

AGNES SLACK, FOE OF RUM, MAKES ADDRESS TONIGHT

Miss Agnes Slack of London, honorary president of the World's Christian Temperance union, is being entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Collins in Westover road. This evening Miss Slack will speak at the First M. E. church under the auspices of the Oregon W. C. T. U. on "The World Situation in Regard to Prohibition."

Miss Slack came to this country at the expense of the United States government to attend the recent international congress against alcoholism, held in Washington, D. C., where she spoke on "The Position of the Women of Europe Toward Alcoholism."

"The big thing coming out of the convention was the conviction expressed by the men coming from the various countries that the scientific opinion of their countries is against alcoholism," said Miss Slack.

Seattle Asks Why Portland Defeated Zoning Ordinance

To profit by Portland's experience, City Engineer A. H. Dimock of Seattle has written City Engineer Laurgaard requesting a detailed report of why the zoning ordinance failed in the recent city election here.

Seattle has commissioned its city engineer to prepare a zoning ordinance similar to Portland's ordinance and officials of the Washington city, which has no planning commission, are anxious to complete the preparation and passage of its new law.

MacGregor Ross, 70, Who Is Man Without Country, Released

Electric Company Is Denied Rate Rise

Salem, Or., Dec. 2.—The application of the Cottage Grove Electric company for an increase in rates is denied in an order issued by the public-service commission on the ground that the record of the company is not sufficiently clear to enable the commission to afford a basis for an intelligent calculation of the company's needs.

Homestead Rights Attacked on Issue Of Man's Loyalty

Yakima, Wash., Dec. 2.—The question of loyalty to the government in time of war has been raised in a contest against the homestead entry of Gaudelus M. J. Terus of Outlook, who is offering final proof on 45.33 acres worth, it is estimated, about $25,000.

John E. Healyon, who is making the contest, alleges that Terus made disloyal statements concerning the United States during the war, that he demanded exemption from military service because he was still an alien and a citizen of Holland; that he cannot be admitted to citizenship and is not a suitable person to become a citizen of the United States.

Terus answers this with a general denial, saying that he has complied with all the requirements of the homestead law and has made improvements on the land worth $10,000. He alleges his naturalization is held up on a technicality.

Indians Hire Two Attorneys to Seek Klamath Extension

Klamath Falls, Or., Dec. 2.—That the Indians of the Klamath reservation, in their attempt by litigation to increase the boundaries of the reservation, will employ the services of C. M. O'Neill and John Irwin, attorneys, has been apparently decided by a meeting of the tribal council at Chiloquin, in which this much discussed move was ratified by a heavy majority.

The Indian bureau had taken the position that it had the authority to name attorneys for the Indians, the latter selecting the names of three individuals or firms. Superintendent West said at the hearing that he had no objection to the firm which the Indians saw fit to employ in this instance.

Brownsville Mill Property Is Sold; Bowman Purchaser

Brownsville, Or., Dec. 2.—The purchase is announced of the old Brownsville woolen mills property, including seven acres of ground, the right to half the water flumed from up the Calapooya river and the old buildings formerly used by the mills, which have been idle for half a dozen years.

J. L. Bowman, long ago owner of the mills, is the purchaser, and he says he proposes to renovate the buildings, add to them and revive the industry which once gave Brownsville the benefit of a payroll.

Bowman is owner of stores named after the "Brownsville Woolen Mills" in Portland and smaller towns, which were established when the mills here were in operation.
