. S. Dulln of the municipal paving plant will depart next Monday for San Francisco to inspect operations of the portable pavement repair machines similar to one contracted for by the city council to be used on Portland's streets.

The department of public works estimates a saving of $11,000 on the repairs of 40,000 square feet of paving so far outlined for next year by the new paving machine. Reports from New York city and San Francisco are that resurfacing and repairing have cost but 67 1/2 cents a square yard during the three years they have operated.

Commissioner Barbur said the streets in Irvington, Laurelhurst and Eastmoreland districts, laid about 10 years ago, are now badly cracked on the surface, though the foundation is still intact. The new machine acts as a welder, filling in cracks and creating a new surface.

G. O. P. Chairman Files New Expense Account at Salem

Salem, Or., Nov. 19.—In addition to more than $12,000 already accounted for as expended in behalf of the Republican ticket in Oregon in the recent campaign John L. Day, chairman of the Multnomah County Republican Central committee, has filed a statement with the secretary of state's office showing expenditures of $44,291 in behalf of the Republican ticket.

the secretary of state's office show campaign expenditures as follows: Earl V. Lively, treasurer Republican congressional committee, Third Oregon district, in behalf of C. N. McArthur, representative in congress, $1203.45. Josephine Fritz, secretary-treasurer, Public School Protective league, in behalf of anti-compulsory vaccination measure, $3504.10. Beryl A. Green, secretary-treasurer Oregon Popular Government league, in behalf of Esther Pohl Lovejoy, Democratic representative in congress, Third district, $2173.59. Russell Hawking, Tillamook, in behalf of Robert A. Stanfield, for United States senator, $1959.44.

Near East Relief to Be Launched in B. C. By J. J. Handsaker

J. J. Handsaker, state director of Near East relief, leaves tonight for Victoria, and Vancouver, B. C., where he will organize the Near East Relief work in the province of British Columbia. Handsaker is a member of the national committee for Near East Relief, recognizing the Oregon organization as one of the most complete and efficient of all the states.

Dr. L. L. Wirt of the national speakers bureau of Near East Relief will address the members of the Civic League at their luncheon at the Benson Hotel tomorrow. Dr. Wirt visited the Near East immediately after the signing of the Armistice.

Linville Still Unconscious. V. N. Linville, 28, 42 1/2 Sixth street, who fell from a scaffold at the North Bridge & Iron Works Thursday afternoon, was reported still unconscious this afternoon at the Good Samaritan hospital. Authorities report that he may have a fractured skull.

Ice Cream Makers To Elect Officers; Will Hold Banquet

Election of officers and a jinks by the "Cheese Cake Outing club" were scheduled features of the afternoon session of the ice cream manufacturers' convention at The Auditorium. The closing banquet at the Multnomah hotel tonight is anticipated as the most elaborate in the history of the association.

The morning session was devoted mostly to discussions of technical topics of interest to the trade. B. N. Dormann of California told of the use of sugar. H. C. Stokes of Seattle urged cooperation even among competitors. Robert Dryden of Oakland discussed the "overrun" problem, and H. J. Youngs of Twin Falls conducted a round table on selling accomplishments.

Nearly 4000 visitors inspected the exhibit Thursday night and completely "cleaned out" the ice cream and candy refreshments. The final feature of the convention Saturday will be a trip over the Columbia river highway for the visitors. The exhibit will be open in the morning.

These officers were elected at noon today: E. Dunn of Portland, president, second term; G. W. Weatherly of Portland, first vice president, fifth term; D. N. Dormann of Los Angeles, second vice president, first term; A. F. Bird of Seattle, third vice president and treasurer, fifth term; Bert H. Walker of Tacoma, secretary, fifth term; J. Kugler of San Francisco, field secretary. These directors were re-elected: F. N. Martin of Spokane, G. W. Weatherly, Jack Simonson of Yakima, Wash.; A. F. Bird, Bert H. Walker, G. S. Humphrey of Sand Point, Idaho, and J. E. Brown of Payette, Idaho; D. N. Dormann, Vic Fentell of Billings, Mont.; Harry C. Stokes of Seattle and E. J. Cashin of Portland.

George Dixon has turned over a new leaf. This morning, by way of variety, he appeared in the municipal court on a vagrancy charge instead of the usual complaint of "drunk."

"I see you are with us again, George," began Judge Rossman by way of salutation. "Yes, your honor," the prisoner admitted with quaint good humor. "What do you think I ought to do with you this time?"

"About 10 days, I suppose," came the indifferent reply. "Think that will be sufficient? What about 20 days?"

"Just as you like, your honor. It's all the same to me."

But the court was thoroughly exasperated by the utter indifference of the old offender. George is with the city for the next 30 days.
