

CONGRESS ASKED FOR EARLY RELIEF FROM PROBLEMS

Emergency Legislation May Be Necessary to Solve Existing Financial and Business Worry.

By J. Bart Campbell
Washington, Nov. 27.—(I. N. S.)—Increasing demands for early relief from existing financial, business and agricultural conditions are piling up the desks of the Republican leaders of congress, they stated today.

Despite repeated declarations that the approaching winter session will be devoted almost exclusively to appropriation measures it was admitted congress may be forced to pass emergency legislation to meet the acute domestic problems pressing for immediate solution.

The situation is one that is giving the Republican leaders grave concern, they said, but until the return of President-elect Harding from Panama they will continue to "mark time." They want to consult him before mapping out a complete program for the coming session, it was explained.

HARDING TO CONFER
It is expected Mr. Harding will confer with them here on or about the day congress reconvenes, December 8. He is due to arrive at Newport News, Va., December 4. It is said a private dinner given in his honor at Washington some night soon thereafter may be the occasion for "marking time" between the president-elect and others high in the councils of the Republican party.

Before his departure on his present journey Mr. Harding invited several influential Republican senators to meet him at dinner after his return. He suggested Washington as the best place for the dinner, and he is expected to spend at least a day and a night here before returning to Marion.

IMMEDIATE ACTION DESIRED
By the time Mr. Harding is due here, and congress is ready to get down to business, Washington will be filling with representatives of those financial, business and agricultural interests which are seeking immediate action on tax and other legislation. These interests do not desire to wait until the new congress is called in extra session after Mr. Harding's inauguration. They want congress to act at once to afford the relief they declare they require from the slump in the country's markets and the importation of Canadian, Australian and Argentine wool and other foreign products being dumped on this country.

MAY ASK WILSON
Still others who have President Wilson invoke his war powers and employ some agency like the war trade board to place an embargo on those imports with which American producers say they are unable to compete. They also favor a revival of the war finance corporation as another means of meeting the existing situation.

President Wilson's message to congress is being given more and more interest. Developments of far reaching import before the Christmas holidays are anticipated by those who have been observing the trend of domestic affairs throughout the country.

Portland-Roseburg Highway Is Good Despite Heavy Rain

Roseburg, Nov. 27.—Despite the heavy rains there is no difficulty in driving from Portland to Roseburg at this time of the year, according to Carl D. Shoemaker, state game warden. Shoemaker and his wife and son motored to Roseburg to spend Thanksgiving with Shoemaker's parents.

"I did not put on the chains on the entire trip," he said. "I met several California tourists, all of the opinion that the roads were good, and that the heavy rains, Shoemaker left for Portland late Friday.

From Roseburg south to Myrtle creek the road is fine, but over the old road to Canyonville runs make going rough. The new road is open via Riddle. Through the canyon, with the exception of two short stretches, the trip can all be made in high. Road crews are keeping close watch of the highway.

Thanksgiving Week Well Celebrated in Boardman District

Boardman, Or., Nov. 27.—Thanksgiving week proved one of festivity in the Boardman community. Wednesday night the junior and senior high school pupils enjoyed a party in the school house. Thursday the community Thanksgiving celebration was held, one of the most successful gatherings in the district. The project, with religious services in the school auditorium, led by the Rev. J. W. Hood, dinner in the school cafeteria, and a program. A. W. Cobb was toastmaster. Games, races, basket ball and other sports were staged. In the evening a masquerade was given. Next week the Bible class of the Sunday school will entertain the rest of the school.
