

RICH WOMAN SLAIN AND BODY LEFT ON LONELY BEACH

New York, Dec. 21.—(I. N. S.)—A murder mystery involving a beautiful woman was added to New York's crime wave today. A woman, about 30 years of age and dressed in deep mourning was found on a lonely stretch of sand at Long Beach. She had been shot through the right eye.

MAY HAVE BEEN WIDOW

Though completely mystified as to the circumstances of her death, police believed at noon today that they had identified the body as that of Mrs. John A. Lee, widow of a prominent physician of Brooklyn. Dr. Lee, who was head of the Kings County Medical society, died about six months ago. He was a noted cancer expert.

It is believed she was murdered elsewhere and her body carried to the beach. There were no marks of a struggle around the corpse. No revolver was found.

The woman had the appearance of wealth, and her body carried to the beach. Her clothing was expensive and bore the imprint of a fashionable New York modiste. Her hat had been imported from Paris. Her underclothes were silk. There was a handkerchief near the body, but it contained no cards or anything else to identify the woman.

NEWLY-WEDS FOUND DEAD; MYSTERY IS TACKLED BY POLICE

Chicago, Dec. 21.—(U. P.)—Mrs. Paul Wulliemer and her husband were found dead in their apartment Saturday. They were found in a rooming house in a little apartment at 640 Kemper street and the neighborhood in the house were much interested in the attractive couple of newly weds.

Interest turned to concern when nothing more was heard from them—no sound at all from the apartment that housed a merry wedding party Saturday night. They told their fears to the police.

The police broke down the door Monday night and found the honeymooners on the floor. Both were dead.

The table still bore the remains of a meal. Flowers were in a vase on the table, still fresh. A fire burned in the gas log.

On the table was an empty wine bottle and two glasses.

Chemists are examining the few drops of wine left in the bottle. They say they are certain the mystery will be solved when the analysis is completed.

CRIME INCREASES

Police Commissioner Enright's curfew order went into effect last night. A number of late-night pedestrians were stopped and searched by policemen in unfrequented streets after midnight. Some of them were found to be carrying loaded revolvers which they explained were for self-protection.

The police department is adopting other measures in addition to the curfew. Automobile patrols have been established in some parts of town.

The automobiles are filled with men from the strong arm squad, who have been withdrawn from Greenwich village where they were on duty against gangsters.

PRIVATE WATCHMEN GUARD HOMES OF CHICAGO RICH

Chicago, Dec. 21.—(U. P.)—In an effort to combat the crime wave which has swept Chicago since the advent of cold weather, wealthy citizens have employed private detectives to guard their homes.

Roger Gale, Pinkerton detective, while patrolling the street in front of the home of Cyrus H. McCormick, harvest king, last night, was held for four men, three of them in soldiers' uniforms and one, John Johnson, wearing a sailor's uniform. Gale, firing from his pocket, wounded the soldier and captured him. The others escaped.

Ashland Speeds Up Work on Streets Around Lithia Park

Ashland, Or., Dec. 21.—The paving of Park street, which parallels Ashland creek on the south side of Lithia park and the street which circles the lithia fountains from Park to Alder street, is under way and bids fair to be finished this week if present dry weather continues. The paving includes a strip 24 feet wide by 1400 feet in length and will add much to the Lithia park automobile convenience.

Streets in Lithia park are gravelled and easy going, but this stretch, which leads from North Main to the park entrance, has always been rough, in winter. According to the city engineer, the cost will be $10,500. The work is being done by the Oskar Huber company.

Chicago Hotels Are Cutting Wages in Their Restaurants

Chicago, Dec. 21.—(I. N. S.)—Wages of waiters at the Morrison hotel, one of Chicago's leading hostels, will be reduced more than 20 per cent after January 1, according to announcement made today. Salaries of $90 per month now paid will be cut to $70. Wages of chambermaids and dishwashers also have been reduced.

Reduction in the prices of articles on the hotel's restaurant menu is assigned as the cause.

Officials of the cooks and waiters' union, it is declared, fear that other hotels and restaurants will make similar reductions and are planning to endeavor to induce owners of the Morrison hotel to countermand the reduction order.

Rescue Plane Burns; Naval Aviators Safe

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 21.—(I. N. S.)—Lieutenant F. B. Johnson's airplane, one of the two sent from the Rockaway naval station to search the Adirondacks for the missing naval balloons, was burned up here this morning. Lieutenant Johnson and his helper are uninjured. The plane developed engine trouble immediately after taking off for Glenns Falls and came down aflame.

GAS RATE HEARING CLOSES; DECISION IS EXPECTED SOON

Early decision on the application of the Portland Gas & Coke company for an increased rate was promised by the Oregon public service commission at the close of a five day hearing Monday afternoon. Seven days were allowed for the filing of briefs by the gas company and by opponents of the proposed increase and, according to Chairman Buchtel of the commission, final decision probably will be rendered before January 1.

The application calls for an increase of approximately 45 per cent over existing gas rates and is based on the advance in price which the company will be asked to pay for oil from which gas is manufactured after December 31.

OIL PRICE INCREASES

The present price of 74 1/2 cents per barrel is fixed by a six-year contract with the Union Oil company, which expires the last day of this month, after which the market price of $2.75 per barrel will prevail.

The oil companies refuse to enter into new contracts for the supply of crude oil, according to officials of the gas company, and provide that the gas company shall supply at any price. The proposed gas rate is therefore made flexible and would rise or fall from month to month in conformity to the existing price of oil.

The principal objection raised to the proposed rate was that it lays a higher proportionate burden of increase on the use of gas for domestic purposes than on the larger industrial consumption.

WHAT INCREASE MEANS

The monthly gas bill of a consumer using 3000 cubic feet would rise from the present rate of $2.85 to $4.59 while the rate for a monthly consumption of 20,000 cubic feet would rise from $19 to $23.25, according to figures submitted by the company.

For house heating purposes the proposed rate provides an advance from $5 to $9.20 for 10,000 feet; an increase from $10 to $17.20 for a consumption of 20,000 feet per month, and from $15 to $23.25 for consumers using 30,000 feet per month.

Hilmar Papet, general manager of the Portland Gas & Coke company, occupied the witness stand during the greater part of the hearing on Monday and endeavored to show the fairness of the rate submitted by the company.

WAGE SITUATION DISCUSSED

Proposed reduction of the number of heat units in gas furnished was also taken up Monday afternoon. The present standard required by law in Oregon is 570 British thermal units, compared with 400 units in Washington and California, where hearings are under way looking to reductions.

Possible reduction in wages paid by the gas company was introduced by City Attorney La Roche, who stated that the cost of labor and material is taking a general downward trend. In support of this contention La Roche called upon Arthur W. Jones, director of the public employment bureau of the city, who testified that there are between 8000 and 10,000 idle men in the city.

WILL NOT CUT PAYROLL

Unemployment in various industries ranges from 10 to 25 per cent in Portland, according to Jones.

It was previously shown at the hearing that wages paid by the gas company had been advanced from 80 per cent to 200 per cent in various operating departments and officials of the company testified that there was no intention on the part of the management to reduce these wage scales.

VANCOUVER HALTS FIRE ARMS SALE

Vancouver, Wash., Dec. 21.—Provision that no dealer or other person shall sell fire arms without a license, issued upon application to the city council, is included in an ordinance presented to the city council Monday evening. This license will be good for a three-month period and will cost $1.

An old ordinance, providing that no person shall revolve in any window a permit issued by the chief of police and signed by two reputable citizens, is repealed by the proposed law. The new ordinance also provides that every dealer shall file a record of his firearm sales with the chief of police before 10 o'clock the following morning. No firearms may be placed on exhibition in any window.

Sentiment on the ordinance is divided. It will probably be passed upon at the next meeting of the council.

TARIFF LAW WOULD BE PROHIBITIVE

by the house and an attempt is made to jam it through the senate.

As written, the bill provides practically prohibitory rates of tariff duty on wool and hair and the major components. It will be effective for 10 months from passage, by which time it is expected that the incoming congress will have enacted the wool tariff revision policy pledged by the Republicans, and that the emergency bill is ostensibly framed to meet wool and hair needs.

WOOL AND COTTON GOODS

Only two classes of manufactured articles are included in the bill. One class consists of cotton goods including long staple cotton, upon which a high tariff is imposed. The other includes wool and hair advanced beyond the scoured stage, and wool manufactures in which wool and hair are the major components. In the latter class the tariff is 45 cents a pound in addition to existing rates of duty.

Representative Henry W. Watson of Pennsylvania, Republican member of the ways and means committee, is loud in his condemnation of the bill on the ground that it takes care of the agricultural sections of the country and not of the nation's industries, and declares it will result in increasing the cost of living. But both Republican and Democratic representatives from the western and southern states have decided to stand behind the bill, as well as one designed to advance loans to farmers from the $100,000,000 profits of the federal reserve banks.

RAINEY ATTACKS BILL

In addition, the proposition is advanced, in a bill by Representative Stevenson of North Carolina, that the $100,000,000 worth of German and Austrian property now held by the alien property custodian be used to promote trade with those two nations, now that the war has ended.

In a minority report filed just before midnight Monday, Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, Democratic member of the ways and means committee, bitterly attacked the emergency tariff bill, saying it had been prepared without adequate hearings and without the testimony of experts and that he believed the rates imposed to be "practically prohibitive."

RETIALIATION LIKELY

"It amounts to an embargo in times of peace," Rainey declared. "It will inevitably yield to retaliatory tariffs. Every commercial nation is prepared with means for real retaliation and there is grave danger that they will quickly respond to the challenge."

In that connection, it is recalled that the British house of commons has just passed a bill prohibiting the importation into England of any foreign made dyes of a class or quality the same as is manufactured in Great Britain. This runs counter to the dye protection bill sponsored by Representative Longworth of Ohio, which it is understood Senator Knox of Pennsylvania is planning to add onto the emergency tariff bill when it comes from the house.

"This bill is protection-mad," Rainey says in his report. "The medicine now being administered will not cure the patient and it is for the farmers and other industries this bill should become law, but it may make matters worse."

Chief Jenkins and 2 Patrolmen Go to Eugene for Suspects

Chief of Police Leo V. Jenkins and Patrolmen Chamberlain and Klingsmith left in an automobile for Eugene this morning to identify and bring back the two men held there as suspects in connection with the assault of Chamberlain Sunday and the robbery of several homes in the neighborhood of Columbia boulevard.

Jenkins said if Chamberlain identifies the white man, the negro held there as suspects he would bring them back to Portland Wednesday morning and have the other victims who got a good look at the men who robbed them try to identify them also.

The men were taken from a train in Eugene and turned over to Special Agent Cotturi of the Southern Pacific, who notified the chief.

SOVIET SWORD IS DECLARED SHEATHED

the enumeration of booty captured by our armies."

"How long do you expect this period to last?" Trotsky was asked. He replied:

"In this regard you ought to look for enlightenment beyond boundaries of soviet Russia; in those official headlines where it is guaranteed that permanent campaigns against soviet Russia are being manufactured."

PEACE IS WANTED

"We want lasting peace. We wanted peace before the Polish war broke out last spring. We should like to see an entire world of great concessions now that we have offered amnesty to the Wrangel crowd and in view of the utter hopelessness of their undertaking."

"Russian peace, however, was not wanted in Paris and London. The result has been that after a bitter struggle and immeasurable losses Poland got less than we had been offering her. Wrangel's adventure in factories has swallowed up some tens of thousands of lives and a few billions of francs. The result is that Wrangel's horde were annihilated."

"What do you regard as the chief problem of the world?" Trotsky was asked. He responded:

"The economic problem. You know that I recently returned from Donetz basin where I, together with a commission sent by the world peace congress, studied conditions in the coal and iron fields. We learned that the metal industries and the coal mines in the Donetz basin are now beyond a larger either from Armenia or the Caucasus."

TO SPEED OUTPUT

"It is quite possible to double or even triple the production of coal within the next few months. I am convinced that the measures taken by the government guarantee satisfactory results. We are restoring the big mines in the south. Railway transportation is improving. The attention of the country is being directed from questions of politics and war to economic construction. We are very much interested in international trade. Still more we would like to be left in peace. On this condition we would be ready to unsharpen the sword in the future."

"What are your purely military problems?" Trotsky was asked. He replied:

CLAIMS ARMY IS LOYAL

"We wish to decrease the numbers of men in the army to 25 per cent, to increase the fighting ability of the army. The capitalist press has fed its readers on fancy stories about the alleged disintegration of the Red army and about Comrade Budenny's betrayal and so on. There still may be in Europe some numskulls who believe such tales as these. As a matter of fact, during the operations against Wrangel the Red army reached a new level in efficiency and strategy as well as in heroism. The Russians showed themselves good fighters. Our infantry in particular scored a great success. Among the many trophies captured from the Wrangel forces we have not only anything that we did not already possess."

"What about the Caucasus and the Near East?" Trotsky was asked. Trotsky replied:

"Our policy there is the same as in the Danube and the Narova (the districts where the Red Russians fought Wrangel and the Poles)—a policy of fighting for peace."

INTENSE WORK AHEAD

"Statements of the capitalist countries, regardless of their (thousand pardons) blockheadness in questions of revolution and socialism ought to understand that our profoundest interests—political, economic and cultural—demand a policy of peace and intense work."

"What about the predictions of the early collapse of the soviet regime?" Trotsky was asked. He replied:

"I remind you that Premier Lloyd George expressed his belief in the soviet regime would soon come. He said that 'such a mad regime could not possibly last.' Permit me to remind you of the persistence of some statesmen in their role of unlucky prophets. As to our mad regime I am really at a loss to say anything in its defense. To be sure we have no hereditary kings at the head of our state as is the case in well conducted countries. We miss thereby the court life and its ennobling influences on the people. We have no monarchs, no vicounts, no peers, no generals nor any exalted sharpers clad in solemn judicial robes."

"We also lack sadly a house of lords to whom Lloyd George referred in 1908 as 'parasitical successors of miscreants and parasites, but who, nevertheless, even now continue to decorate certain civilized countries.' We have no bankers in Russia, and therefore no public debt, in our strict conformity with all the rules of modern civilization feverishly enrich themselves during war at the expense of others. We have no professional parliamentarians who once in five years manage the exploited masses vote for one or the other of the existing bourgeois parties. All legislation and executive orders of our republic are subject to the congress of workers and peasants which meets every December in the person of thousands of real workers and peasants. Our aim is to raise the prosperity and culture of the people on the basis of equality. We hold that all are equal as to duties as well as privileges."

"We want peace but we are going to hit back if we are attacked. It is quite natural that our order of things in the opinion of certain gentlemen is a mad regime."

HAMON 'MASTERFUL' MAN; EYE LURED GIRL

—If Mr. Hamon had not—well, Mr. Hamon asked me one day if I would go riding with him occasionally if he bought himself an automobile.

"I knew then—realized fully—what sort of a man he was. My instinct was guiding me truly. I laughed at him.

WOULD BUY CAR

"He should never laugh at a masterful man. It makes him grim and determined, and in the end, gets him what he wants."

"And then one day I did go to his office. I did not like him. I despised him. But—it was just a masterful man and I had laughed at him."

SLEPT IN AUTOMOBILE

"The man really became wonderful in my eyes after we had become sweethearts—before he got to beating me."

"Those early years of our romance were wearying. Night after night I have slept in the rear of his little automobile at the site of some oil prospect which he was examining. The struggle and the exhausting work and hours told on him."

"He'd say to me: 'Clara, I'm going to quit; the game's not worth the effort.'"

"But always I'd cry out to him: 'No, we won't quit; it's a glorious, a wonderful game, and we're going to win.'"

"Jake Hamon won—he won first fortune in the oil business, and then he won power in politics."

HELPED MAKE FORTUNE

"But women are all like me, I guess," she said, "they are happy when their man succeeds. They wouldn't want even to have any of the luster of his greatness shine upon them."

A grim tone suddenly entered into the telling of the story.

"Every dollar he had, every political influence he had, I helped him achieve. I say this now because I feel that I owe it to myself and to my family to protect my standing by giving out this information."

LOGGERS' LEGION VOTES WAGE CUT

More than 17,000 members of the Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen have been thrown out of employment as a result of shutting down lumber mills and logging camps in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, according to Robert S. Gill, editor of the Four L Bulletin, official magazine of the organization. The legion has a membership of approximately 25,000 employees and employers in the lumber industry of the Northwest.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the legion at 6:30 p. m. Monday at the Portland hotel it was voted to lower the minimum wage scale for common labor in the mills and camps from $4.40 to $3.60 per eight hour day. The new scale represents a reduction of 10 cents an hour and will be the basis for wages paid by employers under the jurisdiction of the Loyal Legion after January 1.

The reduction in wages was urged by employers in the lumber industry as necessary to meet the decline in price of lumber products and the decreasing demand. A majority of the lumber mills in Oregon and other Northwestern states are closed down for repairs and others are working with greatly reduced forces, according to officials of the legion.

Resolutions adopted at the meeting Monday afternoon urge employers to confer with their employees before making reductions in wages scales and were requested to call meetings of retail merchants supplying mill employees, with a view of securing lower prices on clothing, groceries and other necessities. A resolution calling for time and a half pay for all overtime in mills and camps was presented and action deferred to a future meeting of the directors.

Robert S. Gill was elected executive secretary of the legion, an office created to take the place of that of secretary-manager which has been held by P. L. Abby since the organization of the legion in January, 1919. Gill will continue his duties as editor of the bulletin.

Horse Hops Into Auto; Kicks and Injures Occupants

Tired of rambling about the city streets last evening, a horse owned by H. Cohen, 252 Sherman street, climbed into a Ford operated by John Bachman at Third and Main streets, injuring three of the occupants and damaging the machine.

Cohen left his horse and wagon at Front and Main streets. The harness was not of the strongest fabric and the horse broke loose and started a tour of the city streets.

The horse began to hunt excitement at once. At Third and Main streets Bachman drove by in a Ford. Seized by a sudden desire to join the party the horse tried to climb into the tonneau.

The machine was badly damaged. E. Lund, 945 Kerby street, was treated at the emergency hospital for a bad kick on the head and John Lund, 964 Kerby, and Christ Anderson, 83 Northwick street, took home minor bruises.

Bonus Bill Fight, Led by Houston, To Begin Wednesday

(By United News)

Washington, Dec. 21.—Opponents to the passage of the Fordney soldiers' bonus bill, headed by Secretary of the Treasury Houston, will have their innings before the senate finance committee, beginning Wednesday. The secretary, who has repeatedly gone on record against the bonus grant, as did his predecessor, Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, will be the first witness "up" in all probability and will undoubtedly consume the whole time of the initial hearing.

Following him will be heard a number of representatives of New York firms who will protest against some of the tax features of the bill. As the measure passed the house, it carried additional income taxes, 1 per cent on those between $500 and $10,000, 2 per cent on those between $10,000 and $20,000, and 3 per cent on those above the last named figure. In addition there are taxes on stock bond sales and transfers of produce and real estate taxes, and levies on tobacco, cigars and cigarettes.

Holstein Milker of Seattle Establishes New World Record

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 21.—(U. P.)—A new world's record for milk and butter production for one year has been made by the pure-bred Holstein cow Regis Fierstede Prospect, owned by the Carnation stock farms of Seattle, it is announced by H. G. Stubbs, manager of the farms.

During the 365 days ending December 19 the famous cow gave 37,541.4 pounds of milk and 1,445.9 pounds of butter. This is 958 pounds more milk than the former world's record, which is held by the California cow Tilly Alacarta. Her butter record was beaten by 122 pounds. The largest amount of milk produced in one day by the Carnation company's cow was 83 quarts. Her daily average throughout the year was 48 quarts. This is 3 1/2 times as much as the average milk cow gives.

The test was conducted under the supervision of the State Agricultural college and the Holstein-Friesian association.
