Mrs. Leon Hirsch will be hostess for an informal bridge party Wednesday afternoon and will entertain in a similar manner Thursday afternoon.

Miss Kathryn Seller returned to the city Monday from Wellesley to spend the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Seller. Miss Jane Seller arrived in the city from Mills college, where she has been in school.

Albany, Dec. 20.—Miss Terres DeLores Calavan and Hugh Kirkpatrick, both of Lebanon, were married at Albany by the Rev. D. V. Poling, pastor of the First Presbyterian church Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick are graduates of the University of Oregon.

Mrs. Frederick Kiehl has returned from an extended trip through the East.

Of interest to Portland friends is the news of the marriage of Miss Edna Metcalf and Robert S. Cissell, which took place Sunday in San Francisco at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. H. C. Stocke. The bride is a graduate of Reed college and also attended Washington high school in this city. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Metcalf of Portland. Following her graduation from Reed she was a teacher in the Albany high school for three years and attended the Sargent school of physical education at Cambridge, Mass., for a year. Mr. Cissell is physical director of the Mission high school at San Francisco, where they will make their home.

The Marigold club was entertained Friday afternoon by Mrs. Joseph H. Terwilliger at her residence, 1126 Macadam street. Two tables of bridge were played, honors falling to Mrs. J. M. Phiffs. Guests were: Mrs. Phiffs, Mrs. F. L. Marshall, Mrs. A. W. Robbins, Mrs. C. O. Somain, Mrs. H. F. McIntosh, Mrs. C. A. Eddy, Mrs. E. Bergmann.

The many friends of Mrs. Fred Rasch will be glad to know that she is convalescing satisfactorily after a serious operation at St. Vincent's hospital. Mrs. Rasch expects to leave the hospital for her home in Belmont street Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Beach are spending a few days at their country home near Turner this week. They expect to return to the city for Christmas.

Merit pervades Allan Dwan's production of "The Scoffer," which opened an engagement at the Columbia theatre Saturday. An intensive drama, it opens the eyes to some of life's follies, yet in no sense is it guilty of moralizing.

While the play is unusual in its power to command attention, artistic acting on the part of no less than 10 players is a feature worthy of praise. Mary Thurman, James Kirkwood and Noah Beery share first honors, each of these well-known artists drawing character studies which are memorable. Rhea Mitchell, a Portland girl, Philo McCullough, Ward Crane, Eugene Bessner and Bernard Durning also display knowledge of dramatic proportions, while John Burton and George Stone do their bits faultlessly. At times the dramatic acting inspires to applause through admiration of artistry. The directorial ability of Allan Dwan is discernable throughout the production.

The story, which is cleverly evolved in "The Scoffer," concerns the misfortune of one Dr. Stannard Wayne.

BURGESS' BEDTIME STORIES

Mrs. Grouse Plunges Just in Time
By Thornton W. Burgess
Who hesitates when danger presses His lack of self-control confesses.

MRS. GROUSE never makes the mistake of hesitating. Long ago she learned the folly of that. In time of danger she acts quickly. She knows that that is the only way to escape. There is an old saying that he who hesitates is lost and in no other part of the Great World is this more true than in the Green Forest and on the Green Meadows.

Quick as she was, Terror the Goshawk was quicker

While Rusty flattened himself against the trunk of that tree hidden by the snow covered branches. As soon as he was sure Terror had gone Rusty came out where he could see better. Down below was the hole in the snow made by Mrs. Grouse, but it was half filled and there was not the least thing to show that Mrs. Grouse was still down there somewhere. But she was. Rusty knew that. Somewhere under the snow she was squatting close to the ground, and there she would stay until she was sure that the danger was past.

Rotary Women Plan Holiday Giving
THE Women of Rotary have caught the spirit and the real meaning of Christmas and they are converting it into action in making this a giving holiday.

The entire deliberations of the meeting concerned those less fortunate than the members. The president, Mrs. W. D. Deaver, spoke of the generous response of the women to her call for money and clothing for the families, the names of whom had been secured from the Public Welfare bureau, and then she asked all to meet at the home of one of the members immediately after the luncheon to sort and pack the gifts, which are to be delivered the day before Christmas.

The principal speaker was Miss Amelia Feary of the Public Welfare bureau, who outlined the work of rehabilitating the families that come under their care, giving many interesting details on the splendid work of this institution. Miss Feary also announced the forthcoming entertainment at the Helig which the Y. W. C. A. is giving. There were 55 women present.

A splendid program has been prepared for the Central W. C. T. U. Christmas service. Monday, December 22, at 8 o'clock, room A, Central library. A business session will be held from 2 to 3. Variety Rules New Program At Hipp

THE romantic appeal of Hawaiian melody and dancing set in a background of island scenery proves the ruling spirit of the current Hippodrome bill, "Jonis, the Hawaiian dancer, and her four native assistants, offer an act of unusual merit.

Charles DeLand and Kathryn Blair excite a great deal of comment with their skit entitled "Breaking It Gently," in which the jealousy of Marcellus and the playfulness of Kathryn are dominant elements. Kramer and Pattison are a pair of physical culture exponents. In spite of their pretensions to the contrary they have the appearance of raw meat eaters. Ruclic merriment permeates the act presented by Road and McCurdy; two homely, guffawing funsters from Hick's Corners. Adelaide Boothy and Charles Everdeen make faces and funny noises in alleged imitation of birds and animals.

The movie attraction at the Hipp is "The Hope," a highly exciting and romantic melodrama from Dreamy Lane.

Majestic
Motion picture patrons have an opportunity to see the remarkable home of Charles Loomis, famous naturalist and Indian explorer, in the Goldwyn picture, "Honest Hutch," made under the direction of Charles Badger, which is at the Majestic theatre. In the film story "Honest Hutch" imagines himself in a lavishly furnished Mexican home. To portray this arrangements were made with the famous naturalist to use his domicile, which contains some of the most remarkable Indian relics known in America. The present bill at the Majestic also features Harold Lloyd in "Number, Please," a comedy that gives Lloyd and his oft-times interesting supporting company many situations for the development of humor.

One can't get happy on bootleg whiskey. It keeps reminding him that he isn't carrying enough life insurance.
