Conference of Educators to Be Held Dec. 4

By Vella Winner

MUCH interest centers in the forthcoming regional conference of educators and public officials interested in school matters, which is announced for Portland for December 4 by Commissioner of Education P. P. Claxton. In writing Mrs. C. W. Hayhurst, president of the Oregon Parent-Teacher association, Commissioner Claxton says: "The conference will be for the purpose of discussing the educational situation at this time, legislation to be presented to the legislatures of the several states next year, source of income for the support of schools, the means of continuing to faster such interest among the people at large and their representatives in legislative bodies as may be necessary to bring about the needed legislation."

Public officials, educators, legislators, members of governing boards of civic and labor organizations, publicists and professional and business men from Oregon and Washington are invited to attend the conference, which will be at the Multnomah hotel and last throughout the day and evening of December 4.

NATIONAL GUARD

Guard's Purpose To Be Explained At Big Dinner

By A. D. Cridge

THE dinner to be given the business men, labor chiefs and public officials at the Chamber of Commerce by the officers of the Fifth Oregon, November 30, is for the purpose of bringing all classes into a better understanding of the aim, object, plan and reason for the national guard. Lieutenant General Hunter Liggett is to be the guest of honor. Many of the leading men of Oregon have signified their intention to be present. The talks will all be brief and of moment to the welfare of the community and the nation.

• • •

Company A, engineers, National Guard of Oregon, is the only recognized unit of the engineers in the National Guard of the United States. Its commander, Captain George E. Sandy, has arranged with the Oregon Agricultural college for a series of lectures on engineering and military topics. These lectures will be given at the Armory in Portland, and regular college credits and drill credits will be given for attendance. Ex-service men may attend them without enlisting in the company. The second of the series was given Friday night, and the next will be on December 10 by Professor G. V. Skelton, the subject being "Military Roads." Company A has cleared the roster of all "dead wood" and now has 75 of the most capable and ambitious young men in the state, with room for a few more.

• • •

All officers of the National Guard of Oregon will be required to appear before a board of officers before being promoted to any higher rank. The board designated by George A. White, adjutant general, is Major Eugene Moshberger, Captain Eugene Libby, Captain James F. Alexander, Captain Howard Carruth. The board will meet Tuesday, November 23, for its first session. All officers of the national guard must also appear before a United States board within a year after appointment.

• • •

An examination for admission to West Point of two enlisted men from the National Guard of Oregon will be conducted at Salem, December 7. There will be two named by Governor Olcott. The examining board will be Colonel C. E. Dentler, U. S. A.; Major James S. Dusenbury, U. S. A.; Captain H. Carruth, medical corps, National Guard of Oregon; J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of public instruction.

• • •

The Pure Food show has interfered with the work of the guardsmen at the Armory, but arrangements are being made to sweep out the stalls and restore the floor to a basketball and indoor baseball basis as quickly as possible. Permission has been asked of the county commissioners to have the big rostrum and platform removed that now fills up the east end.

• • •

Lieutenant F. J. Courtney of Company G has resigned because of personal business changes, and his departure by the "boys" is regretted.

• • •

Lieutenant Fred R. Dierking has returned to Company F, where he served in the ranks in 1914. He went to the front in 1917 as a sergeant, and at Camp Mills was promoted to battalion sergeant major. At Base Section 4, near Havre, France, Dierking was made regimental seregant major, the highest non-commissioned officer of the 162d United States Infantry. He was promoted to a lieutenancy and saw service with the army of occupation in Germany until recently as one of the officers of the Thirtieth United States infantry. Lieutenant Dierking reenlisted in Company F as a private, and it is at some disadvantage to himself that he cooperates with Captain Eugene Libby to help out the work.

• • •

Company L at Dallas has secured the services of Raymond Scott to be first lieutenant and of Joseph N. Helgerson to be second lieutenant. Much interest is manifest in the drills and affairs of this company.

• • •

A medical corps for the Fifth Oregon is about organized with Doctors and Majors William G. Scott and George F. Moehler and Captain W. E. Hempstead.

• • •

The general staff of the national guard has recently received two additions by the naming by Adjutant General White of Captain Fred M. West and Captain William M. Briggs.

• • •

Company K of Independence has been placed under command of Captain Louis Seggell, an officer of experience and ability. The company is one of the best in the Fifth regiment.

• • •

Oswald N. Day, formerly with the aviation corps, U. S. A., has been appointed first lieutenant of Company B.

Reed College Notes

Monday at Reed was marked by the return of delegates to two intercollegiate conferences. Grace Linklater, Julia Harrison and Dean B. K. Young, Reed delegates at the women's conference at Pullman, Wash., arrived in Portland, enthusiastic with the three days spent with delegates of 13 other western colleges, and James Hamilton, William Stone and Tom Brockway, representatives of the Reed college Quest, returned from Eugene. The Reed journalists represented the Quest at the first conference of the Pacific Intercollegiate Press association.

Friday's event will be long lived in Reed annals, the housewarming of the Anna Mann cottage, recently completed social center for Reed women. At 5 o'clock the new building was opened, and for six hours there was a happy crowd witnessing stunts, dancing and partaking of refreshments which were served from booths throughout the evening. The aim of the evening, the raising of furniture money, was successfully attained, according to Dean Young, and it is hoped that the cottage will be completely furnished by January, when is planned a formal reception for city friends of the college.

A student body meeting was held Wednesday to discuss the Pullman conference, to practice Reed songs and to consider the transportation problem for Saturday's game. According to James Hamilton, the trip could be made more easily by auto than train, and he found a large number of students desirous of the trip.

Football practice began in earnest after last week's defeat by Albany college, and several changes in the lineup were noted. The team left Saturday for Forest Grove, where was played the final intercollegiate contest with Pacific university. A large crowd of rooters accompanied the team in automobiles.

Handball finals were played during the week, and Clifford Zollinger, a Reed senior, won the singles championship. He defeated C. H. Gray of the Reed faculty in a great match. The doubles tournament will be held shortly, according to George W. Clark, physical director. An indoor baseball league has been formed to play off a tourney preceding basketball.

Concerning a Beautiful Complexion (and an Unusual Powder)

Culture, personality, dress, all contribute to that undefinable thing called beauty—but of all factors, the subtle charm of a beautiful complexion is easily first.

Have a complexion that invites the most critical gaze—a skin radiantly beautiful in sunlight or under the glare of bright, artificial light. Win the admiration that only a complexion which bespeaks the bloom of youth can gain, by using

CARMEN COMPLEXION POWDER

Its final touch imparts to the most lovely natural complexion an added subtle charm and gives even rough skins a velvety smoothness that challenges close inspection.
