MEDICAL SCHOOL'S

done by the Medical School of the University of Oregon, and glimpses of what that department desires to egation to the legislature at its meeting Monday night by Dr. Richard B. Dillehunt, dean of the col-

The dean appeared before the delegation in furtherance of the request for an made of the legislature when it meets in authorities had the promise from a benany appropriation the state might make, dollar for dollar.

$600,000 IS NEEDED

It would require $600,000 to complete and equip the college buildings on Mar-quam hill. It was desired that the state give half of this sum, Dr. Dillehunt ex-

Dr. Dillehunt presented various views of the medical department buildings now ir, use as well as those for which additional money was desired. He also had at the meeting four crippled children now undergoing reconstruction treatment at the hospital of the department and from their cases illustrated one phase of the work being done by it, He contended that the major work of the de-partment was the investigation and dispreventive and corrective methods of treatment, not the mere production of new doctors. The institution, he said, was working first to advance preventive and corrective treatment as far and as rapidly as possible and then to furnish a minimum of highly trained practitioners to put these advanced nethods into use. TO AID NEEDY

And, he told the delegation, it was the effort tof the department so to build its equipment and broaden its field that it would be possible to furnish both surgical and medical treatment of the highst skill to all those of the state who might be unable to secure such treatment otherwhere by reason of circumstances.

Oscar W. Horne, former member of the delegation and author of the Horne bill providing for a school for the blind at Portland supported by a millage tax, appeared before the delegation with a request for an appropriation of $40,000 for the immediate construction of the school. This request was made necessary, he explained, by the fact that the millage tax of one twenty-fifth of a mill authorized by the people would not be available until 1922 so that the appropriation by the coming session was necssary to avoid a two-year delay. REALTY LICENSE BILL

Frank McCrillis, speaking for the Realty board, explained the provisions and purposes of the proposed bill advocated by that organization for the licensing and regulation of realty dealers and agents. He told the delegaion that the purpose of the measure advocated by the realty men was merely to could be enforced by the department of government which was to be given the duty of administering it. He showed, also, that the law would be more than self supporting and would therefore make money for the state rather than be an additional burden upon the taxpayers.

Municipal Judge Rossman and Deputy United States Attorney Flegel urged that the legislature make provision for the treatment of drug addicts at the state hospital for the insane, contendlng that this could not be done adequately in the county jails.

The delegation accepted an invitation extended by City Commissioner John M. Mann to visit the Cedars at noon on Wednesday, December 29. It is Mann's desire that the state should provide funds for the maintenance and operation of this institution.

Fromme Will Urge Passage of New Law For Killing of Elk

With the idea of keeping the elk population within the limits of natural forage in the Olympic national forest and thus prevent the animals from starving in the winter or wandering down into settlements and becoming semi-domesti-cated and troublesome, as many of the herds in Oregon have done, R. L. Fromme, district forest inspector in charge of game preservation, will have introduced in the Washington legislature this winter, a bill providing for the shooting of a limited number of elk each year.

Fromme is in Portland today conferring with forest service officials.
