Gretna Green Honors Go to Portland on Thanksgiving

Is Dan Cupid transferring his affections from his acting deputies at Vancouver, Wash., the "Gretna Green" of the Pacific Northwest, to his marriage license issuers at Portland? The report of the pre-Thanksgiving applications for the right to wed would so indicate.

Vancouver, which always expects a big spurt of marriage license activities at holiday seasons, and particularly at Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's, experienced a noticeable falling off in Wednesday, when only 13 licenses were issued.

SEVEN IN N. Y. ATTACKS BRITISH FLAG THANKSGIVING

Emblem Flying From Union Club Is Object of Sympathizers Returning From Memorial; Stones Break Windows; Police in Fight

New York, Nov. 25.—(U. P.)—Sinn Fein sympathizers, leaving St. Patrick's Cathedral, where a memorial service was held this afternoon, attacked the Union club, on the other side of Fifth avenue, where a British flag was flying with the American and French emblems. Several windows of the club were shattered by stones. A number of persons were injured in a battle with police reserves.

The usual Thanksgiving crowds were strolling along Fifth avenue when a shout arose from a group which had just left the cathedral. Members of this group began gesticulating and pointing toward the Union club, from which a British flag was flying. Suddenly a stone sailed through the air and crashed through a big plate glass window on the ground floor. The group shouted its approval and more stones began to fly.

POLICEMEN HALT MOB

Other Sinn Fein sympathizers, coming from the cathedral, joined those in the street until there were more than a hundred. As they began to surge across the street toward the club building, however, a squad of policemen dashed in front of them and turned them back. The mob, however, was not deterred and until more than 2000 were packed in the avenue, completely blocking traffic. The police were reinforced and drew a cordon in front of the club. A group of Sinn Fein sympathizers started a flag movement around the corner of the cathedral. Policemen headed them off and soon a battle raged under way, involving about a hundred civilians and many policemen. Fire was fired at the club and fell. Several civilians were knocked unconscious and were carried away by their friends.

PORTLAND IS CELEBRATING THANKSGIVING

Needy Families Supplied With Turkey and Trimmings; Many Church People Join in Services; Newsies Given Feast.

King Joy reigns supreme in Portland today. As probably never before in her history Portland is truly celebrating Thanksgiving day. Suffering and poverty have almost been reduced to an absolute minimum.

Charitable organizations have not made their usual appeal for aid. Here and there a struggling widow with a large family has been found, and her Thanksgiving needs supplied, but these cases are not so prevalent as in former years.

CHURCH PEOPLE GIVE PRAISE

Not a few journeyed to the union temple for services this morning in all parts of the city and devoutly rendered thanks to God for the blessings of the past 12 months. About 50 young people gathered at the First Presbyterian church at 7 o'clock for a sunrise prayer service. Roland C. Davis, county president, presided. Baptist young people from all parts of the city met at the Third Baptist church at the same hour and gave testimonials of thanks for Providential care during the year.

'Chiggers' Have No Terror for President-Elect

By David M. Church. Baiboa, C. Z., Nov. 25.—(I. N. S.)—A game of golf was the chief feature of President-elect Harding's Thanksgiving day program. Canal zone officials warned him that the prevalence of "chiggers" on the links might make golf an uncomfortable diversion, but Mr. Harding decided to take the risk.

DAMP FIELD MAY HALT HIGH SCORE

Portland's turkey day gridiron contest on Multnomah field between the Oregon Aggies and the "Winged M" team promises to be a hard-fought contest. Referee Varnell will start the battle promptly at 2 o'clock. Manager Harry Dorman of the club men has been drilling his players on the Aggie offensive, which ripped the Oregon team to pieces during the final two periods of the state classic last Saturday at Corvallis, and he hopes to stop the Aggies from hitting up a big score. The fact that the contest will be played on a wet field reduces the chances of the Aggies running up a great number of points, because of possible fumbles. The saw-dust field will not be a handicap to the Aggies.

Little Mother Too Late Joy Too Much for Sarah

By James E. Kilgallen. United News Staff Correspondent. Chicago, Nov. 24.—It is little mother's Thanksgiving eve. She sits huddled in a chair in her home, everything in it had been fitted up just for her, staring straight ahead, agony written in her eyes. All around her, kind Jewish friends whispered sympathetically. Abe and Simon, two of the noisiest boys in the neighborhood, are extraordinarily quiet. Bewhiskered men in black skull caps walk nervously to and fro, hands clutched behind their backs. Women weep as "little mother" moans and utters something in her native tongue. A reporter for a Jewish paper begins taking notes.

LEAGUE ASKS U. S. TO ACT ON ARMENIA

No Mandatory Obligations Are Exacted if America Accepts Invitation; Senator McCormick's Visit Has Interest for League.

Geneva, Nov. 25.—(U. P.)—The United States was invited by the council of the League of Nations today to negotiate between Armenia and Mustapha Kemal, leader of the Turkish nationalists, which are invading that country. It was stated that if accepted no mandatory obligation would be incurred by the United States.

By Henry Wood. Geneva, Nov. 25.—(U. P.)—Reports that Senator McDuff McCormick is coming to Europe as an emissary of President-elect Harding to make plans for organization of a new "association of nations" caused the deepest interest at the meeting of the League of Nations assembly here today.

Although there was no official discussion of the reports, the wish was expressed by many delegates that McCormick might arrive here in time to be present at sessions of the assembly. Meanwhile, the United States continued to exert great influence over the deliberations and decisions of the assembly. The United States was taken into consideration in making every decision.

During the discussion of steps to aid Armenia, Arthur J. Balfour, British delegate, sought to secure a postponement of the assembly of the League of Nations eventually would interfere with material and financial aid in behalf of Armenia. Rene Viviani, French representative, sought to defer action on Armenia in the council for the same reason.

The question of disarmament was passed over, virtually without action, because Japan, Great Britain and France privately refused to consider reductions in their armies and navies unless the United States also reduced its armament.

HARDING'S FRIENDS BELIEVE LEAGUE AWAITS HIS POLICY. By David Lawrence. (Copyright, 1920, by The Journal) Washington, Nov. 24.—The tendency of the assembly of the League of Nations now meeting in Geneva to postpone consideration of amendments to the covenant until after President Harding shall have been inaugurated was noted by Washington friends of Senator Harding as confirmation of their often repeated statements that the nations would always be ready to form a new association with the United States as an associate in the enterprise.

Senator Harding's friends insist that during the campaign he was frequently misrepresented by local opponents by the subject of the League of Nations. When he spoke of a new association, the senator meant to be understood as conveying the idea that he did not care whether the present machinery were revised and modified or a new institution created so long as the objectionable features were removed and territorial integrity and implications of

The word acted like magic. Farmers with every conceivable sort of confectionery, jam, molasses, mugs, wash pitcher and other things, gathered. Work of salvage was rapid. The car was left to the birds. A good time was had by all.

The president's family spent a quiet day, with dinner in the evening.
